Pajama Pioneer of the Fire Escape Says "No"; Neighbors Disagree.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 9.—Young matrons cast casually at their kitchen windows. Back porches overflowed with men and women. Across the alley an elderly woman rocked in a chair. It was 9 o'clock. Sigumund Emanuel stepped out of the back door of his home at 3556 Greenview avenue. Mr. Emanuel was attired in pajamas—white pajamas, spotted, radiant. The back porches gasped. Windows shot open. Pair necks popped out. Mr. Emanuel sat down, lifted his baby on his knee and proceeded to enjoy his leisure. Fingers pointed at Mr. Emanuel. Eyes glared at him. Men growled, women glistened. The elderly woman in the rocking chair suggested "the police."

For Mr. Emanuel was more than a man in white pajamas. Mr. Emanuel was an issue, a shining example, a deflator and a pioneer. Maybe he also is a martyr. For his neighbors wrote a letter to the city law department asking what could be done to wipe out Mr. Emanuel—or at least blot out his pajamas. The agitation has been growing for weeks. Mr. Emanuel wakes up at 6 o'clock. He gets up and his leisure dates till 2 in the afternoon. During most of that time Mr. Emanuel insists it is his right to constitute himself to cover himself with whatever he wishes and to keep cool and comfortable.

"Look at Salome." "Look at Salome," said Mr. Emanuel. "Look at the women who parade around the street in short skirts. Look at the men and women in bathing suits."

The back porches seethed with whips and comments in a few minutes Mr. Emanuel was joined by J. F. Bosworth, a neighbor. Mr. Bosworth was also in pajamas, striped pajamas. Mr. Bosworth is middle aged and somewhat round. The two sat on the porch, oblivious to the agitation.

Europe silk pajamas are worn on the street," said Mr. Emanuel. "Look at my husband. Does he seem indecent? Is there anything in his about his attire? His pajamas are as effective as clothes so far as decency is concerned. They are the same weight as a Palm Beach suit. Why, I went to the movies last night and saw a woman appear in a nightgown."

"In the audience?" gasped Mr. Emanuel. "No—on the screen—but everybody in the audience appeared satisfied. There were no complaints. Look at the women on the porch. In kimonos and slippers. Why can't a man—"

Neighbor Calls It Disgrace. The wife of Edward McCarthy of 109 Barry avenue, which is next door to the Emanuel, was interviewed. "It's a disgrace," she said. "That's why my husband wrote to the city law department. He doesn't want to go to his porch without having to look at a man in pajamas."

Mr. Emanuel's explanation. "They're jealous of me," she said. "It's a clothesline scrap, and they're picking on my husband, that's all. Let them pick," said Mr. Emanuel. "I'll remain cool in my pajamas. I'm not in the least disgraced. Having failed to obtain satisfaction from the city law department, Mrs. McCarthy said she believed her husband might make a "test case of it for the decency of the city." Mr. Emanuel replied that he was ready to do anything that would make himself comfortable on the porch. No police arrived. No violence was offered. But the advertised event of Mr. Emanuel's pajama party in the kitchen routine of the neighborhood. The young matrons gathered casually at their back windows.

THE UNIQUE.

"God's Country and the Woman," from the book of Oliver Curwen, will start a four days' engagement tomorrow at the Unique. BILLIE BURKE AT GRECIA TODAY.

Billie Burke, with all her winsomeness, her beauty, her wifeliness, graces the screen at the Grecia today. Special attention is called to the devotees of "Gloria's Romance" that this picture is now being shown only one day each week, on Wednesdays, so today is the last chance to see the eleventh episode of this charming story. Owing to the numerous requests of our patrons we have decided to repeat tomorrow "The Payment," which so profoundly impressed those who saw it yesterday.—Adv.

"STRONGER THAN WOMAN'S WILL."

A powerful drama will be shown at the Elton today, "Stronger Than Woman's Will." This is a strong story of a woman who spurned love for the sake of ambition and a career. She is beset by destiny and casts them all off. A strong man, however, loves her, and stands by, watching her work out her destiny as an artist. It is an extra good picture. There will be no increase in prices. Charlie Chaplin will be seen tomorrow in one of his real comedies.—Adv.

NEW ATTEMPT TO CREATE GOVERNMENT SHIPPING BOARD.

C., Aug. 9.—The second attempt of the administration to create a government shipping board to undertake rehabilitation of the American merchant marine began in the early hours of today, conditions in marked contrast to those which characterized the hotly fought losing struggle in the last congress.

Print Paper Famine Cause of Steps Taken to Conserve Supplies.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 8.—Because of the famine of news print paper, threatening many newspapers with suspension of publication, newspaper publishers of this city have reached the following agreement: "All daily, evening and Sunday newspapers will immediately reduce the size of their issues to the extent of a total not in excess of 50 pages weekly. "That, beginning Sept. 1 next the accepting from wholesale purchasers of unsold copies of all morning, evening and Sunday newspapers will be discontinued. Hereafter this privilege shall be granted to newsboys, news agents, news stands and carriers. At the meetings facts and features were submitted showing that the mills have been unable to supply the increased demand for news paper. "Not only have the mills not been able to lay in a reserve stock during the summer months, as in former years, but they are at the present time below their normal supply. So serious has the situation become that it was pointed out that unless drastic reduction of consumption was enforced, some newspapers throughout the country would be confronted with possible suspension of publication. Many prominent dailies throughout the state of Pennsylvania have notified the Philadelphia publishers that they will follow their lead in reduction in size of output and in cutting off returns of unsold copies."

