MEDICINAL MINERAL RIVAL OF RADIUM IS DISCOVERED. Remarkable Curative Qualities Claimed for Akoz. Radium has a formidable rival, Akoz is its name, and its discoverer is John D. Mackenzie of San Francisco. As state harbor commissioner and labor commissioner, Mr. Mackenzie was one of the best known men in political circles in California. But now that he has discovered a medicinal mineral of great curative virtue, he says he is through with politics for all time. "Akoz has all the curative qualities of radium without the danger, pain or prohibitive cost," said Mr. Mackenzie. "It is a natural mineral deposit found in the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, and has proven very successful in cases of rheumatism, stomach, kidney, bladder and liver troubles. Scientists here have formed a dramatic club and their premier performance was given Friday night in the large attic of the home of the stars manager, Elizabeth Spence, at 1020 Montana street. The play, 'Mrs. Willie's Will,' was presented. The play was given for the benefit of the Sunshine Day Nursery and so successful was the first performance that a matinee is being given this afternoon. Elizabeth Spence was stage manager and director and also took the part of 'Lady Spindle.' Teresa O'Keefe acted the character of 'Mrs. Lavinia.' Nettie Southland was 'Rachel Bluestress.' Margaret Spence had the part of 'Mrs. Robinson' and 'Jennie Roberts' was acted by Harriett Purkin. Following the performance Mrs. Silverman retired. The performance was well attended." Just what the curative element in Akoz is Mr. Mackenzie cannot say because the foremost chemists in the country have been unable to tell him. The rock as it is taken from the mine has been analyzed and then the chemists have tried to reconstruct it synthetically, but when they do so the chemists are unable to isolate. At the request of Mr. Mackenzie eminent medical men throughout the United States and Europe have tried Akoz and reported very favorably. "I am sure," said Mr. Mackenzie, "that we have a mineral that is destined to overturn many accepted medical theories." Akoz has cured many cases in a very short time where remedies have failed absolutely. There is no radium in Akoz; but the mineral develops a sort of radio-activity that seems to have an affinity for almost all ailments. Kelly & Pollard's drug store is arranging to have Akoz representatives in their store beginning Tuesday, who will give further information regarding this advertisement. Try The Herald Want Ads
