

Army Surgeons Campaign Successfully Against Many Epidemics.

YELLOW FEVER AND TYPHOID CONQUERED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—This old world is much indebted to its armies and navies for the state of its health.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

It is possible to estimate, it is directly banished from the category of uncontrollable diseases one of the worst of all the ills to which one-half of the human race was heir.

Alderman, Who Is in Willing to Take the Job. Has a Good Chance Now.

LONDON REFORMERS ARE HARD PRESSED

London, Eng., Sept. 28.—Alderman Sir David Burnett will probably be the next lord mayor of London, in succession to Mr. Thomas B. Crosby, who resigned in November.

The growing of peppermint, lavender, camomile and other medicinal plants, a little known, but valuable English industry, has been almost entirely ruined by the recent storm and floods which have devastated the low lying counties of England.

The dry weather in the late spring was unfavorable for planting, and the cold summer with its heavy rainfall ruined the harvest.

As a result very little oil will be distilled, and dealers have been warned to beware of the adulterated oil which unscrupulous exporters may resort to in an attempt to supply the demand for the English oils.

The resolution adopted at the Trades Union congress calling upon parliament to reform the jury system has again revived a complaint that is shared equally by the labor and liberal parties.

Recently a liberal newspaper compared the liberal damages assessed during the past year to the various publications and politicians, and the comparisons showed that almost invariably laborites and liberals were awarded larger sums than the other parties.

It is claimed that this inequality is due to the fact that judges and court officials are mainly members of the conservative party, and that they are juries from publicans, who are bitter against the liberal party on account of the Lloyd-George budget, which put a heavy tax on the liquor trade.

At present there is a distinct tendency on the part of the general public to reduce its doles to charities. This is a considerable improvement, but it is not sufficient to meet the needs of the public, and it is becoming increasingly difficult to coax money from their supporters.

It is, however, not the hospitals and active benevolent institutions which are at present feeling the pinch so severely as those propagandist societies devoted to the furtherance of various "isms."

Their income is steadily diminishing. Practically all of these depend on the generosity of the public, and it is becoming increasingly difficult to coax money from their supporters.

Some are cutting down the pay of their officials, others are resorting to various schemes to raise money. One of the secretaries of an organization which at one time exerted no small influence in politics, has had his subscription habit falling into decay.

It is not fair to blame the insurance companies in particular for this widespread decline in subscriptions. The effects of the act on the charitable institutions are more serious.

It is not fair to blame the insurance companies in particular for this widespread decline in subscriptions. The effects of the act on the charitable institutions are more serious.

It is not fair to blame the insurance companies in particular for this widespread decline in subscriptions. The effects of the act on the charitable institutions are more serious.

It is not fair to blame the insurance companies in particular for this widespread decline in subscriptions. The effects of the act on the charitable institutions are more serious.

It is not fair to blame the insurance companies in particular for this widespread decline in subscriptions. The effects of the act on the charitable institutions are more serious.

It is not fair to blame the insurance companies in particular for this widespread decline in subscriptions. The effects of the act on the charitable institutions are more serious.

It is not fair to blame the insurance companies in particular for this widespread decline in subscriptions. The effects of the act on the charitable institutions are more serious.

It is not fair to blame the insurance companies in particular for this widespread decline in subscriptions. The effects of the act on the charitable institutions are more serious.

It is not fair to blame the insurance companies in particular for this widespread decline in subscriptions. The effects of the act on the charitable institutions are more serious.

It is not fair to blame the insurance companies in particular for this widespread decline in subscriptions. The effects of the act on the charitable institutions are more serious.

It is not fair to blame the insurance companies in particular for this widespread decline in subscriptions. The effects of the act on the charitable institutions are more serious.

It is not fair to blame the insurance companies in particular for this widespread decline in subscriptions. The effects of the act on the charitable institutions are more serious.

It is not fair to blame the insurance companies in particular for this widespread decline in subscriptions. The effects of the act on the charitable institutions are more serious.

