

BLUE AND GRAY MARCHED IN GORDON'S FUNERAL CORTEGE

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 14.—The most impressive funeral which ever occurred in this state was given to General Gordon at 10 o'clock this morning. Among those present were Governors Terrell of Georgia, Heyward of South Carolina and Jennings of Florida.

The procession was three miles long, including General Barry, commanding the Department of the Gulf, who was in full dress and accompanied by a company of United States regulars, followed by 3,000 Confederates and Grand Army men, marching side by side.

By proclamation memorial services were held in all towns in the state between 10 and 12 o'clock. Gordon was buried in the Soldiers' cemetery.

CLUB WOMEN PLAN A SCHOOL

The City Federation of Women's clubs, composed of delegates from the thirteen women's clubs in Tacoma, met this morning to complete arrangements for undertaking the work of establishing a "Home-makers' School" in Tacoma. The object and scope of the school is implied in its name—it is an institution where will be given technical training that will help make ideal housekeepers.

The curriculum of the school will embrace a course in cooking designed to teach the dietetic value of different food products, the chemistry of foods, what foods are the most healthful and nourishing, and how to prepare food for persons subject to constitutional ailments. In another department will be taught the principles of laundrying, washing fine linens, laces, flannels, etc., and the third department will be devoted to sewing.

The location of the school has not been decided upon, but a committee has the matter in charge and is looking for two suitable rooms. One of the ladies said this morning: "The problem of securing quarters for the school is a serious one. A few years ago it would have been an easy matter to find a vacant building in any part of the city, but the situation is wonderfully changed. We find that vacant buildings are at a premium."

The school will be started on a small scale and increase the capacity as the demand increases. One teacher, a graduate of one of the Eastern schools, probably from Pratt institute, New York, will be engaged to organize the classes and have charge of the school.

When this school is established Tacoma will have the distinction of being the only school of the kind in Washington, and probably the only one of the kind in the Northwest.

Although arrangements are not entirely complete, there is little doubt that the school is an assured fact, for behind the movement are many of the influential women of the city.

Mrs. E. A. Henderson, president of the City Federation, has been the prime mover in the enterprise.

CARNIVAL FOR TAFT

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 14.—Advices by mail this morning from Manila give the details of a magnificent winter fete and Venetian carnival given in farewell to Governor Taft. MARINE GLIMPSSES

Captain Wilson's steamer Greyhound, which has been fitting up here for the past ten days, is expected to leave for Olympia tonight. It is reported that she will return Saturday morning and will cover the run between here and Olympia in opposition to the McDonald steamers.

A broken windlass on the barkentine Newsboy caused trouble yesterday afternoon, when the vessel dragged two anchors and drifted off toward Quartermaster harbor. The tug Elf towed her back to the West Coast Lumber company's dock.

There is much complaint among local steamboat men regarding the careless use of firearms along the docks. Captain Hunt of the Crest says a shot was fired as he was passing the elevators yesterday and the bullet struck the steamer's house.

Lorenz Brothers' new steamer Tyrus was docked at Elevator B today, where her boiler will be placed in position.

The steamer Jennie was at the gravity bunkers this morning and will shift to the Northwestern dock for 250 tons of wheat this afternoon.

The Onfa was shifted from the bunkers to the Oriental dock by the tugs Falcon and Fearless this morning.

FAMILY TROUBLES AIRED IN COURT

The case of Mary Barnstern against John Barnstern for divorce was called in Judge Huston's court this morning. Suit was brought on the ground that the husband was an habitual drunkard.

When Mrs. Barnstern took the stand she lost her nerve and was unable to testify and could not even tell where she lived. The court was obliged to take a recess of half an hour to give her time to recover.

Mrs. Barnstern is not a stranger in the Pierce county divorce court. The records show that she was divorced from Joseph Platte, her first husband. The next one was Frank Sanders, from whom she was divorced, and then married to him again and divorced the second time, when she married Barnstern.

The evidence showed that Barnstern is a woodchopper and a good workman, but that occasionally he would drink a little and sometimes come home unsteady, but he stoutly denied that this was being drunk.

The judge expressed himself as favorably impressed with his appearance and that he did not look to him like an habitual drunkard. "Because a man drinks occasionally and even brings a bottle home with him," said the court, "it doesn't make him an habitual drunkard. If it did, there would be a good many of them in this city."

The court further remarked that he was growing tired of listening to family squabbles at the rate of five or six a week, and thought that people ought to settle their differences at home and not rush into the divorce court.

The divorce was not granted because the evidence failed to show that the man was an habitual drunkard.

Leo & Cass appeared for Mrs. Barnstern and Harry H. Johnston for the defense.

FIREMEN CALLED TO LUMBER DISTRICT

An alarm from box 64, in the lumber district, called three engines, a hose wagon and a truck company and chemical engine No. 1 to Donahue's mill yard this morning at 1 o'clock. The fire in the dump pile had been getting considerable headway and the watchman thought it would get beyond control. To be on the safe side he pulled the box that brought most of the apparatus in the city to the scene. There was no damage done to the mill property whatever.

SCOURGE OF COLD WAS SERIOUS MATTER TO NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Dr. Parkhurst prophesied that New York city would be hell when Tammany took control. The first two weeks have not by any means come up to the biblical plans and specifications. Where the fiery lake ought to be knee-deep, a coat of snow has lain. Sleet instead of sulphur and a deadly below zero chill in place of brimstone flames have enveloped a cold-blue city. If the fires of hell were kindled on New Year's day they haven't made any impression.

New York hasn't wriggled in such an icy grip for more than a decade. Even the famous blizzard of 16 years ago caused on the whole less suffering. That was over in a couple of days. The present polar season has held its fatal sway for a week. It can count its dead by the hundreds, its sick by the thousands. Zero always means death in the tenement quarters. Prolonged zero weather amounts almost to devastation.

Now Father Knickerbocker is blowing the blue out of his fingers and wondering why Peary ever thought of leaving home. It's all very well to read the St. Paul and Winnipeg weather lines in the papers, but New York isn't St. Paul, and zero hurts. With its hospitals and homes filled with cold-snap patients and the lost frozen corpses being cleared from the morgue, New York is feeling that there's a serious side to cold.

ROOSEVELT TO BE CHIEF WHITE HOUSE FIRE DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—President Roosevelt is also to be chief of the white house fire department. This is in addition to his other strenuous and martial duties as commander of the army and navy.

There was talk several months ago of organizing a fire department at the white house, but the scheme was allowed to lag. The Chicago horror has spurred the officials to immediate action. Col. W. T. Symons, superintendent of buildings, grounds and chief of the president's 10 military aides, has the matter in charge. He says an electrical system will be installed that will make it possible to turn in an alarm from any part of the white house or the executive offices. There will be direct connection with the city fire department. Chemical fire extinguishers will be placed at all strategic points. These have been ordered and will figure among the adornments of the building within a few weeks. The beats of the night watchmen have also been extended. They are required to report, by means of electric boxes, every 15 minutes.

Fire drills will be inaugurated when the apparatus is in place. House employes will be made familiar with the use of the fire extinguishers and trained in the things to be done in every emergency. Their natural commander, in case of trouble, will be the president.

There has never been a serious fire at the white house. It is desired to adopt thorough precautions, however, not only to protect the president and his family from danger or discomfort, but to prevent the possibility of damage to the historic old building.

HENRY GEHRING

Henry Gehring, aged 33 years, died at the hospital in Port Townsend yesterday. He was working in the saw mill at Port Gamble and was caught by a log which crushed both legs, one of which had to be amputated.
