Sales of stock have generally been small, the demand far exceeding the supply.

"We mothers," she writes, "are realizing more and more the importance of educating our daughters in everything, fitting them for any position which they may be called upon to fill. Clubwomen have widened the sphere of their endeavor and are doing more in solving the deeper problems of life, though centering chiefly about the home and the subject which has attracted the attention of the world. Everything really is for the child and in the development of the ideal, the perfect home, cooking is only one of the things that should be studied. Sanitation, hygiene, spiritual atmosphere, all play their important part."

Mrs. Evans touches upon all in her lectures. She believes that the clubwoman has only begun her mission, which has already been started in our cities, better homes and better schools in which to rear children, and that there is much yet to achieve, which will not come until the waste and illiterate have done so much. She stresses the all-around woman, the woman who can fill her place in the home, social life and still be the home-maker and the cook if necessary.

"Know your own kitchen and be an all-around woman, is the advice she gives to those women who are striving for the best in the home and the community, the woman who should be the pillar of her family, and for humanity at large. "Cooking is only part of this," she says. "There are many other things that go with it to complete education in the best principles of life, and on all I seek to advise and instruct. Mrs. Evans will teach the art of making soups and salads, with a special lesson on baking-powder. "There are soups and soups. The heavy soup with its meat stock and soupy vegetable for a hearty meal, the delicate puree, the clear soups, the consommé, and the like, while they are usually made by women, they themselves serve as a background and appetizer for the modern man and in all these there is to be learned. The woman who is a good cook and a good housewife should know the value of the salad in the diet, the use of the vegetable, the use of the fruit, the use of the egg, the use of the milk, the use of the butter, the use of the oil, the use of the sugar, the use of the salt, the use of the pepper, the use of the vinegar, the use of the lemon juice, the use of the orange juice, the use of the tomato
