CHARLES BALSAR, ACTOR, IS DEAD

Leading Man of the Texas Grand Stock Co. Dies at Michigan Home.

Charles Balsar, one of the best known stock actors who ever played in an El Paso theater, died on Jan. 23 at his old mother's home in Jackson, Mich.

Balsar was the leading man of the old Leake stock Co., which played in the Texas street theater and the old Bijou during the years of 1907-8.

He was associated with Charles Ruggles, Ruth Tate, Alan Dale, Dorothy Bernard, Eleanor Haber, Brenda Fowler and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bernard.

When the company disbanded the actors scattered. The Bernard family went to Los Angeles where Miss Bernard afterward appeared in a leading part in a number of films.

Chas. Ruggles also went to Los Angeles, where he became the chief attraction of the parts at the Los Angeles theaters, including the "Tick-Tock Man."

Dr. Miller Shows Attitudes. Dr. P. P. Miller, former dictator of El Paso lodge, spoke briefly.

Mr. H. B. Homan was introduced as an expert in the treatment of tuberculosis. Dr. Homan declared that tuberculosis can be most successfully treated within a sanitarium.

Tom Lea, Not Moose, but Proud of Lodge. Tom Lea stated that he had not a Moose and that he was not a member of the lodge.

Zach Lamar Cobb, customs collector, predicted that some time the United States government would cease sending so much money out of the country and would build sanitariums throughout the arid west for the benefit of its unfortunate citizens.

Charles Kinsley, superintendent of the building, looked up at the big sign to see if all of the lights were burning in it.

Miss Minnie Louise Ferguson is seen in one of her real character interpretations as Helen Russett in the play "The Sign of the Cross."

LIONEL MACKINDER, ENGLISH COMEDIAN, KILLED IN BATTLE. London, Eng., Feb. 2.—Lionel Mackinder, a well known English comedian who was one of the first of a group of London actors who volunteered for service at the beginning of the war, has been killed at the front.

GLASS COMPANY READY TO OPEN. Practically everything is in readiness for the opening of the stock store of the Glass players at the Texas Grand theater tomorrow matinee.

INFANTRY AND CAVALRY ASSIGNMENTS ANNOUNCED. Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—Each of the following named officers of infantry assigned to the regiment indicated after his name.

MOVIES MADE OF PIONEER PLAZA BY GOOD ROADS MEN. "Movie" scenes of Pioneer plaza, showing the Mills, McCoy, Herald and Sheldon buildings, together with views of El Paso street from below the Hotel Paso del Norte, were taken Monday afternoon by J. B. Williams and A. S. Taylor.

MEXICAN COTTON AGAIN BEING SENT TO JUAREZ. Two cars of cotton, the first to be received from Mexico in months, were imported Monday at the port of El Paso.

Protect Your Home. Charles B. Stevens, a leading fire insurance man, said of Mayor Kelly, in a public speech: "He is key-rate Charley," because the mayor's administration, through increased fire protection, had secured a reduction of the insurance key rate from 44 cents to 18 cents. Three auto fire trucks purchased. Forty-two trained fire fighters in department. A first class paid up fire department. Capacity of water plant doubled. Fourteen new miles of paved street. Rewards for incendiaries. Fire marshal and daily inspections. These and other precautions brought about the key-rate reduction, which is a direct tax reduction on each home. This is the policy of "SAFETY FIRST" Advertisement.