American Committee Will Join in Observance of the Centenary of the Treaty.

PARIS INTERESTED IN AMERICAN ARTIST

Paris, France, Sept. 28.—It seems likely that the city of Ghent, as well as the important British and American committee, established for the purpose, will join actively in the celebration of the Centenary of the Treaty of Ghent, signed Dec. 24, 1814, and of the Hundred Years' Peace among English-speaking peoples.

The Belgian contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The British contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

The American contribution is likely to take the form of a restoration of the town in the old Carthusian convent where the treaty was signed, and of the erection of a monument to the memory of the treaty.

Is Expected to Give Sensational Testimony in Probe Campaign Contributions.

PENROSE SAYS HE CAN PROVE CHARGES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—A touch of congressional activity was given to Washington today by the appearance of Senator Penrose in the committee on privileges and elections, which starts its probe of campaign contributions on Monday.

Senator Jones E. Clapp, the chairman of the committee, stated today that he expected all the contributions to be in Washington by tomorrow morning, and that a preliminary meeting to arrange the business of the investigation would be held shortly before the investigators formally convened.

No definite schedule has been arranged, but it is expected that the committee will hold a series of public hearings on the contributions to be made among the early witnesses examined.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt has signified his intention of appearing before the investigating body on October 1, to refute the testimony of John B. Archbold regarding the $125,000 campaign contributions to the Standard Oil.

Senator Penrose, who is expected to be among the early witnesses examined, is expected to furnish some sensational developments. At the time he appeared before the Senate Special Investigating committee and gave his testimony relating to the absorption of the Standard Oil company, he was spared the ordeal of a cross examination.

This will not be the case at present in the Senate. Senator Penrose and other Democratic members of the committee, with the aid of Senator La Follette, have a list of questions which they will ask the colonel on cross examination. It is expected that the hearing will occupy the stand for fully two days.

Among the other witnesses who have been requested to appear are George B. Cortelyou, chairman of the executive committee in charge of the Republican campaign fund of 1904; William D. Hoar, secretary of the fund; and Henry Clay Frick, secretary of the Standard Oil company.

George W. Perkins, the Harvard trustee manager, has been accused of playing angel to the present Dull Moose campaign, and a host of lesser political lights thought to have been familiar with the campaign contributions under probe. Among these are ex-Senator Charles Drexler, Henry Clay Frick, secretary of the Standard Oil company, and P. G. Barron, former Standard Oil company, and 10 or 12 southern negro delegates to the Republican national convention.

John Rockefeller, Andrew Carnegie and other names have also been placed on the witness list and will be called should the necessary testimony warrant such a step.

Many interesting questions have been raised by the accusations against Senator Penrose prior to his adjournment in August, and it was confidently expected here today that a money matter would be extracted from the witnesses before the committee again.

The greatest interest centered in the appearance of Theodore Roosevelt and John B. Archbold, and the question of veracity raised by Senator Penrose faced them and a heated session was anticipated when they took the stand.

The matter at issue was the alleged purchase of the Standard Oil company by Senator Penrose in 1904 by the Standard Oil company, first intimated by Senator Penrose in a speech in the Senate in August, and was further intimated by these men that the colonel could not have been ignorant of the contribution, as he claimed, and that he had written after that contribution had been spent and was solely for the purpose of record.

Senator Penrose has been working up corroborative evidence during the interim between the last adjournment of the committee and its coming meeting Monday, and has intimated that he has secured documentary evidence and oral corroboration of his accusations.

Mr. Penrose thinks there are a number of persons who knew at the time of the contribution of the Standard Oil company, and he has requested the committee to call on them for their testimony. Among those named are Frank J. Murphy, New Jersey; David W. Mulvane, of Kansas; Harry New, of Indiana, and James A. Tracy, of Minnesota.

These men were expected not only to corroborate the testimony of Senator Penrose, but also to furnish evidence that the $150,000 was given to the Roosevelt fund of 1904, but that $150,000 more was asked of the Standard Oil company, and that the Standard Oil company had been investigated by the committee just before its adjournment.

