How to Have the Best Cough Syrup and Save $2. by Making it at Home.

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large quantity of plain syrup. If you take one pint of granulated sugar, add 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir about two minutes, you have as good syrup as money could buy.

Will Win in Fair Trial

Many Years' Experience Causes Mrs. Ellis to Think She Can Predict Outcome.

New Hartford, Iowa—"I think I am well qualified," writes Mrs. L. Ellis, of this place, "to recommend Cardul, and strongly advise all women to give it a trial. For the past 24 years, I had been afflicted with troubles peculiar to women. They made life a burden for me. I tried home doctors, and various remedies without relief. At last I began to take Cardul, according to directions, and now I am entirely cured of all my afflictions."

For more than half a century, this purely vegetable, gentle-acting, woman's remedy, has been in successful use in the treatment of just such troubles. Not only has it helped sick women to health, but as a strengthening tonic for weak, debilitated women, it has been found of more than ordinary value.

Woman's Stomach

It Causes Much Misery if not Kept in Condition.

Many women who would not tolerate anything but a scrupulously clean stomach, continue day in and day out to suffer from an uneasy stomach, where food ferments, turns sour and becomes putrid.

It is just as easy for a woman to keep her stomach clean as to keep her kitchen clean; in fact it is much easier, and does not require hours of toil. One or two M-I-O-N-A stomach tablets after each meal will in a short time thoroughly clean and renovate the most distressed stomach. They will do more; they will put strength and energy into the walls of the stomach, and cause the juices of digestion to flow freely, so that all food will promptly digest.

SCHOOL BOARD REFUSES TO BUY RAWHIDES FOR WHIPPING PUPILS

Requisition From Principal Refused—Expenses of the Schools in October Heavily Improved Ordered.

Members of El Paso's school board refused, at the meeting Monday night, to purchase rawhide whips for use on the children.

"I do not believe in corporal punishment, I refuse to O. K. any part of the requisition made by Miss Myra Prater, of the Beall school, but I do recommend the purchase of red ink and thumb tacks," declared trustee E. H. Irvin, referring to the rawhides. He explained that the red ink is used for marking deficiencies and the thumb tacks are for tacking up exhibits.

In her request for new whips, Miss Prater said that the two old ones are worn out. R. L. Dorbandt remarked that in his day dogwood was good enough. The recommendation of Dr. Irvin was carried out and the rawhide request denied.

Discussing improvements at the Highland Park school, Dr. Irvin said: "We learned that we could not erect the two new rooms for less than $1700, so we boxed in the end of the hall at a cost of $40, and are using that for the present. It serves the purpose."

W. H. Winter made a motion that in future only the action of the board and not the discussions thereon be noted in the minutes of the meetings by the secretary. This carried, Dr. Irvin jokingly voting no. Winter said that the minutes as prepared by F. E. Sawyer required too much time to read. Harper agreed with him and seconded his motion, which carried.

Resignation Accepted. On recommendation of the internal committee, the resignation of Mrs. Mary B. Gleason as teacher of the fifth grade at the Beall school was accepted and Miss Jennie Nichols appointed in her place. The request of Miss Edna Thomas for leave of absence during the balance of the school term, to enable her to finish her normal course, was granted.

The matter of erecting a water hydrant in front of the Highland Park school was referred to the external committee with power to act, it being stated by auditor Sawyer that the nearest fire hydrant is over 200 feet distant from the school building. A letter was read from Frank Rich, secretary of the Fair association, in which he thanked the school board for its exhibit at the Fair and said it had attracted much favorable comment from the visitors.

The request of principal White for a $25 library table for the high school was denied.

Repairs and Supplies. It was reported that the water tank at the Beall school was in a dangerous condition and it was voted to let a contract to A. B. Palmer, of Palmer & Barnes, to repair the plumbing and install a hot water service at a cost of $12. Superintendent Crozier's request for paint with which to paint the high school building was granted.

MITCHIM SAID TO BE VERY SICK

J. F. Mitchim may go to trial in the 34th district court next Monday on a cot. For three weeks he has been confined to his home at 1107 Boulevard suffering from the grip. Monday a telegram was sent to his brother, Charles Mitchim, at De Soto, Mo., requesting him to hurry here.

NOGALES HEALTH BOARD IS BEING REORGANIZED

Nogales, Ariz., Nov. 15.—The mayor and city council of Nogales are reorganizing the board of health. Dr. Kingsley has been elected city physician and with the city officials is active in putting Nogales in the best possible sanitary state.

