J. N. O. Thompson will soon have a fine residence on Craig's hill on east Third street. The basement and foundation is about ready.

It looks as though hay was going to start off at a good price and with a bumper crop the farmers' pocket will soon be bulging out with coin.

The council has decided to install the fire hydrants by force account, the work to be conducted under the jurisdiction of city engineer, F. M. Carter. Councilman Bench voted against installation at present.

Prof. J. A. Torney of the state agricultural college, spent Tuesday in the city as advance man for the college demonstration train that is to be in our city, Friday. Every farmer in the valley should be on hand and receive the benefit of a host of free information that will be given out that day.

If it's a nice piece of job printing you have to give out, send it to the Dawn office. We make a specialty of high grade work and have the largest and best assortment of the latest faces in job type in the city, as well as the best of inks, and printers—they are real artists, not imitators, real printers, not makeshifts or misfits.

A fire in Easton at an early hour Monday morning wiped out nearly every business house in the town with the exception of Johnson Bros. establishment, A. G. Anderson's store, the Seattle cafe, Bud's Grill, the concrete saloon, Red's saloon, Guilan's barber shop, Phipp's pool hall, Seaman's Meat Market, Hotel Beaty and Hotel Pelton and another saloon. The total loss is estimated to be in the neighborhood of $50,000.

S. T. Packwood of Upper Lake, Cal who for twenty-five years resided in this county and in an early day was sheriff, also county commissioner, arrived Sunday to spend a few weeks here visiting his children and a host of old friends and neighbors. He looks as natural as one could possibly expect and appears to be the picture of health. He and wife may possibly visit their old home in Missouri before returning to California this fall.

W. P. Hiddleston is being very generally endorsed by the best element of this county, irrespective of party, for the office of receiver of the United States land office at North Yakima. He is eminently qualified for the position and as deserving as any man in the district. He has been loyal and consistent and has on one or more occasions been honored by the party for the nomination for county assessor.

There are but few editors in our state who have not made a vigorous and continuous fight against the city mail order house. This has been done in the interest of the home merchant, and without money and without price. If the editors of the land had received regular advertising rates for all they have said against these enemies of the country merchant they could now be wearing diamonds. Now the department store man appreciates advertising space and is willing to take all the average country editor has for sale, and at a good place. What other class of business or professional men would refuse business to help their friends, especially as many of said friends never seem in the least disposed to return the compliment or even appreciate it.—Tacoma Democrat.

The Sum and Substance of being a subscriber to The Dawn is that you and your family become attached to it. The Dawn becomes a member of the family and each its coming each week will be as welcome as the arrival of anyone that's dear.

It will keep you informed on the doings of the community and the barons of the merchants regularly advertised will enable you to save many times the cost of the subscription.

Exercising Rights

Every man has a right to take a paper, or stop it for any reason of for no reason at all. But at the same time there is a certain responsibility attached to all actions, even so trivial as stopping a paper because the editor says something one doesn't agree with. There is a complaint that editors lack fearlessness and honesty, that newspapers are too generally more partisan organs that disregard the claims of truth and justice when political interests are at stake. There is too much truth in the charge! But let us ask how it is possible for a fearless, honest, outspoken journal to live if every man is to cry out "stop my paper" whenever he reads something that does not accord with his views? The man that insists that the paper that read shall never say anything contrary to their views are the ones who are in a large measure, responsible for the craven cowardliness of modern journalism. In a community composed entirely of these "stop my paper" people, true independent journalism would be impossible. When you are convinced that a paper is dishonest and deceitful, stop it. When convinced that it is unclean, stop it. When it lacks enterprise and fails to give you news, stop it. But don't stop a paper that you believe to be honest, enterprising, clean and courageous, simply because the editor has written his own sincere views instead of pouring or some other person's; for if you do you are getting a premium on insincere journalism and serving notice on an editor that the way to succeed is not what he thinks will please his readers, but what he thinks is honestly the truth.

UNSIGHTLY FACE SPOTS.

Pfeiffer Chemical Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis. (Adv.)

There's a Reason

We hear much talk of high taxes—sure—what else could you expect? The advancement of the city, civic, and otherwise, costs money and a mint of it. The pavement of the business section has been a burden to every property owner in that section as well as the tenant. As a matter of fact, the paving of the city should be paid for by the city at large. It belongs to everybody and is not part or parcel of the adjoining property. True, it adds value to the property abutting and the owner pays for that value by increased assessment, which is all he should have to pay. He does not own the street, but he must pay for its paving. Is it fair? No it is not, and the time is coming when some one with money to spend will carry the matter into the courts for settlement, and as sure as he does, there will be more than one set of eyes opened to the fact that all city improvements must be paid for by the city at large, or at least that would be not only a plausible, but a just decision of the court. If not, why not?