Another feature of the political tampering which has been going on since the Roosevelt campaign fund investigation, was the coming testimony of William D. Hoar, of Pennsylvania, whose series of Standard Oil letters have created such a furor in political circles. His testimony was strictly responsible for the dramatic turn of the investigation just before its adjournment.

He published an alleged letter from John D. Archbold to Senator Penrose enclosing a credit slip for $2,000. The demand for an explanation that grew out of this publication is Senator Penrose's stand, where he testified that he had received the $2,000 contribution, but that it was used partly for the Republican campaign fund in Pennsylvania.

The testimony he supplemented by the accusation against Roosevelt, which was the subject of the investigation. Senator Penrose's stand, where he testified that he had received the $2,000 contribution, but that it was used partly for the Republican campaign fund in Pennsylvania.

A further sensation has been arranged by the Standard Oil company, which has been selected by the Democratic party to be a member of the investigation. Senator Penrose has selected by the Democratic party to be a member of the investigation.

Senator Penrose has selected by the Democratic party to be a member of the investigation. Senator Penrose has selected by the Democratic party to be a member of the investigation.

Senator Penrose has selected by the Democratic party to be a member of the investigation. Senator Penrose has selected by the Democratic party to be a member of the investigation.

Senator Penrose has selected by the Democratic party to be a member of the investigation. Senator Penrose has selected by the Democratic party to be a member of the investigation.

Senator Penrose has selected by the Democratic party to be a member of the investigation. Senator Penrose has selected by the Democratic party to be a member of the investigation.

Senator Penrose has selected by the Democratic party to be a member of the investigation. Senator Penrose has selected by the Democratic party to be a member of the investigation.

ROOSEVELT'S DAUGHTER WORKS FOR HIS ELECTION

MISS ETHEL ROOSEVELT New York, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Miss Ethel Roosevelt, favorite daughter of ex-president Roosevelt, is taking an active part in the campaign of New York women Progressives to have her father re-elected president.

TRADE TRIPPERS TO GET PLENTY OF DINING CAR SERVICE HAVE PHONE SERVICE

The towns in the Pecos valley and talk business with their associates here. Another corporation has added to the Greater El Paso trip a success. The Pullman company, through E. N. Leamaster, its district superintendent, has arranged to furnish a hotel car.

This is V. R. Stiles, of the greatest trade trip that ever left El Paso. We are having a busy time. You follow back there are missing the time of your sweet lives.

A big bit of trade trip talk that will come floating back over the wire from Arizona cities where the 1912 trade excursion will visit next month on its annual pilgrimage of prosperity. The trade trip committee will start Tuesday or Wednesday on the final campaign of collection for the trip.

A check for $125, the cost of the entire excursion per capita will be the open sesame for a joy ride through Arizona and New Mexico, chairman Stiles says, and a telephone man from the El Paso plant will accompany the train to supervise the service. This feature was added to the convenience of the Pecos valley trade trip project and proved to be the most convenient arrangement on the trip. Business men were permitted to talk to their homes in El Paso from

WILL DISCUSS STORAGE OF FLOODS

National Irrigation Congress to Begin Sessions in Salt Lake Monday. EL PASO READY TO DEFEND DAM PROJECT

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 28.—The 20th session of the National Irrigation congress opens here on Monday morning, the deliberations to last until October 3.

This congress held its first session in Salt Lake City 23 years ago as a fitting tribute to the capital of the state in which the first Anglo-Saxon irrigation scheme ever projected was put through by the Mormon pioneers under the auspices of Brigham Young.

The Mormon capital has taken on the habit of unusual activity and its streets are already thronged with visitors and delegates to the congress, among them distinguished men from

SICK BABIES AND DESTITUTE WOMEN AIDED AT CHARITY HOUSE, ON SOUTH CAMPBELL

On June 11 the Woman's Charity association opened a charity house at No. 405 South Campbell street, which has been in operation through the summer.