Margaret Medina an old Mexican woman here, was found dead by her bed.

A. A. Hudgin, of Nogales, has been awarded the sweepstake prize of the territorial fair for the finest herd of cattle exhibited.

Miss Himmels, who was the Western Union operator at Nogales, has gone to California, and Mrs. Monroe is in charge.

The semi-monthly club dance was largely attended.

The Mormon colonists at Rillito, near Tucson, have grown fine crops of peaches, showing southern Arizona is adapted to this crop.

school fence was granted, as was a request for superintendent E. A. Ross for 300 feet of 1x12 Texas pine for use in the manual training department. This will, according to Prof. Ross, cost not over $15.

Requests for screens on the second floor of the Vilas school and the installation of glass to take the place of three broken panes was granted, auditor Sawyer being authorized to make the purchase in Chicago where he has found that he can buy the wire cheaper than here.

Secretary Sawyer reported the receipt of $136.90 from the Alemanna Fire insurance company on a returned policy and part from Mrs. Lella T. Moore for express charges paid on a package which it was at first believed was intended for the schools. He said that this brought collections up to $234.09.

To Make Art Exhibit. A request that art exhibits from the 11 El Paso schools be made before the meeting of the State Teachers' association in Abilene during the holidays, found favor in the eyes of the board and the expense incident thereto, which will not exceed $5, was authorized. Superintendent Crozier, answering a query from Mr. Winter as to whether or no the schools would benefit by the exhibit, said: "It will attract the attention of school teachers and when we need good teachers we will be glad to get them after they have seen the work that we do in our schools. It will also prove beneficial to the city, for it will bring new residents here."

Screens, brackets and shelves for holding window flower boxes at the Moss school were allowed, as were also the extensions of the telephones in the private offices of superintendents Crozier and Ross at the Moss school and of principal White at the high school. All bills allowed by the finance committee were ordered paid.

Trustee Winter suggested that the auditor be required to investigate and read gas and water meters and the balance of the board thinking this a good suggestion, adopted it.

Pay for School House. Dolores Delgado, who owns the adobe house used by the Beall school for its overflow, asked pay for the summer months because the furniture of the school was in the house and the key was kept by the school board. Harper said no written lease had been made and there was a question as to whether or no she could be compelled to pay for the vacation months. However, a compromise was suggested by the recommendation of Irvin, seconded by Harper, that she be paid for the balance of the school year, which is to June 1.

Those present at the meeting were Dr. B. M. Wortham, presiding; Dr. E. H. Irvin, Robert L. Dorbandt, W. H. Winter, and John H. Harper, secretary. F. E. Crozier and E. A. Ross, Trustees Harry A. Carpenter and W. L. Peabody are both in the east.

Heavy Expenses.

October was a heavy month for expenses in the school system. The amount was purchased. The total expense was $25,019.02, by schools as follows:

Table with columns: School, Total for School, Total for District. Rows include Alamo school, Aoy school, Beall school, Douglas school, Franklin school, Highland Park school, High school, Lammar school, Mesa school, San Jacinto school, Sunset school, Vilas school, and Grand totals.

The report of superintendent N. R. Crozier on the second scholastic month ending October 28, showed the enrollment by schools as follows, showing a decreased attendance in all but four schools:

Table with columns: School, Net Enrollment. Rows include High School, Alamo school, Aoy school, Beall school, Douglas school, Franklin school, Highland Park school, Lammar school, Mesa school, San Jacinto school, Sunset school, Vilas school, and Grand total.

During the month 283 new pupils were enrolled, but despite this fact the enrollment is still 216 behind last year at this time.

E. A. Ross, superintendent of manual training, reported and declared the school exhibit at the El Paso fair for the best that has been shown in any exhibit in this city during the two years that manual training has been taught.

"The manual training class work throughout the system is running the most smoothly it has since it was started and it is by far the most effective that it has ever been," he says.

"In the grades it is better than in most cities of the United States, and in the high school, though limited, it is of excellent quality. The courses themselves are not standardized, as in other branches, and must be selected from the best schools elsewhere and carefully shaped to meet local needs. We are fortunate now in not having a weak teacher in the manual training department. The good results and harmony resulting far outweigh any other possible disadvantage. If for any reason the work could not be kept up to a high standard, it should be abolished entirely, as poor work done by poor teachers is an enormous waste of time, energy and money."