SINCERITY.

Never be ashamed to say "I do not know." Men will then believe you when you say "I do know."

Never be ashamed to say "I can't afford it." "I can't afford to waste time in the idleness to which you invite me" or "I can't afford the money you ask me to spend." Never affect to be other than you are—either wiser or richer.

Learn to say "No" with decision; "Yes" with caution; "No" with decision when it resists temptation; "Yes" with caution whenever it implies a promise, for a promise once given is a bond inviolable.

A man is already of consequence in the world when it is known that we can implicitly rely upon him. Often have I known a man to be preferred in stations of honor and profit because he had this reputation. When he said he knew a thing he knew it, and when he said he would do a thing he did it.—Bulwer Lytton.

Damman-Fulmer

Invitations are out for the wedding of Harold Damman, formerly of this place, and Miss Ruth Fulmer at Port Angeles on Wednesday, next. Mr. Damman was graduated from the Civil Engineering department of the State College two years ago and is now resident engineer for one of the big railway companies in British Columbia. Miss Fulmer is the niece of Prof. Elton Fulmer and was a former student at the college.—The Pullman Tribune.

DAMMAN-FULMER NUPTIALS

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized on Wednesday a. m., the 2nd, when Mr. Harold Damman and Miss Ruth Fulmer were married by the Rev. C. E. Fulmer, father of the bride. The rooms were prettily decorated with roses and ferns, while in one corner of the room was arranged a veritable floral bower, from the center of which was hung a bell of green foliage and roses.

The color scheme of yellow and white predominated in the decorations. The guests, thirty-eight in number, were ushered in by little Helen McLeod and Verna Fowler, who were dressed in dainty white dresses and yellow sashes.

At 11 o'clock, Mrs. C. L. Baker began playing the familiar strains of the "Bridal March" and immediately Mr. Damman and his best man, Mr. Donald Fordyce, entered from the far end door and took their places under the wedding bell. The bride, attended by her maid of honor Miss Lorena Fulmer, entered from the hall and took her place at the left of the groom. The pretty and impressive service was used and concluded with a short prayer. After the ceremony was over the bride and groom were heartily congratulated by their friends.

The bride was very charming in cream tulle silk, trimmed with lace and carried white bride's roses. Her only ornament was the gift of the groom, a pearl lavalier.

Miss Lorena Fulmer, the maid of honor and sister of the bride was very lovely in yellow silk tulle, and her bouquet was of yellow roses and foliage.

The dining room, where a delicious two course luncheon was served, again accentuated the color scheme of yellow and white. The favors were tiny slipper filled with orange blossoms, and yellow bonbon cups further added to the daintiness of the table decorations.

A merry party accompanied the happy pair to the boat in autos, where amid showers of rice and roses they were given an appropriate farewell.

Mrs. Damman is well known in the city, having taught for two years in the public schools, and her host of friends join in wishing her much happiness.

Mr. Damman, whose home is in Ellensburg is a graduate of Pullman State College, and is engaged in engineering work in British Columbia. The out of town guests were Mrs. Ellen Fulmer, Mrs. L. A. Wright of Gibbon, Neb., Mr. and Mrs. Damman and Mr. Raymond Damman of Ellensburg, and Mr. Donald Fordyce of Pullman.

Mr. Damman was raised in Kittitas valley and has a host of friends in Ellensburg and vicinity.

The farmers of Willapa harbor and the grocermen of Raymond met a few days since and arranged plans to the effect that all the products of farms would find a ready sale, the merchants buying all that they would dispose of on certain days and the farmers selling direct to the people of the city, going from house to house on certain other days of the week, thus ensuring fresh and crisp vegetables, fruits, etc., every day.

That's the kind of co-operation that ought to exist everywhere. There's no reason why the merchants of any city or town should ship in vegetables and refuse to buy the products of the home gardener. The farmer who offers his products to the home merchant may not always have it put up in proper style, but with a little instruction from his merchant, can soon do the job up brown. Of course there comes times when the merchant might find it difficult to handle all the products of the farm and garden at home, but if it be handled correctly, he might be able to ship it to the city and dispose of it, and it would be profitable, too, even if he got only cost out of it, as it would cement the ties of friendship between the merchants of the town and the farmers of the valley and would eventually choke out all Shears & Sawbuck mail order houses. The great kick we hear of our home merchants and farmers—on the contrary, much misunderstanding—and as results, much bickering and ill-will that ought to have no place in city or valley, and steps should be taken at once to obliterate the false impressions from the minds of all. It has, we feel sure driven thousands of dollars out of this valley and into the coffers of mail order concerns, the open foe of every business house in this city, and saying this we do so knowing that less than five per cent of our business use our columns to advance their own business, but we have stated the facts.

