

REBELS NEAR FEDERAL LINES

(Continued from Page One) They will all start south, keeping close to the railroad, requiring the lines of communication southward on their march.

Gen. Orozco and staff will move back and baggage south to Relano today and take up headquarters there, directing the southern operations. With the column of Gen. Campa and Campos will go the artillery and, according to the plan, no attempt will be made to attack Torreon, but to blockade it if possible. In the event of the rebels resisting a siege, the city will be bombarded without restraint.

Orozco claims 15,000. Gen. Orozco estimates the number of rebels who will besiege Torreon as 15,000, made up of men from all northern states. As a guard of men will leave here tonight to repair the telegraph lines leading into the state of Simlota, it is hoped to have communication with Chihuahua within of the day.

Captain Carlos Gonzalez who was stabbed yesterday by a man named Torres, is on the road to recovery, according to the doctors attending him. Large shipments of arms and ammunition are being received nightly from Juarez and the officials here declare that they have sufficient munitions of war to carry them for several big battles.

Secret Agent Arrested. Secret service men in the employ of Gen. Orozco apprehended Ernesto Nurierra, alias Ernesto Roca, yesterday in this city on the charge of being a spy in the employ of the Madero government and remanded him to jail. Tomorrow morning he will be sent to Chihuahua and incarcerated in the state penitentiary there. It is said that incriminating documents were found on his person implicating him as a member of Madero's secret agents in El Paso.

Revolution Causes No Worry In Peaceful City Of La Paz

One Portion of Mexico Where All Is Serene, Despite the Trouble in Other Portions of the Land. By C. A. BRANN.

WHILE the greater part of Mexico is either in the throes of a revolution or anticipating an early visit from revolutionary hands, there is one section that pays no attention to the outbreaks. It is down on the southern end of Lower California, where the men and women wear shoes and where they are most particular about their attire in every regard. La Paz (the peace) is the name of the principal town down there, and it is connected with Mazatlan by steamer line. Palm trees garbe the harbor and the climate is tropical. Watermelons ripen there during the month of March and the people generally enjoy life. There are 2000 or 3000 souls in that town and the reason they take no interest in the present revolution is not because they are unacquainted with conditions in other parts of the republic. It is because they are satisfied with conditions in their own. Even during the Madero revolution, while nearly all the republic was in turmoil, this section was going peacefully about its business and worrying not one whit

CLAIM THAT TUTTI HANGED THREE MEN

One Revives and Leads the Troops to the Bandit Gang's Stronghold.

Douglas, Ariz., May 2.—Hanging three men by the neck until two were dead and the third was left for dead, was one of the atrocities alleged against the bandit chief Tutti, who was reported killed in an engagement at Cerro Prieta, district of Ajo, April 26, with five of his followers. Tutti is said to have met with unexpected opposition when he attempted to raise a small band, two weeks ago. Three men were engaged in it as leaders. These were captain Soqui, and two others whose names the report did not mention. He decided to hang the three leaders in order to inspire the surrounding country with respect and amount of respect for him and his band. Soqui and the other two were taken to a public road and ropes were placed about their necks. The ropes were then placed over a tree limb and the other end attached to the saddle horns of Tutti and two other members of the band. At a given word the bandits rode away from the tree and the three struggling bodies were suspended. Tutti first decided that his man was dead and let him down. The man was only strangled into unconsciousness and recovered after a time. The bandits hid in the meantime ridden away. Efforts to revive Soqui and the other man were found unavailing. It was directly through the efforts of the man who escaped after the ordeal of hanging that captain Augustin Chavez forced Tutti's stronghold and taking the brigands by surprise, defeated them.

FEARS YAQUI INDIANS HAVE KILLED DAUGHTER.

Chicago, Ill., May 2.—Fear that her daughter and the latter's husband have been murdered by Yaqui Indians in northern Mexico, has led Mrs. E. J. Gilbert of this city to appeal to the state department for assistance in finding out from the Mexican government whether her relatives are safe. Mrs. Gilbert's husband was slain by members of this tribe 10 years ago and the continued silence of her daughter leads her to believe that a plot exists to exterminate the entire family. The daughter, who Mrs. Thomas J. Shumate, has not been heard from in six weeks, although previous to this letters were received frequently by her friends here. She is 15 years old and has been traveling in Mexico for several months.

HERNANDEZ WAITS IN VAIN FOR NO. 3

Gets Two Names on His Bond, but the Third Is Lacking.

Braulio Hernandez, the Happy Holligan of this revolutionary business, had to get back to jail. The third bondsmen didn't show up Tuesday, and as it was agreed that three should sign for a part of all of $1500, George B. Oliver, United States commissioner, couldn't see his way clear to let the postulated revolutionist go free. Hernandez, with an expectant look, sat nearly all day Thursday up in the cell of the United States marshal. Piaz A. Courchene came along and signed the document early in the morning. Shortly after noon Benito Soils wandered in and put down his name. Then Hernandez waited the marshal waited and the commissioner waited. Along towards evening they took Hernandez back and put him into his "numbered tomb" down in the county bastille. The confidential agent of the rebel government to the United States and ambassador to Washington, D. C., where he was arrested—went back willingly, but joylessly.

Several Red Cross members left Torreon for Eagle Pass and El Paso, Tex., en route to join the revolutionary forces.
