

PETER CARABL TELLS OF THE TERRIBLE ACCIDENT

Peter Carabl, who was injured while working in the Old Town mill last week, is on the highroad to recovery. When seen by a Times reporter today the injured man was quite talkative. He describes the accident in detail. In speaking of the manner in which he was hurt, Mr. Carabl said: "I was feeling fine that day, more like playing than doing anything else, but I played once too often. I lay down on some lumber which was on the rolls. I pushed myself along towards the cutoff saw just for a joke, when I was opposite the saw someone spoke to me, and I started to rise with my face away from the saw. As I did so, the teeth of the saw caught in my clothing and pulled me onto it. I made a strong effort to jerk away, but could not until a deep gash had been cut in both shoulders. I can hear now the sound of the saw as it cut through the bones."

Mr. Carabl lives at 2808 South A street. He is the father of nine children, four boys and five girls, all of whom are living.

BEGAN TEACHING WHEN HE WAS 15

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 2.—From a 15-year-old teacher of a district school to the presidency of Minnesota university is a far cry, but it is the record of President Cyrus Northrop. His first money was earned as teacher of a district school in Richfield, Conn., and his school numbered 50 pupils.

He says he was so young that he did not realize the difficulties of his position. Though some of his students were older than himself, there was no difficulty in discipline, and for the year that he taught no complaints of any kind were raised against him.

In those days the president says a course at Yale meant study early and late, and after his experience as a pedagogue and later severe application at Williston seminary, where he prepared for college, he was not able to undergo the hardships of the course, and after two terms left Yale supposedly a victim of consumption.

After another year, however, he returned and completed the course. Since then the rise of the slim-figured schoolmaster has been constant, until he has reached a place higher than any of those who set out on the race from the class of "Yale '57."

HAS A BULLET IN HIS BRAIN

Fred Poeppinger, a 15-year-old boy, who was struck by a spent bullet November 13, has apparently recovered from the effects of the injury, though he still carries a bullet in his brain. The bullet was discovered by Dr. E. M. Brown, who made an X-ray examination of the head. The bullet had ranged back an inch and a half from the point of entrance in the right temple.

Beyond the nervous shock the boy apparently was not affected by the injury. He has now recovered from that and the fact that he carries a bullet in his brain does not seem to inconvenience him in the least.

INSTALL OFFICERS

A joint meeting of the old veterans and Women's Relief corps was held last evening in Fawcett hall for the installation of officers for the ensuing year.

The Stage

"HELLO, BILL."

The performance of "Hello, Bill" at the Tacoma theater last night proved to be one of the funniest comedies ever presented there. The entire company is much above the average and kept the audience in laughter from the first act until the curtain went down at the close of the last. John Daly Murphy, well known in Tacoma, was Bill, and handled the part with ease.

BLUE RIBBON BOWLERS HOLD WORLD'S RECORD

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 4.—Outside of Erie few persons ever heard of the Blue Ribbon bowling team until they broke the world's record recently by hitting it up for 1,164 pins in competition. Had Charles Wilson rolled the game he is capable of there is no telling how high the score would have gone, but he fell down and the two errors, in the fourth and eighth frames respectively, were enough to spoil his game. They were the only errors in the game. The difference between Wilson's score and that of Stahlbrodt was just 109 pins. The Blue Ribbons will doubtless represent Erie at the American bowling congress in Cleveland, O., in February.

BURGLAR IS IDENTIFIED

Frank Garrett, who was taken to Seattle Saturday by Detective M. R. Hubbard was identified as one of the men who broke into the home of C. F. Burgess, 811 South G street, New Year's eve. The family had gone to the theater and but for the early return of one of the boys, Frank Burgess, the thieves would have made a good haul. He ran into one of the burglars in the dining room and was able to get a good look at him. The man escaped by jumping out of a window.

While Burgess was looking to see which way the fellow went another man came downstairs and went out the front door. The contents of several dresser drawers were found emptied on the floor, but the thieves had taken nothing with them.

BASEBALL

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4.—A six-club circuit and two seasons of four months each has been decided upon by the Pacific Coast baseball league. The application of Spokane for admission to the league was temporarily laid on the table. No salary limit, no increase of the original 25 cent general admission, and the placing of contract jumpers on an eternal blacklist were other matters that were settled.

The only objection made to the division of the season was that the deciding games would have to be played in San Francisco and Los Angeles, owing to the inclement fall weather in the North. By this arrangement Seattle and Tacoma will have a chance to fight out their battles on neutral ground.

Tacoma opens at Fresno with Portland March 27. The Tacoma team will play at Fresno the first five and the last five weeks of the season.

DECEMBER WEATHER

The highest temperature during December was 56 degrees, recorded on December 15, the lowest 29 degrees, on December 4. On the 29th the variation was 18 degrees, the greatest for the month. The wind blew mostly from the southwest and on December 1 reached a velocity of 30 miles an hour.

During the month of December there were two clear days, six partly cloudy and 23 when it rained, according to the report of the weather bureau.

PATSY CARROLL DIES IN WANT

SEATTLE, Jan. 4.—Patsy Carroll, a well known sporting character, died yesterday at noon at the Wayside mission. He was taken there three days ago from a lodging house where he was found in the last stages of consumption.

Captain Hogle, of the city ambulance, who was called to take him out of the lodging house, was surprised to see his condition. The athletic muscles which in their day had put to sleep many a so-called prizefighter were wasted until the man did not weigh more than 60 pounds. Captain Hogle knew Patsy well in the days when he was in his prime, and, picking him up in his arms, carried him out of the house as though he was a child. Carroll a few years ago was one of the best middleweights who ever entered a ring.
