

Las Cruces and the Mesilla Valley

WATER PROSPECTS BRIGHT SAYS REDDING

Already 18 Inches of Snow on the Mountains of New Mexico.

Las Cruces, N. M., Nov. 15.—Edward Redding of El Paso, who is employed by the United States government in taking an irrigation census of New Mexico, has returned to Mesilla Park from Rio Arriba and San Juan counties, and expects to leave within a few days for the Pecos valley. He states that the prospects for water in the Rio Grande for next year are encouraging, there already having been 18 inches of snowfall in the mountain country in the northern part of the territory. The rivers of San Juan county are now carrying a good supply of water, these rivers being feeders for the Rio Grande. Everything is in fine condition in that section of the country, the farmers have put their first winter irrigation on the lands, and they are now turning the water loose, so that the Rio Grande should be carrying considerable water before the first of the year. Although the northern counties may have more water and thereby raise larger crops of fruit, Mr. Redding states that there is no comparison between the climate of northern New Mexico and the Mesilla valley and El

The rain here was preceded by one of the worst sand and dust storms of the season.

LAS CRUCES PERSONALS AND MINOR HAPPENINGS.

They will have a big parade on account of the harvest carnival and fair, and will also advertise the Thanksgiving football game between the Agricultural college and the Roswell Military institute. The boys will give the "serpentine" march on Main street. Work was commenced today on the foundations for the new May block on Main street. Richard S. Allen of Silver City, was in town yesterday on his way home from El Paso where he had a collection of minerals on exhibit during the big fair. Mr. Allen had not been in Las Cruces for about 20 years and was very agreeably surprised at the remarkable improvements and the advancement in commercial business here. GROCERY STORE ROBBED BY BUNGLING BURGLARS.

Las Cruces, N. M., Nov. 15.—Freeman & Walker's grocery store has been burglarized, the appearance of the work indicating that it was that of amateurs. The panels of a rear door were broken out, the thieves gaining entrance to a storeroom. They then broke another door, which admitted them to another room, from which they gained access to the main store. The cash register was relieved of its change, amounting to about $11 in dimes and nickels, all that had been left in the drawer. It is supposed that the thieves also took cigars and other goods of such nature, but it is impossible to tell just what the loss on the merchandise was. So far no clues have been obtained, other than that the work was that of amateurs, as evidenced by the bungling way in which an entrance was effected. The burglary was discovered by Mr. Walker, who immediately notified the county officers.
