BASEBALL MIGHTS, KEEP FOR CASH, SEE MONEY IN 11 GAME SERIES

Desire For Greater Profits Is Believed To Be the Reason Back of Demand For Extended World's Series, Though It Is Proposed to Reduce Price of Seats From $3 to $2; It Would Run Series Into Bad Weather.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The baseball moguls back of the plan to extend the world's series from seven to 11 games are trying to kid the dear, old public into believing that this plan was hit upon "so as to give the baseball loving public a better chance to see the games."
The real facts in the matter are that the magnates want the series extended to 11 games so they will make more money out of the series. The 1914 series was a huge disappointment to those involved. The series ran four games only, and the players got the large bulk of the receipts. The magnates don't want such a thing to happen again.
The magnates say that if the series is increased to 11 games the prices will be reduced. The seats of the past will sell at $2. At first sight that looks like a nice thing for the public, but a second squint changes the impression. The cost of the full series for only 11 games is $2 per game, which would mean $22 for every fan that attended the full set of games. It would mean $1 extra that goes into the coffers of the magnates.

An 11 game series is not practical if organized baseball folks continue their 164 game schedule, which does not close the regular season until about Oct. 3. That would make the first series date about Oct. 10. Assuming that the series ran the full limit and the continental teams were easterners, it would mean that the series would not be completed until the latter part of October. It might even run into November.

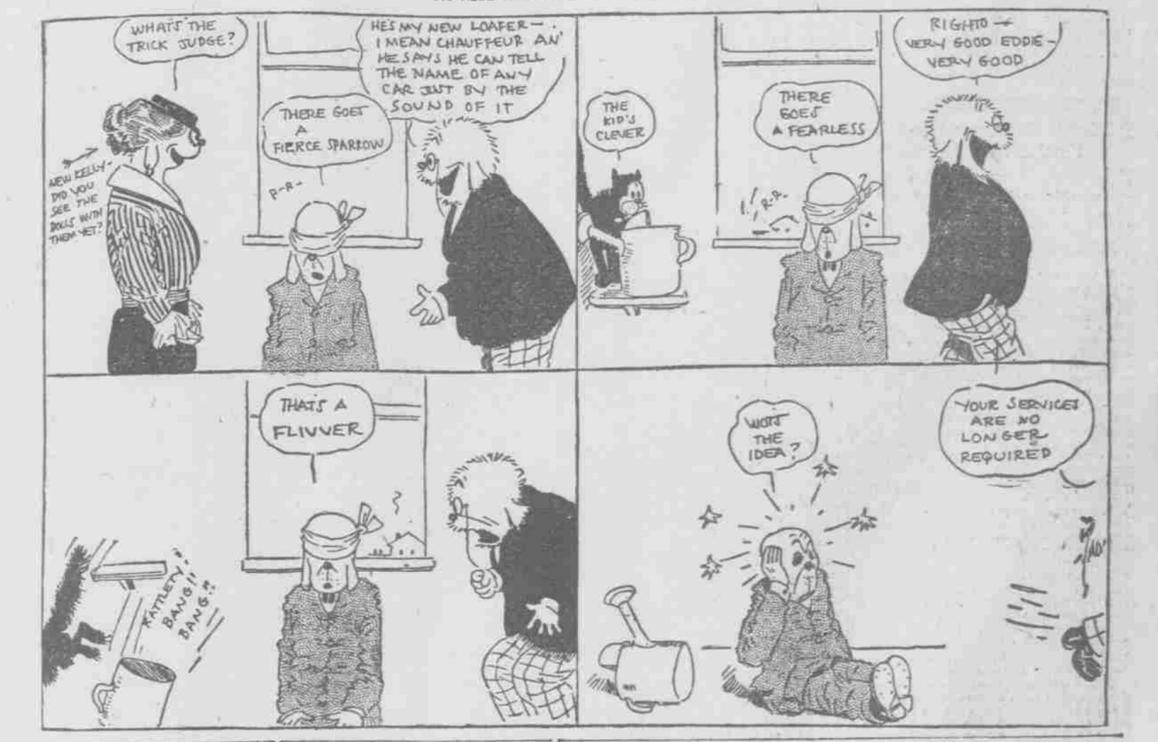

Under the proposed scheme it would take six victories to win the title. It is unlikely that any world series team could win six straight games. Winning six out of the nine would be more like it, with the chances favoring six out of 10. The use of pennants and paper will quickly show what a nice income would be derived by the magnates from a nine or 10 game series. They would get a dirty war of the first six games and then would get 50 percent of the income from the following games, with the usual commission getting the rest.

