

HER TROUBLES BEGAN EARLY

Young Lady Relates Her Experience, and Tells How She Overcame Troubles Which Started at Fifteen.

Paulina, La.—"When I was only fifteen years old," says Miss Lizzie St. Pierre, of this town, "I began suffering from womanly troubles I had all kinds of pains, felt nervous, dizzy and weak, had headache, backache, and with all that I had fever.

I commenced taking Cardul, the woman's tonic, and it made me perfectly well. Am only 17 years old now, but feel a whole lot younger.

Mama got so she couldn't sleep, and always felt dizzy. She took the Cardul treatment, and now she is in perfect health.

If you think the publication of this letter will encourage other suffering ladies to try Cardul, you may print it. I certainly feel thankful for what Cardul has done for my mother and me."

Thousands of women have written, like Miss St. Pierre, to tell of the beneficial results they obtained by taking this well-known woman's remedy. You must believe that Cardul will help you, because it has helped so many others.

Composed of purely vegetable, medicinal ingredients, having a gentle, strengthening action on the system, Cardul is a reliable remedy for young and old, and with absolutely no bad after-effects. Try it, and you will find it of benefit, whenever you need a tonic.

GOOD telephone service depends largely upon mutual courtesy. The telephone is more useful to those who talk as if face to face, for civility removes difficulties and facilitates the promptest possible connections.

As in other intercourse, it often happens that two or more people wish to talk with the same person at the same time. Without courtesy confusion is inevitable, and the confusion is greater when the people cannot see each other.

The operators must be patient and polite under all circumstances but they will do better work if they meet patience and politeness on the part of telephone users.

The Bell Telephone Service enters intimately into the social and business life of each individual. The best results come through the practice of mutual courtesy.

LESSONS IN UNNATURAL HISTORY BY DOROTHY DIX THE FISH FISH is a small, moist, unpleasant looking body which is equally at home in the water and cold storage. It is also the father of lies, and full of ptomaine poisoning and temptation to tell tarradiddles. Fish are found in all parts of the world, but their favorite habitat is a cold and clammy plate, where they are discovered surrounded by a white sauce that tastes like bill-stickers' paste. Few people have the hardihood to remove them from this environment, though occasionally you may observe an intrepid and foolhardy adventurer attempting the feat at a sixty-cent table d'hotel dinner. In appearance the fish is somewhat unprepossessing, being lacking in profile and having a mouth that resembles that of a Socialist orator. But it has a lovely, sinuous, straight front figure that atones for its facial defects. It is also possessed of a high moral character, being calm and collected, and little given to temperamental impulses. The habits of the fish are most exemplary. The males of the species are always on the water wagon, while the lady fishes are so industrious and so averse to race suicide that they fill the heart of Col. Roosevelt with approval and delight. The chief characteristic of fish appears to be their sense of humor. They are the great practical jokers of the animal world, and they like nothing better than a day's sport with a man with a $250 outfit, whom they will josh into sitting for hours at a stretch in a humped position that gives him the cramps, or else they will string him along for miles through a shallow stream without giving him anything to show for his trouble but a cold in his head. There are a great many different kinds of fish. The most common variety is the One-I-Caught-But-Could-Not-Land. This species is extremely large, about the size of a sperm whale. It is also exceedingly game, and is only caught after the most brilliant maneuvering on the part of the fisherman. The chief peculiarity, though, is its shyness, for it is observable that this paragon of the finny tribe is never hooked except when a man is fishing alone. The next most familiar variety is the fish that a man actually does catch. This variety is a small, insignificant, measly creature that his wife doesn't think worth while cooking. It is extremely expensive, a little hand caught fish not three inches long frequently costing from $300 to $500. Among other well-known varieties of fish are the sucker, which abounds in Wall street waters; the goggle-eyed perch, who infests the sightseeing automobiles and rubbers up at the tall buildings; the lobster, which flirts around the bars of the Great White Way, and the clams, which are plentiful along Fifth avenue. Women, who are great fishers of men and frequently make big catches, find that the most effective bait to use is a combination of good looks and flattery. Almost any kind of a he fish, especially an old one, will rise to that bait. How fishing comes to be classed among sports instead of among cruel and inhuman punishments is a mystery no one has ever attempted to solve. It must simply be set down as one of the vagaries of human nature that a man will leave a nice, cool, clean, comfortable office and spend from $10 to $100 to sit on the end of a broiling pier, holding a dinky little pole with a silly little line attached, fishing for a fish that hasn't been in that vicinity for ten years, and then he will return home with a blistered neck, every muscle in him aching, and brag about the fun he has had. As has been said, fish are found in all parts of the world, but the finest varieties are to be discovered at your butcher's. Also you will find that that is the cheapest place at which to fish.

FALLING HAIR MEANS DANDRUFF IS ACTIVE Save Your Hair! Get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine right now—Also stops itching scalp. Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It ruins the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on its life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.—Advertisement.
