CANNOT FORCE THE PAYMENT OF POLLS

County Collector Must Accept Property Taxes Alone If Offered.

Payment of poll tax, without the payment of real or personal property taxes will be accepted by county collector George Harper, but until Friday, the payment of personal and real property taxes without the poll tax would not be taken. Owing to the rush of the taxpayers, Mr. Harper announced Friday morning that the poll tax payment would not be forced, but it will result in disfranchising for the next year at least, persons who do not pay the tax.

The poll tax is levied by the state legislature the same as the ad valorem taxes on real and personal property and constitutes a lien against the property. As the poll tax amounts to but $1.75, very few who pay their other taxes object to paying it.

It is argued that after the taxes on real and personal property are paid, all liens on the property that score have been liquidated, and this opinion is upheld by a number of El Paso judges and lawyers. It is stated that the poll tax constitutes a lien against the property, but it would be impracticable to attempt to force collection, as the costs of the suit would be too great.

PECOS SHIPMENTS OF CATTLE LARGE

Pecos, Tex., Jan. 12.—Shipments of stock from this point have been especially heavy recently. Twenty-six cars were shipped by W. M. Ferguson, of Alpine. They came from Sierra Blanca, and were reshipped to Woodward, Okla. Nine cars were also shipped to Grand Island, Kas. Jackson Bros. & Co. shipped 21 cars, mostly calves, to Hereford, Tex., and J. T. McElroy shipped five cars to Fort Sumner, Kas. Last year proved to be the greatest live stock movement year in this section, largely due to protracted drouth affecting the non-irrigating section of the country.

Rev. J. B. Cole, pastor of the First Baptist church, Pecos, announces that the new $30,000 structure which his congregation has erected here will be completed next week.

Pecos has been invited by the El Paso chamber of commerce to attend a meeting of commercial organizations to be held there. President W. F. Johnson and secretary Porter Whaley of the Pecos commercial club will attend.

SHORT NOTICE OF WEDDING IS GIVEN

Joe L. Driscoll and Miss McNulty Married Thursday Evening.

Extending invitations at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon for his wedding at 7 o'clock Thursday night to Miss Jennie L. McNulty, was the course of Joseph L. Driscoll, chief deputy district clerk. The ceremony was performed by father Roy at the church of the Immaculate Conception. The bridesmaids becomingly dressed in white and was attended by Mrs. James Gilreath, in lavender. Mr. Driscoll was attended by E. B. McClintock. Following the ceremony, the wedding party repaired to the Zeigler hotel for an 8 o'clock dinner.

Mr. Driscoll has been in the district clerk's office for two years. He expects, however, soon to begin the practice of law. Mrs. Driscoll has resided in El Paso for a year, coming here from Galveston. Ms. and Mrs. Driscoll will be at home at 911 North Kansas street, he having already secured and furnished the home.

Those attending the wedding and the dinner party included: Mr. and Mrs. Driscoll, Mr. and Mrs. James Gilreath, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. McClintock, Dr. L. B. Auerbach, Ike Alderete, J. M. Nealon, C. T. Richards, J. D. Ponder and G. Byron Cady.

H. S. & M. and Kuppenheimer Hand Tailored Suits $35.00 Styles for $23.35

WE don't mean the kind that are sold in most places for $35.00—we mean the kind that the "Popular" sells regularly for that price—and the "Popular" prices are always from 15% to 20% lower. So, when you read this "ad." bear in mind that the suits are even better than you would infer—that they're considerably better than most of the $35.00 kinds.

We include along with the greys and browns and fancy styles all blacks and blues—in styles for men and young fellows—for stout men or lean—for tall men or short. Better avail yourself of this chance to get a real $23.35 $35.00 suit for.

Also, we are selling other suits, genuine hand tailored ones, too, the kinds we sold earlier in the season for $25.00 $18.35 to $27.50, for...

Mabel Urner On Tricks Of the Shopper.

THE maid appeared at the door with a package.

"C. O. D.—from Rawson's—$9.98."

"Oh, yes—well, let the man take it back. Say, I've decided not to keep it—that it doesn't suit."

"But how—when the maid had gone, how do you know? You didn't even open it?"

"Oh, I didn't want it anyway," carelessly. "I didn't intend to keep it."

"But why—and then I stopped, fearing my amusement was leading me to intrusion."

"Why did you have it sent?" laughed Mrs. Martin. "Well, I suppose I shouldn't. But you see I had taken over half an hour of the girl's time and had her pull down every black silk waist in the place. I must have tried on a dozen. So I just had to take something! I didn't like any of them, but after taking up all that time and trying on so many—I simply couldn't walk out without deciding on one of them."

"But if you didn't intend to keep it—I began."

"Oh, well, it was the easiest thing to do at the time. I just couldn't get away without buying something."

"You mean you didn't have the courage to simply say that none of the waists suited you, so instead you had one sent C. O. D., knowing you would not keep it?"

She nodded. "Oh, I suppose it isn't just the right thing to do, but lots of people do it. When you've taken up so much of the clerk's time, and she's pulled down so many things and has been so anxious to please, you just can't walk off and say, 'I don't care for any of them.'"

"And some clerks are so much harder to get away from than others. They keep insisting that they know they have just what you want—if you will only wait a moment. And then they bring out more and more, until you have something sent C. O. D. just to get away."

"But when you send the thing back," I argued, "it is returned to the department from which it came, and the clerk knows then you didn't take it."

"Yes, I suppose she does," with a shrug. "But I'm not there then."

"But I'm not there then!" That is the key to it all. It is the moral cowardice of persons who can't face a slightly embarrassing situation—but are wholly indifferent to what is thought of them "when they are not there!"

I have found since that Mrs. Martin was right in claiming that "lots of people do it." It is one of the "tricks of the shopper" with which the big department stores are very familiar. They know goods are often sent C. O. D. for which the customer has no intention of paying. They also know that sometimes goods are sent to a wholly fictitious address, and are brought back with the driver's report—"No one by that name at that number."

And the big store takes all very philosophically. But it is rather a sad commentary on human nature, and on women in particular—that a regular item of expense and loss with which the department store annually reckons is that caused by the small domesticities of shoppers in this and many other ways.

SENATE REFUSES TO DODGE DIRECT VOTE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—By a vote of 17 to 42, the senate today refused to adjourn rather than proceed with the consideration of a resolution providing for the election of senators by direct vote of the people. Senator Hale made the motion. Friends of the measure claim it was a test vote.

JANUARY CLEARANCE SALE. Don't delay. Come tomorrow—buy "honest furniture" at "honest reductions."
