Ignorance As A Cause Of Divorce; Failures That Are Due To Parents

By Dorothy Dix

A YOUNG woman, who comes of a rich and socially prominent family, and whose husband is suing her for divorce, makes this pathetic plea for herself. She says:

"Nobody ever taught me anything about duties, or responsibilities, or self-control. I had an allowance of $150 a month for pin money, and I spent it all and more. Nobody held me accountable for it. If I had been taught differently, if I had known even that one value of money, I would have been able to gauge the values of other matters, and perhaps I wouldn't be sued and suing for a divorce today."

This hapless young creature, who has made havoc of her life before she is 21, has probed through her own sad experience to the very heart of the divorce problem.

Learned sociologists and high-browed moralists pander their wits over why marriage is a failure, and why there is so much divorce. This girl has answered the question. It is because parents don't train their children for marriage. They don't teach them anything about its trials, its difficulties, its hardships.

Parents Most Surprised When Children Come to Grief

They let an ignorant, untaught, undisciplined boy and girl plunge into an experience for which they are totally unprepared, and then when the young creatures come to grief, who are so surprised as their parents! Yet they might as well be astonished at a man who had never seen salt water, and knew nothing of navigation, running the Lusitania on the rocks if he attempted to pilot her across the Atlantic.

In the vast majority of cases it is the parents who are responsible for the unhappy marriages in the world. It is the parents who are the first aids to divorce, because although they know that their children are practically certain to marry, they do nothing to fit them for it.

From the time a girl is born she is taught directly or indirectly, to look forward to being married as the career most desirable for a woman. But her mother never teaches her that marriage is the hardest job on earth, the one beset with the most difficulties, the one that requires the most self-restraint and skill to fill worthily.

On the contrary, she is led to believe that it is a sort of fairyland, in which she will live on chocolate cream and do nothing but listen to her husband chanting her praises. What marvel, then, that she bumps into the stern reality of matrimony, and finds out that it means hard work, and poverty, and a husband who is grouchy and unappreciative, that she lacks the strength to endure it!

Who ever hears of a mother teaching her daughter to use money wisely because some day the girl will be married, and her husband's prosperity will depend upon her thrift and economy? Who ever hears of a mother teaching her daughter tact and diplomacy, because some day the girl will marry and she will need the finesse of a Tal-

"The Sick Monkey" By Beatrice Fairfax Why This Picture Is Typical of the Human Family

"THE SICK MONKEY," FROM THE FAMOUS PAINTING BY LANDSEER.

THIS famous painting by Landseer is most typical of the human family, and those who look carefully will find much to prove the claims made by those who favor the Darwinian theory.

The mother of the sick monkey has no thought or appetite for her dinner, which lies forgotten beside her. She is dominated by compassion, love, anxiety, forgetful of self, her whole being is absorbed in her ailing offspring.

The father sits on his rail eating his dinner with relish. Fearing that he may lose part of it, he holds tight to a second piece with his feet. The difference between the father monkey and the mother monkey is the difference between the father and the mother in the human family.

The men are urged to look at the picture thoughtfully and candidly; then if they look back to the days when they were young and ailing, they will confess to the discredit of their sex, that Landseer's painting is true not only in Monkey life, but to human life.

When a child is sick it is the mother whose love conquers desire for food and sleep and who watches through the long hours of the day and the longer hours of the night beside the bed of the little one.

The father is concerned, naturally, but this concern does not delay him at the dining room table nor keep him awake at nights.

If the cries of the sick child awaken him he opens sleepy eyes to find the mother ministering to it, and he falls asleep again. The incident remains in his mind to this extent. The next day he tells inquiring friends that "we" were up all night and are worn out.

He is never the first to waken, should this miracle happen he would nurse his wife reproachfully, saying: "What kind of a mother are you to sleep when your child cries like that?"

If compelled to get up just once in a child's lifetime he relates to the end of his days that he took entire care of that child at night.

Pictures of a man in his nightshirt walking the floor with a crying baby in his arms are his conception of realism in art, and the jokes about man stepping on a tack when getting up to give something to a howling youngster represent to him the combined wit of the ages.

With him it is "your baby" when it is fresh and needs attention, and "our" baby when it is asleep, or awake and laughing.

Always blames her. The sickness of the child interferes with his comfort, his happiness. He feels neglected and aggrieved, and doesn't understand why it should get sick. Out of this feeling that he is wronged there grows that familiar old charge of "She did it," and he tells his wife that the child wouldn't have fallen sick if she had taken better care of it.