Add 11 playing days and two or three Sundays (days on which eastern clubs do not play) and you bring the series to 20 or 21 days. The latter part of October is usually productive of bad weather. Probably it would be better three days during the two weeks, which would shift the series along to the 26th or 27th. It is more than likely that one or two of those games would result in

Single Man Boxing Commission Favored Flynn Says He Was Never Big Fighter

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—It seems to be the general impression that the boxing commission will be revamped and revised by the new governor as soon as he takes office. Mr. Whitman has been quoted as saying that he has no intention of interfering with the game itself, but that he favors a paid commission. A shakeup is therefore regarded as certain.
About as good a suggestion as any that has been offered is that of having a one man government of the game, the right man, but once found the right man could do quite a jag of work in the way of making improvements here in New York city.
The right man could keep himself fairly well occupied in editing and blue penciling matches, seeing that the clubs live up to their obligations to patrons when they advertise a match. The home manager of the game, the arrangement and conduct thereof, might receive the right man's attention to the vast profit of the game, to say nothing of the matter of matters as prices of admission and boxing weights.
A one man supervisor, vested with the same authority as is vested in the president of a baseball league, for instance, would do away with a lot of red tape and delay in getting action. He could see that the rules are his hat wherever he happened to be, and there is no good reason why in the course of a comparatively short time the right man should not uplift boxing several inches.
Applications from the right man are therefore in order.

TEXAS LEAGUE OPENS ITS SEASON APRIL 8

Schedule Committee Will Make Report at Galveston Meeting; Magnates Abide by Salary Limit.
Austin, Texas, Dec. 8.—The Texas league baseball season will open on April 8 and close on Labor day, September 6, this decision having been reached at the meeting of the Texas league magnates held here, and the Fourth of July games were assigned to Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and Beaumont. The managers discussed at length the salary limit of $2000, as prescribed by the national commission, and came to the unanimous agreement that since the national commission had decided that $2000 was the limit, the Texas league would abide by this decree. The managers, individually, however, were of the opinion that it was too low. The Austin franchise came up for consideration and it was hoped that next season the Austin club would be given better support.
It was decided that the next meeting of the league magnates will be held at Galveston, January 8-10, when the committee named to prepare the schedule of games will make its report. It was also decided that the teams of the southern circuit open the season among themselves instead of meeting the northern clubs, and that the northern clubs open the season in their circuit. After the opening series, the southern clubs are to go north instead of the northern teams coming south, as has been the custom for a number of seasons.

Good Ring Generalship Wins Battle Often Helps To Avert a Knockout

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 8.—We often hear a boxer referred to as a great ring general, but I wonder how many fans have ever given serious consideration to the meaning of the term.
As a short definition I should say that ring generalship is extremely brilliant and fast thinking while in the thick of battle. Many times cleverness and ring generalship are very closely allied, but at the same time an extremely clever man might not be a great ring general.
When a man reaches a point where he can take advantage of every opportunity offered or can think fast enough to protect himself even when he is apparently beaten, then I should say that he is a great ring general.
Langford is one of the greatest ring generals I have ever seen in action. When he was floored three times in his bout with Harry Willis he was really beaten, but he never let his opponent know that he had been a great ring general. He knew he was in a bad way. He was hurt, but he realized what he must do to keep Willis away from the fight. When Corbett's head was clear, he changed from a defensive ring general to one on the offensive. He knocked Willis away and kept his head and had little difficulty scoring a knockout.
Capable seconds often add greatly to a boxer's stock of ring generalship. Little Johnny Dundee is a great little fellow.