R. B. Stewart, a former National Stock Yards, Ill., cattleman, has arrived in El Paso for a visit with his son, Aldie Stewart, who is here for his health, and his two daughters.

Crab Orchard the Mecca Of American Fox Hunters

Seventeenth Annual Meeting of National Hunters' Association Attracts Lovers of the Sport in Large Numbers.

(By Frederick J. Haskin.)

THE present week sees the attention of the fox hunting world directed toward Crab Orchard, Kentucky, where the National Fox Hunters' association will hold its seventeenth annual meet. This association was formed in 1894, with rear admiral James E. Jouett, of the American navy, as president. It is held in the United States since then have been held under the general conditions laid down by this association. The registry books of the fox hounds of the United States are kept under association auspices, and the rules under which dogs are eligible for registry are made by it.

It is estimated that there are more than 50 organized fox hunting associations in the United States, with as many packs of hounds. In addition to these there are hundreds of private packs of from five to 25 couples, and throughout the south the hunters of different communities frequently bring their hounds together for a neighborly fox chase. As an organized sport, fox hunting is of comparatively recent origin, growing into public favor after the passing of the wolf and wild boar. The first pack of hounds kept exclusively for foxes was founded in 1750, and is today the Belvoir pack of England. The first fox hunting club in the United States was organized in Gloucester, Massachusetts, in 1766, and the second was the Brooklyn Hunt club, formed in 1781. The Montreal Hunt club of Canada was organized in 1826.

Varies in Different Sections. Fox hunting varies widely in different parts of the United States. In the eastern states, where the big hunt clubs are located, the sport takes the form of the English chase. Hounds bred after English standards constitute the packs, and all of the fashions and customs of the clubs are modeled after English standards. In New England, fox hunting takes the form of shooting the foxes. When the fox goes by, a well directed shot is relied on to end his flight. The southerner would have no patience with such a procedure. He regards the fox as an animal made for sport, and if he succeeds in eluding the hounds he is entitled to his liberty.

In the south, little attention is paid to the confirmation and appearance of the fox hounds. The thing that counts for a fox hunter is most interested in is that his dog shall give Sir Reynard the chase of his life. He cares little whether he has any pedigree, appearance, or anything else that is pleasing to the eye. If his hound has endurance without limit, a musical voice when in full cry, and a readiness for the chase at all times, his owner is ready to assert that his dog is indeed the best in the state.

Southerner Knows the Fox. The southerner knows the running habits of the fox to a nicety. He seldom rides after the hounds, but cuts across country to a place where he may watch the fox go by with the hounds following the trail. Dr. Haskin is popular with the business men of the east who have not the time to wait for the dogs to uncover a live fox.

Foxes Show Their Cunning. There are many unasked questions with regard to fox hunting. It is claimed by some that the foxes learn to run in relay. One fox will lead the chase until he is well winded and then give it over to another. It is related that a Western party of fox hunters on one occasion party of fox hunters were pursuing a fox. When Reynard had almost reached the limit of exhaustion, he ran into a hollow log and apparently waited until the dogs were close to follow the trail. Then he shot out the end of the log and ran with the fleetness of the wind. Again he showed signs of weariness, and ran into a gully, where he disappeared until the dogs arrived on the scene. Once more he disappeared, and apparently, at that time, by his moment's rest, and able to run faster than at any previous time in the chase. Still another time this same performance was observed, and by then the hounds were nearly exhausted. This time the fox circled around to the original hollow log, disappeared into it, and then out again. One of the hunters gave up the chase at this point and investigated the hollow log. A fox ran out, as if in a hurry, and the system of relay racing had been established by the foxes.

The red fox is said to be the fleetest-footed of all the animals in civilized communities. Combining with this fleetness of foot a cunning sagacity that has made his name synonymous with these traits, he very often is able to outwit his pursuers. Sometimes he will find it advantageous to take to "water." It is a curious fact that a dust is the poorest conveyor of scent to be found, and will keep the road for many miles, turning out only to allow travelers to pass. It is said also that a tired fox is more often lost than a fresh one. The fresh fox trusts to his heels for safety, while the tired one brings all his strategy into play. Sometimes he will walk on fences; at other times double his trail; and at other times make for plowed fields. Many tales are told illustrative of his cunning outside of the chase. Some of these, of course, are apocryphal. One hunter declares that a red fox stole one of his decoy ducks and used it in a terribly mangling way. He was in company with Ernest Rodgers at the time.