But, like the monkey in the picture, he enjoys his dinner, though grumbling that it was not ready on time. After eating it, he will scamper off to the society of other male monkeys, and demand their sympathy because the little monkey in his family is sick.

Then all the male monkeys will gibber and chatter and make violent cries and excited motions, all of which mean that it is a hardship to be a father monkey. In the meanwhile the mother monkey at home ministers with a love that is divine, forgetful of self, asking nothing, hoping nothing, but the recovery of the little one in her arms.

Look at the picture again, and then declare, if you can, there is nothing in the theory that we are descended from leyrand in petticoats to handle a husband and get along with him in peace? Most Girls Are Totally Unprepared for Matrimony.

Who ever hears of a mother saying to her daughter: "My dear, you must learn to control your temper and your tongue, because some day you will be married, and your happiness and your family will depend upon your ability to bite back the angry words, and return a soft answer under provocation that would vex a saint?"

Is it not true that the average girl who marries has never had the handling of any money; that she has been petted and indulged and spoiled; that she has been taught that the most important things on earth are clothes and dressing herself up, and that everybody and everything must minister to her pleasure? Isn't it true that the majority of girls marry without even having been taught the elements of housekeeping as how to make a comfortable home?

And as for boys, isn't it true that not one thing is taught them about what they must do to be good husbands? Isn't it true that a boy is raised up with a little idea of his responsibility in marriage as if marriage was something that was as unlikely to happen to him as being struck by lightning?

Do you ever hear of a father teaching his son that he must be gentle and tender to women, because some time he will marry and his wife's happiness will depend on his attitude toward her?

Do you ever hear of a father teaching his son that it is a terrible responsibility for a man to separate a girl from her home and family and to take her into his hands, and that before a man does that he should be very sure that he can make good to her for all that she gives up for him?

Who ever hears of a mother teaching her daughter that a man who tells his wife what a cowardly and despicable cad a man is who abuses his wife, and swears at her because she is too weak to knock him down for the things he says to her?

Few Fathers Show Sons How to Treat Their Wives. Do you ever see a father pointing out to his son what a man can make his wife suffer through his stinginess, his vices, his lack of understanding and sympathy?

Never. His parents do not hold themselves responsible for the kind of husbands their son makes, nor for the subsequent divorce if he is a bad one. Yet 99 times out of 100 they could have saved the catastrophe if they had tried.

There is no other thought in the world more appalling than that parents could stop domestic misery if only they would raise up their children with the idea of becoming good husbands and wives, and that they don't do it.

GRAND JURY HOLDS THREE HOUR SESSION

Kermit Organizes a Commercial Club and Begins Boosting.

Kermit, Texas, March 28--March term of the district court of Winkler county has adjourned. The grand jury remained in session less than three hours and reported nothing for it to do. There were four or five default cases, and our case tried by the court, on the civil docket.

The citizens of Kermit have organized a commercial club, with J. K. Little president; J. S. Cannon, vice president; D. E. Pool, secretary-treasurer, and J. S. Howe, G. W. Hutcheson and W. F. Stewart as the executive committee. It is the intention of the club to put in an experiment farm, by irrigation with pumps. The land is all that can be desired for such an undertaking, and good water at very shallow depth is here in an abundance.

The Coats brothers have disposed of all their Texas land and cattle, and moved to Eddy county, New Mexico.

Early weeds are making their appearance and stock is beginning to pick up.

W. H. Scott has filed suit in the district court against H. H. Carrell of Mitchell county, for alleged debt in the sum of $2,900, and asks foreclosure of the best remedy in ordinary mercantile law on $40 acres of land situated in Winkler county, Texas.

W. A. Cannon has received his barber chair and shop fixtures, and Kermit now has a barber shop.

W. A. Vest and family, who have been living in Kermit the past winter to be close to the school, have moved back to their home.

The Winkler County Townsite Co., owner of the Kermit townsite, is preparing to reorganize.

Sheriff Priest is this week having his office put down in the court house yard, for litigation purposes.

G. W. Hutcheson is laid up from an injury to his leg, made by the kick of a horse.

J. S. Howe, who lives four miles west of Kermit, is quite sick.

Justice of the peace N. E. Cannon has been confined to his room for several days with grip.

Clint Moreland, who has been absent several months in Lampasas, has returned home.

Officials of the Pecos Valley Southern Railway company, have notified the commercial club of Kermit that they will be in Kermit about April 10 and will receive proposals from the people of the best remedy in ordinary mercantile law on $40 acres of land situated in Winkler county, Texas.

