An Organization or an Individual

A Trust Company, as organized, is vastly more competent than an individual in the task of managing an Estate.

First is its Board of Directors—many individuals—who are the arbiters of its policies. Then there are the Officers, specialists in Estate management. Lastly, the trained clerical staff.

Can a mortal individual approximate the efficiency of such a trained organization?

May we have the opportunity of explaining to you in detail the facilities for Trust Service which are at your disposal?

Write or call today for our booklet, "Questions and Answers About Wills and Estates," which will show you the value of a Trust.