GREAT BRITAIN FACES POLITICAL CRISIS

Enough at this session has come up within the past few months. This has to do with the question of whether or not the labor unions may pay labor members in the house of commons.

They Get No Pay. The members of the English parliament receive no compensation for their work. It is purely an honorary position.

The vast majority of the members are of necessity in comfortable financial circumstances before entering politics. With the representatives of the labor party, however, it is different. They are selected from the ranks of the laboring men, and, of course, in a majority of cases have no resources, for this reason it has been the custom of the labor unions to pay their expenses.

In a suit recently brought in England, a decision was handed down which refused labor unions the right to use their money for political campaign expenses and to pay labor members in the house for their work.

The decision created a furor in labor circles, and the labor unions now demand that a bill be passed giving them the right to use their money for political purposes. Such a bill would get through the commons all right, but would have a hard time in the house of lords.

It is possible that the question may be settled by passing a measure providing for salaries for the members of the house of commons.

KILLED BY A TRAIN. Terrell, Texas, Nov. 15.—John Law, aged 35, was killed near town today, when he fell between the cars of a Texas & Pacific freight train and was terribly mangled. He was in company with Ernest Rodgers at the time.

Red Fox Not a Native. Comparatively few people are aware of the fact that the red fox is not a native of America. It was brought to Long Island in the middle of the eighteenth century to give the sportsmen of the then small city of New York a chance for a chase. Since then the red fox has spread over nearly all of the territory of the United States. It is claimed by American hunters that life in this big country has given him a fleetness of foot and a power of endurance that is not to be found in his cousin in Britain. This same condition is asserted to prevail with reference to American fox hounds. The American hunter will unhesitatingly assert that the fox hound of this country has more speed and endurance, that he has a sweeter voice when in full cry, and that he can perceive the scent much more accurately than the English fox hounds. The attitude of many American fox hunters is expressed in the words of one of them, who states "I don't care anything about the breed, they may be pointers for all that, what I want is a hound that can chase a fox." The English sportsmen have little patience with this view, and the best where the chase is often in hand, they favor a combination of the two conflicting views.

Transfer Made With Canada. A transfer of hounds recently took place that is of extraordinary interest to breeders in the United States and Canada. A number of couples were delivered by the Chevy Chase Hunt club of Washington, D. C. to a Canadian club, whose name has not been given out. This is the first instance where American hounds have been sent to Canada to form the nucleus of an important pack. Many of the American fox hunters have taken their dogs to England, and have participated in hunts there. They declare that the conditions under which fox hunting is done here and abroad are so different as to require different types of hounds. There the fox is well fed, and is also much less timid than in America, where the hounds have been sent to Canada to form the nucleus of an important pack. WOMEN desirous of having quiet homes should marry men who work 12 hours a day in a paper mill. Employment of this kind will keep the husband away from, say 6 a. m. to 8 p. m., each day, and will leave the afternoons free for bridge parties in the sumptuous cottages provided by the owners of the mill. Furthermore, when the husband returns in the evening he will be too tired to do any kicking about the household expenses.

Many otherwise estimable people do not like oatmeal for breakfast, and some skill is necessary to inveigle them into eating it. The most obvious plan is to disguise the flavor of the oatmeal, which can be simply done by pouring vinegar and saucers over it. Another practical, although more tedious, way is to wrap each oatmeal—if that is the singular form of the word—in tipoff and place the lot in a candy box.

106 Years Old Can Walk 4 Miles A Day

Josiah Zeitlin Danced on His 106th Birthday and Was as Lively as a Cricket.

He Has Seen Much of This World, and He Declares He Hopes to See More. Tella How He Kept Well.

Old Mr. Josiah Zeitlin, of 136 Lexington Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., hasn't much time to think about how he has lived to be 106 years old. He is too busy planning what he shall do for many more years. He laughs at those who deary drinking and smoking, and points with pride to the fact that he has always done just what he pleased, and has never had a sick day in his life.

"I don't let anything worry me, though," he says. "There isn't enough time in the world for worry, and besides it makes people old. I don't think there is anything worth worrying over, anyhow. What I say is: If you want to eat, eat, and if you want to drink, drink."

"Although I was 106 years old on July 3d last, I still feel that I am good for several years. I was born at Lodz, in Poland, and after a lengthy business life in the old land, came to this country in 1882 to reside with my daughter. I have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for many years and find it very beneficial. It invigorates and gives me strength. I feel that it has helped me to live to 106 years. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the very medicine old people need to restore their failing health and strength."