Here sick babies are cared for and restored to health; ill and destitute women are sheltered until they may be placed in positions or proper medical attention provided. Several women, passing through town without means, have been placed temporarily in the home until arrangements could be made for them to continue their journey.

TWENTY-SIX LITTLE ONES ARE CARED FOR

A great work is being carried on in El Paso by the Woman's Charity association.

On June 11 the Woman's Charity association opened a charity house at No. 405 South Campbell street, which has been in operation through the summer.

Here sick babies are cared for and restored to health; ill and destitute women are sheltered until they may be placed in positions or proper medical attention provided. Several women, passing through town without means, have been placed temporarily in the home until arrangements could be made for them to continue their journey.

Here destitute men are frequently sent for meals. Two were provided with beds in the basement until placed in positions. One spent a night on the front veranda, where it was made comfortable, and afterwards placed in a sanatorium. One was placed in the court and another in the kitchen and afterwards a good position was secured where he would be self-sustaining.

The meals are all prepared and served on the first floor of the charity house. The workers in the laundry, as well as the inmates of the house, and the relief cases are here given good wholesome food. Notwithstanding the strictest economy and careful management the bills amount up as the calls are so many. Contributions or provisions will be gratefully accepted.

Here the juvenile court places neglected children in the home until their cases are disposed of. These court children are a responsibility, as precautions must be taken to prevent their being carried away from the jurisdiction of the court.

The great variety of the work necessitates constant workers in each department.

Baby Work is Heavy

The baby work during the past summer has been very heavy. The nurses have had the clinic work, outside visiting and the care of the hospital, with the assistance of an untrained assistant.

The 26 children who have been hospitalized under these conditions have all recovered but two, who were too far advanced with diarrhoea and pneumonia to yield to treatment. One child remaining in the hospital, placed the little ones require nursing and care for from two to three weeks.

A Mexican child, three years of age, was brought to the hospital with paralysis, pneumonia, constant nursing and care, which was necessary, owing to organic disease of the lungs. The little patient recovered and was then recuperated. Baby sanatorium is recuperated. His improvement has been so great that hopes are held out that he may eventually be able to walk with the assistance of braces. He still in the charity house and his happy smile touches all visitors. If some philanthropic person would contribute toward the purchase of these braces, the crawling boy might walk. Intelligence is not lacking and the child should have a chance.

A nurse has recently been installed in the hospital with an assistant and another experienced nurse in charge of the field work. This lightening labor and responsibility and increases the number of babies.

Crowded conditions exist in the ward and more room is needed before the winter weather sets in. Purches for a pneumatic mattress has been secured. A way to provide this necessary improvement engages the thought of the board at this time.

This is only a part of the work of the charity house. Other work is carried on in the hospital and in the field. Planning, labor, execution and expenses in the perfection. Besides this, there is the work of the hospital and investigation carried on in the office, the house and the employment bureau which the office has always had to maintain.

CHAMBERINO ROAD IS IN BAD SHAPE

Contract is Let for New Anthony Bridge. To Be Completed by Jan. 1. Big Apple Crop. Chamberino Road is in bad shape. Many places on the Chamberino road have been almost impassable lately for teams and automobiles.

F. M. Haynes, county superintendent of Dona Ana county, was a visitor in the school district this week.

E. W. Neville has purchased some fine Poland China hogs for his ranch at this place.

Joseph Gay has had his force of men near Anthony putting up hay on the Adams farm.

Frank Oliver and family, Mesilla, have been here for several days looking after his ranch interests.

The contract has been let for the erection of the new Anthony bridge, which is to be completed by Jan. 1, 1912. There is a large crop of apples raised this year in the valley. Among one of the best orchards is that of Jose Barrios, who has a fine crop of apples raised this year in the valley. Among one of the best orchards is that of Jose Barrios, who has a fine crop of apples raised this year in the valley.

White Mr. Barrio did not spray yet the number of fruit in fine condition damaged by the winds his returns should be large.