OUTFIELD FLWVER GIVES AWAY GAME

High School and Army in a Snappy Practice Contest.

Had not Darnell, who was bothered by a low sliding sun, made a miff of a fly ball from the bat of Terrell in the third inning yesterday of the practice game between the army and the high school at Washington park, these two teams might be playing yet.

As it was the ball rattled away from Darnell, and Creekbaum, who had reached first by being hit, slid over the plate with what proved to be the winning run.

It was the first game of the season that Vern Lyman has twirled for the high school and he did very well, letting the soldiers down with but one hit and having the game well in hand at all stages save when he hit Creekbaum.

Lieut. Garber had juggled the soldiers' lineup a bit and the batting order was changed from the last appearance of the club in the city league play.

The high school and the army are to play other practice games. The score: High School, AB R H PO A E

Table with columns AB R H PO A E and rows for Dingwall, Grady, Darnell, Passet, Lyman, L. Shea, Walker, Robinson, E. Shea, and Totals.

Big Auto Truck Runs Into Champ's Racer, Giving Him a Bad Spill.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 25.—Jack Johnson, champion pugilist, was injured severely, it is believed, late yesterday when a large automobile truck ran into the rear of his machine. The champion had several tendons in his back sprained, while his chest and head were hurt.

Johnson was proceeding down Wylie avenue in his machine, having left his hotel but a few moments before. The automobile truck followed without warning the big truck collided with Johnson's automobile. Johnson was assisted to a nearby hotel and given medical assistance.

Frank Criticism Of Local Sport

Two Things Noticed Which Do Not "Look Good" to Fans.

(BY LEWIS ARMS)

THE writer has happened to note two things during the week which could readily be constructed as a knock on sport and which should be abolished. Criticism is offered of a few of the city league players last Sunday at Washington park, who in uniform and before the rather large opening day assemblage smoked cigars.

Governor Tener's Loss

Little Stories About Baseball

By W. A. Phelon

"SUCH a thing as one day's pay wouldn't exactly break or worry me," says John K. Tener, the gigantic governor of Pennsylvania—"that is, it wouldn't worry me now, and it has been some years since I have had occasion to fret about losing one day's wages. Yet, believe me, there was once a time when I was robbed of one day's salary, and that one day's salary seemed to John K. Tener, as big as the First National bank to the average young clerk of the present time. And—just to show what strange things happen in this world—the man who took away John K. Tener's poor little one day's pay was, in the after years, Justice Moody, of the supreme court bench—that's how life really happens in this republic of ours, and, I'm sure, the one day's pay he saved on me looked as big to him right then as half a million did a few years subsequently.

"It was long, long ago, when the world was very young, and I was a pitcher for the Haverhill team. Tommy McCarthy, who afterwards grew as renowned as one of the headiest players of the champion Boston, was one of the Haverhill outfielders, and Justice Moody (to be) was one of the chief officials of the Haverhill club. The season was drawing to a close, the Haverhill team was losing money, and it seemed doubtful whether the checker could be so replenished that as everybody would get what was coming to him at the final settlement.

"The days ran along, and finally but one more day remained. That night the stockholders of the club held a meeting, inspected the books, and did some great figuring as to ways and means. Towards 11 o'clock, they found that they would need only a few dollars of enough to settle up—but where were they going to find those few dollars? That was the question, and they were debating on passing the hat when a great thought struck Mr. Moody. "Gentlemen," he said, "I have it! Upstairs, in this hotel, our two highest salaried players, Tener and McCarthy, are now asleep. If we could save one day out of their wages, we would have just enough to see us through. Let's release them, and save tomorrow's salary!"

"The stockholders carried the suggestion by acclamation, and releases were duly carried out. Then a glance at the clock showed it was 11:30. In half an hour or more it would be too late—a new day would begin, and we would have to have our full day's pay. Mr. Moody was deputed to bring us the news—which was considered a ticklish task, as I was large and McCarthy was quick tempered. Somewhat bashfully, he came upstairs, woke us up, and gracefully handed us our release. Then he fled before Tom and I could get our heads cleared and realize the situation.

"And, believe me, in those days I was so short of money that it just about broke my heart to lose that one day's pay. But I had to lose it, just the same, and Mr. Moody was the winner. Did I ever get it back? Not in money I didn't—but I have often made justice Moody buy enough good wine to pay for that holdout several times over."