The city council at its Monday evening session passed an ordinance prohibiting lunch wagons on the streets of the city.

Misses Lydia Altice and J. K. Kaelin, two graduate nurses, have purchased the city hospital and are now in charge.

Supreme Court Decision

The supreme court of the United States recently made a ruling which in substance makes the subscriber who takes his paper out of the post-office and refuses to pay the subscription, guilty of felony, and liable to arrest as any other who defrauds.

The following is a synopsis of the United States supreme court decision regarding delinquent subscription.

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to renew their subscription.
2. Subscribers ordering the discontinuance of their periodical the publisher may continue to send bill until all arrears are paid.
3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodical from the post-office, they are responsible until they settle their bill and order their paper discontinued.
4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher and any papers are sent to the former address, subscribers are responsible.
5. Courts have decided that refusing periodicals from the office or moving and leaving them uncollected for is prima facie evidence of intention to defraud.
6. If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of time if they do not want to continue taking it, otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it and the subscriber will be responsible until an express notice with payment is sent to publisher.

He Gave the Lord a Nickel

Yesterday he wore a rose on the lapel of his coat, but when the plate was passed to-day he gave a nickel to the Lord. He has several bills in his pocket, and surely change, perhaps a dollar's worth, but he hunted and finding this poor little nickel, hid it on the plate to give a flourish in its fight against the world, the flesh and the devil. His silk hat was beneath the seat, and his gloves and cane were beside it, and the nickel was on the plate—a whole nickel.

On Saturday afternoon he met a friend, and together they had some refreshments. The cash register stamped thirty-five cents on the slip the boy presented to him. Peeling off a bill, he handed it to the lad and gave him a nickel tip when he brought back the change. A nickel for the Lord and a nickel for the waiter!

And the man had his shoes polished on Saturday afternoon and handed out a dime without a murmur. He had a shave and paid fifteen cents with equal alacrity. He took a box of candies home to his wife, and paid forty cents for them, and the box was tied with a dainty bit of ribbon. Yes, and he also gave a nickel to the Lord.

Who is this Lord?

Who is He? Why, the man worships Him as Creator of the universe, the One who puts the stars in order, and by whose immutable decree the heavens stand. Yes, he does, and he dropped a nickel in to support the church militant.

And what is the church militant?

The church militant is the church that represents upon the earth the triumphant church of the great God.

And the man knew that he was an atom in space, and he knew that the Almighty was without limitations, and knowing this he put his hand in his pocket, and picked out the nickel, and gave it to the Lord.

And the Lord being gracious, and slow to anger, and knowing our frame, did not slay the man for the meanness of his offering, but gives him this day his daily bread.

The nickel hid beneath a quarter that was given by a poor woman that washes for a living.

FOR GROWERS OF TOMATOES.

Staking is Necessary if Finish of Early Fruit is a Consideration.

Whether to stake or not to stake tomatoes is a much debated subject, says a correspondent of Gardening. Like a good many others, this one will never be settled to the satisfaction of all. Where it pays one man to stake and sucker part or all of his crop another would lose money by doing so.

Many experiments are misleading because they lack the practical side. By this we mean the ability to take the crop to market and bring home the money.

We find that for the early trade it is absolutely necessary to stake our tomatoes, as we cannot sell the product from prostrate vines. It lacks the finish which is so necessary for table fruit. There are other considerations. During rainy spells the trained vine will set fruit where the other will not, and when it comes to picking the crop we gain all the time and labor lost for staking.

To us it is more a matter how to stake than any other. We have had very good results by transferring the greenhouse system outdoors. This is simply setting stakes about ten feet apart and stretching a wire over these to which the vertical strings are tied upon which the vines are hoisted. We generally have four plants between the stakes and use American twine fax. We used to stretch a bottom wire, but found it very much in the way for boxing, hence quit it and get along just as well by simply tying the twine loosely to the tomato plants near the ground.

Salt For the Stock.

Shall we salt stock? A friend says to feed the salt in the feed and not let them have access to it. His grounds are that he does not like to eat unsalted food and then go in the pantry and eat a lot of salt, and he takes it that the sheep or cow is like him in this respect. This looks like good logic.—Farm Progress.

CAREFUL PRESCRIPTION WORK

We are not infallible. No human is. But we have our work so systematized and are so careful about every phase of it, that we certainly have reason to be proud of its clean record.
