MAIL PAY FOR RAILROADS DISPUTED

Roads Declare That It is Too Low By $15,000,000. According to the Figures of the Government.

New York, Aug. 1.—The railroads of the United States acting through the railway mail pay committee, today make public a statement to the effect that instead of being overpaid by $9,000,000, as was claimed by former postmaster general Hitchcock, they are in fact underpaid by $15,000,000. These are the facts upon which that claim is based.

In order, if possible, to ascertain the proportionate cost of carrying the mails in relation to other railway passenger services, the postmaster general, in November, 1909, required the report of most exhaustive data by the railroads. The result was transmitted to congress on August 18, 1911. In that report, the postmaster general said that the committee of the department which has compiled the data "estimates that through a readjustment of railway mail pay on the basis of cost with six per cent. profit a saving to the government could be made of about $9,000,000."

This estimate of the costs to the railroads of carrying the mails has since been abandoned by the postoffice department, primarily because the department did not in its first estimates make allowance for any returns on that part of the railway plant used in the service. If to the postoffice department's own figures there is added proper interest on the investment and due adjustment is made as to the percentage of the railway plant used in the postal service, the following revised result is obtained as to the minimum cost:

1. Interest at 6 per cent. on 1.55 per cent. (the share of the railway plant used for postal service) of the net capital investment of all the railroads in the United States is	$16,380,000
2. The space actually used for mail and incidental thereto, but eliminated from the net capital investment's calculations	9,600,000
3. Difference between approved methods and the department's methods of separating freight and passenger expenses	5,000,000
Total	$30,980,000

If this sum is added to the net amount estimated by the government as the cost of carrying the mails, it will yield about $15,000,000 more than the sum now paid for railway mail service.
