

DR. PRICE'S

Cream Baking Powder

Its superiority is unquestioned
Its fame world-wide
Its use a protection and a guarantee against alum food

The low-grade powders are made from "phosphate alum," or "sodium aluminum sulphate," which is also alum, a mineral acid, and that makes the food unhealthful.

One pound of the imitation (25c.) powders contains five ounces of alum, a mineral poison.

Food baked with alum baking powders is found to contain a portion of the alum unchanged.

The continued use of alum made food impairs digestion, causing dyspepsia. The careful housewife when buying baking powder, will examine the label and take only a brand whose label shows the powder to be made from cream of tartar.

LOVE OR DUTY.

before the footlights that night there were thunders of applause. She had scarcely opened her mouth, when a face amongst that seething mass arrested her attention. She faltered, stared at it with eyes wide with terror, for a second she trembled, her limbs were stiff, then with an effort she recovered, and played as she had never played before, for the face in that sea was the face of her husband!

His invalid carriage was drawn close to the rail of the fauteuil promenade, one elbow resting upon it. That evening she played to him alone; she wept and laughed, and she knew that the man in front wept and laughed with her.

And then the curtain went up on the last act; that dear face was no longer there, the space his chair had occupied was filled with people.

He was awaiting her at home, stretched upon the couch, except that they were white, his features were radiant.

"Don't be angry, Kit!" he said. "I got Francis to haul me down and back. I couldn't keep away. I simply had to go."

"Why were you there?" She spoke in a harsh tone.

"Don't—don't be angry! I wanted to see you play, just once more. Who knows, perhaps for the last time? Six months is a long time, but I'll soon pass. I shall be dreaming of you, longing for your return, and then—"

He broke off. Her back was towards him; he did not see that she was quietly crying.

"Shall you wire your acceptance?" She nodded.

"Get the form out now, then it can go first thing in the morning." Again she nodded. "Shall I make you a cigarette?" she asked.

"No, I don't want to smoke; I want to sleep." She placed the telegraph form on the table where her eyes could rest upon it and gave herself up to reverie. Jack was right, it would mean so much to her, and opportunities of this kind were few. But her husband—ought she to leave him?

On the one hand, ambition; on the other, duty. Should she go, should she? She opened her mouth to speak, the figure on the couch lay still; he was sound asleep, the fatigue of the theater had been too much for him.

She peered closer into his face, there were tears still standing in his eyes. She hesitated, then, with a firm step, she passed over to the table and, taking up the form, tore it into tiny fragments.

Again she moved towards the couch, her lips were trembling pitiously. "Duty, duty," she muttered brokenly. Then she looked at the pale, sleeping face and her expression changed; a softness came into her eyes.

"No, no duty," she whispered. "Love!"

HIGH TRIBUTE PAID TO ABE LINCOLN

American Ambassador to Britain Exalts Great Emancipator.

Birmingham, Eng., Dec. 8.—The American ambassador, Whitelaw Reid, last night delivered an address before Birmingham university on Abraham Lincoln, closing the course which has been in progress on "The Makers of History in the 19th Century."

Mr. Reid spoke from personal acquaintance and close familiarity with the career of the great American statesman. His address was notable in clearing away many of the popular misapprehensions concerning Lincoln. Mr. Reid referred to the emancipator as not in the least a simple minded rustic, or a professional reformer, but on the contrary an ardent partisan and a master hand in the intricacies of the game of politics.

Mr. Reid traced the career of Lincoln from his earliest pioneer days and dwelt at length upon the final stages of his career, ending at the conclusion of the civil war. He summed up his estimate as follows: "You have rightly selected him as the chief American maker of history in the 19th century. The world long ago chose another as our chief maker of history for the 18th century. I venture to think George Washington and Abraham Lincoln not inferior to any sons of the race born in those centuries."

BOLIVIAN FORCES ATTACK A PERUVIAN GARRISON. Lima, Peru, Dec. 8.—According to dispatches received here, Bolivian forces surprised and attacked the Peruvian garrison at Guayabal on the Bolivian frontier. A sharp engagement ensued, in which many Peruvians were killed or wounded. Peruvian troops have been rushed to the scene. There are fears that this may lead to a rupture between the two countries.

MORMON COLONIST FIGHTS WITH MEXICANS. Colonia Dublan, Mex., Dec. 8.—A fight between Des Payne and Nacio Rodrigues, a Mexican, caused more excitement here than the insurrectionists have caused all the time they have been struggling in this new insurrection. It is charged that Nacio Rodrigues has been in the habit of pasturing his horses on Payne's alfalfa and wheat land. Several times Payne has corralled the horses, but the natives come and take them out when the Paynes are out of sight. This time Payne went to the field early on purpose to catch the horses and when he got there he rounded them up with his whip and corralled the trespasser's horses and locked them in the corral. While he was after his own animals, Nacio Rodrigues and his two sons came, tore down the fence and secured the horses. When Payne rode up hot wares followed, then the Mexican struck Dee on the arm with a rock, he slipped from his horse and the fight, one on one side and three on the other, began. In the struggle they secured Payne's buggy and cut him a terrible gash on his head, that afterwards required several stitches to close. Angered with pain, Payne made an extra effort, secured his whip and put all three of his assailants to flight.

DEMING MAN KILLS EAGLE. GRAY EAGLE NEAR TOWN. Deming, N. M., Dec. 8.—Robert L. Miller, a local real estate man, has killed a large gray American eagle near Deming. The bird was a fine specimen, measured five feet and six inches from tip to tip. The Glasser home, with all of its contents, has been burned, together with about 100 pounds of alfalfa seed. It was located seven miles east of Deming. C. L. Betts and Miss Louise Hughes were married at the home of the bride in Deming by Rev. Mr. Smith. Mrs. Winnifred Butler and son of Minneapolis, Minn., sister of Miss Gertrude Klotz, teacher in the public schools at Deming, have arrived and rented the Wallis home. J. A. Kealy, deputy sheriff of Luna county, was one of the party who has charge of the Chinese who were taken to San Francisco to be deported to China.

WOMEN FAIL TO VOTE FOR DRY TOWNS. Seattle, Wash., Dec. 8.—In the Washington cities where women voted yesterday they seem to have ignored the liquor question. Of 100 Anacortes, where hundreds of women voted and "wet" officials were chosen, the navy yard town of Charleston went "wet" in spite of organized efforts of the W. C. T. U. to marshal the women, of whom 212 voted.

WIFE DESERTER KILLS A WOMAN; THEN HIMSELF. San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 8.—Stopping the elevator midway between two floors of the hotel which they conducted as partners, James Whitley fired four bullets into the body of Mrs. Julia Bartley Wednesday, and then cut his throat and immersed himself in a filled bathtub. Both will die. Mrs. Bartley, who is 35 years old, is the divorced wife of Benjamin S. Bartley, a wealthy grocer of Oakland. Shortly after her divorce she met Whitley in this city. According to the story told the police by Whitley, he deserted a wife and daughter in Grand Junction, Colo., just before he met Mrs. Bartley. From this city the two went to Salt Lake City with a stable of race horses. Returning here last August, they purchased the hotel in which the shooting took place and conducted it under the firm name of Whitley & Webb. Mrs. Bartley having resumed her maiden name.