Pie Factory At Nogales Makes 3000 Daily for the Soldiers At 8 Cents Each

Nogales, Ariz., Aug. 9.—Indignation is expressed locally over stories sent broadcast of sickness in the Nogales camps of soldiers. On the contrary, however, it is reported that not a single case of contagious disease is here at the present time. "Possibly to give a more home-like flavor to the border, a pie factory has been established in Nogales, with capacity for 3000 pies a day, cooked in gas ranges. The baker has made contract for most of his output with the various company messes, at the rate of 8 cents per pie. Complaint is made that the presence of soldiers has added 50 percent to the prices of some commodities. Wood has gone up to $10 a cord.

JUAREZ RAILROAD OFFICIALS DENY THEY CHARGE FOR CARS

Strenuous denials were made Wednesday by Mexican officials that a charge of $5 per car was being made by railroad employes in Juarez for placing empties on tracks at the request of shippers. "The yardmaster recently appointed by Gen. Francisco Gonzalez, declared the charges were being spread as the result of jealousy on the part of a discharged employe. "Whenever there are cars available, the shippers can have them without a cent of cost to them," said Mr. Arias, "if they have any complaint to make, why don't they come to me? Please publish a vigorous denial of these charges."

BUY GOVERNMENT GOODS AND GO TO JAIL

Determined to put a stop to the illegal sale of government goods, the provost guard have been ordered to arrest every person wearing any article of government manufacture or who are in possession of any such goods, or who are employed by the government. "The maximum fine for this offense is two years in the federal prison at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., and a fine of $500, although there are lesser sentences. According to reports by the provost marshal, two persons have been arrested within the past three days on charges of purchasing automobile pistols sold to them by soldiers who finding that they needed a small amount of money, had no hesitation in disposing of their goods. The persons were turned over to the federal authorities. The pistols were identified by their numbers which are in the hands of the quartermaster of each company or troop, and also by the government stamp on the side. On one of the pistols the amount of $1 had been loaned while the other was sold for $2. The order does not apply to pistols in particular, however, as wearing apparel, such as shirts, trousers and underclothing sold to the government employe at actual cost, and found in the possession of any soldier, are confiscated and the person arrested. Shirts are said to be especially numerous among the citizens of the city and all individuals found wearing them will be taken to the office of the provost marshal and will be subject to an investigation. The olive drab shirt is identified by a large patch on the sleeve, where it has been reinforced at the elbow, and if the wearer is unable to give a satisfactory explanation as to how he got it, he will be turned over to the federal authorities. The police have also been asked to combine in the effort to prevent the sale of government goods, and in the future a sharp lookout will be kept for all offenders of this law.

NINTH MASSACHUSETTS PASSES PHYSICAL EXAMINATIONS

The ninth Massachusetts infantry is one of the fine physical commands in the militia. This was shown Wednesday when the physical examination of the regiment was completed and it was found that practically all of the men of the Massachusetts command are in physical condition to continue militia service. The inspection has been in progress for two days and is the rigid federal inspection to weed out the men who are unfit for service. The soldiers are given deep breathing tests, are inspected for physical defects and measured to see that they conform to the army standards. The Massachusetts infantry regiment passed these examinations with high records and it is not expected that more than 10 men out of the regiment will be lost to it because of the examination. The ninth will go onto the patrol line Thursday.

Only 150 Soldiers of the 1491 in Regiment Non-Catholics; Have Chapel.

Of the 1491 soldiers of the ninth Massachusetts infantry stationed at Camp Cotton, only 150 are non-Catholics. With the daily services and erection of the chapel of St. Catherine in the regimental quarters, there is an atmosphere in camp which is wholly Catholic. Father M. P. O'Connor is chaplain of this unique command. "I have a fine body of men, which is on a par to any other militia organization in this district," the chaplain says.

Each morning, before the little St. Catherine chapel, that is opened on all four sides in clear weather, a large crowd of men kneels and receives communion. Every Catholic of the Ninth Massachusetts turns out each morning in time to be at the services which begin at 5:15 o'clock and closes before reveille. Seldom does Col. Edward L. Logan, commander of the ninth, miss the morning service. And the men of the eighth and fifth attend regularly.

"It is encouraging to me," said father O'Connor, "to see the interest that the men are taking in the religious services. They are attending in great crowds. I believe they would come to a service if I were to announce it for midnight. It is inspiring to be among the men and have their close companionship. "Must Keep Promises. "If there is anything to give the boys a 'dressing down' for usually resort to persuasive methods. I find it sticks to them. I always try to limit my Sunday talks to ten to fifteen minutes so as to not become tiresome. What I want to impress upon the men of this regiment is the fact that they must keep their promises to mothers and sisters they left at home that they would live a moral life. Father O'Connor was a soldier of the ninth Massachusetts infantry before he became its chaplain. He has been the chaplain of the regiment since 1910 and his predecessor, father James Lee, was chaplain of the ninth Massachusetts for 27 years.

Graduate of Holy Cross College.

Father O'Connor is a graduate of Holy Cross College of Worcester, Mass., and while not in the militia service is connected with the St. Francis de Sales parish, Roxbury, Mass., which is located near Boston. Father O'Connor graduated in 1897 and took the study of philosophy and theology at St. John's Seminary, Brighton, Mass. From there he went to Stoneham, Mass., parish and served there for six years before being transferred to Roxbury. While at home father O'Connor takes an active interest in the affairs of his militia organization. He attends the drills of the regiment, each Tuesday evening at the armory and goes on all of the camps with the organization. "Proud of Company G. Father O'Connor takes pride in G company of the ninth. "According to the war department company G has the best standing of any other militia unit in the country," said he. "In inspections this company always makes 100 percent."