GLOVIS FOLKS ARE STUNG ON BAD CHECKS

Man Wanted Caught in Texas and Will Be Taken Back to Clovis.

Clovis, N. M., March 28--Sheriff D. L. Mays has received a telegram from the sheriff at Canyon City, Tex., stating that he had arrested and placed in jail G. W. Adair, wanted in Clovis on a charge of passing bogus checks.

A special deputy left for the Texas city and is expected to return with the prisoner. Adair was employed in Herr's cafe here until a few days ago.

District attorney K. K. Scott, of Roswell, has arrived to assist with the heavy docket before the district court here in session.

The grand jury has brought in another batch of 11 true bills, making 23 bills found so far by the grand jury.

Madrigon has received a telegram announcing the death of her brother Frank H. Keller, at Howard, Kansas.

Mrs. T. J. Burnsworth, wife of messenger conductor Burnsworth, was called to Kentucky yesterday in answer to a message announcing the serious illness of her sister.

The Clovis delegates to the Federation of Women's Clubs' meeting left on the noon train for Roswell, the seat of the meeting. The delegates from the local clubs are Mesdames Jewell Kimberlain, W. D. McBea, J. W. Clements, Rayborne Kimberlain, D. D. Swearingen, E. J. Pascan, and W. G. Nutter. These ladies expect to bring the next meeting to Clovis.

C. W. Bayless, of Roswell, who has been at Dalmonas Springs, N. M., for several weeks with his sick son, stopped off here to visit his parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Bayless. The boy is but slightly improved.

Mrs. Edilton Reed, who has been on an extended visit to Wynoka, Kan., and Amarillo, Tex., returned home yesterday.

J. H. Hill, of Brownfield, Tex., was here on a ranch to Grady, N. M., where he owns a ranch. He reports plenty of rain and snow on the Texas side and that farmers are hopeful for a fine crop year.

Rev. C. H. Brown, pastor of the Dunkard church here, has returned from a trip down the Pecos valley in the interest of church matters.

Mrs. Jack Pritchett entertained the Pecos Valley club. Besides the regular members of the club she entertained several special guests, among them being Mrs. John B. Ottawa, of Kansas City, Mo., who is here visiting her sister, Mrs. E. E. Bundy.

Earl Owens was host to a happy company in an informal social evening. Table games furnished the amusement of the evening. The affair was given in honor of Miss Bonnie Freeman, of Fortale, who is visiting the family of Judge and Mrs. W. D. McBea. Those present were: Misses Maude Beck, Elsie Forbes, Edna Clark, Bertha Hanstooth, Lillian Beck, Bonnie Freeman, and Midge Clark. Messrs. Earl Forbes, Harry Melroe, Delmer Griffin, Charles Forbes, Earl Owens and Otto Forbes. The young people were chaperoned by Mrs. C. A. Clark.

NOT A SECRET Kathryn Dunne's Story

It is said that in Europe when a woman finds a remedy that does her great good, she keeps it a secret for she does not want any other woman to be able to rival her charms.

American women are different. When they find a good remedy, they want other women to get the benefit too, so they tell their friends.

Miss Kathryn Dunne of N. Y. City is one of these. She says, "When I was in a weakened condition last spring I took Vinol with the greatest benefit and I recommend it highly. Five of my friends are now taking Vinol on account of the benefit I received."

When you are run-down and weak, you need better blood and more strength, and Vinol will give them to you. It is a delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil and restores thousands of pale, nervous, broken-down people to health each year. We give you back your money if Vinol does not help you. Help Came Just In Time Lady in Pierce Relates And Experience of Interest to all Girls and Women.

Pierce, Neb.--Mrs. Dollie Schlotzky of this place, says: "Cardul did me so much good. I had dreadful backaches and dizziness, and suffered from pains in my eyes and in the back of my head, as well as low down in my body."

Sometimes, it seemed like I would die with the pain. I was compelled to see the doctor, but he did not help me.

At last, I began to take Cardul, and three bottles gave me great relief. My health is getting better every day.

I can recommend Cardul to suffering women, for it helped me wonderfully. It is a wonderful medicine."

Other women, who suffer as Mrs. Schlotzky did, should learn from her what to do, to be relieved. Take Cardul.

For women's pains, for female troubles, for nervousness, for weakness, it is the best remedy you can use, the most reliable you can obtain.

For over 50 years, Cardul has been helping weak and miserable women back to health and happiness. These many years of success, prove its merit.

Pure, strictly vegetable, perfectly harmless, Cardul is sure to help and will leave no disagreeable after-effects. Try it.
