

REPUBLICANS HAVE GREAT PROBLEM FILLING SENATOR HANNA'S SHOES

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Free from the troubles that commonly mark a national campaign, the Republican leaders are stirred by both of an uncommon kind.

Usually a party is racked by candidates for the nomination and advocates of issues for which space is demanded in the platform. No such issues confront the Republicans. Roosevelt is to be nominated without a contest. The platform, probably there will not even be a contest for the vice-presidential nomination.

Worry comes, though, when thought is given to the chairmanship of the national committee.

There is nobody to fill the place of Senator Hanna, who commanded the legions of the party for eight years. To this time search has failed to reveal a man capable of filling even to an acceptable degree the position of the Ohio leader. There has never been expectation of securing his equal. It was thought at the outset, however, that a satisfactory leader could be found without great trouble. This hope has been dissipated.

Advice by some of the president's close friends that he cut loose from the Hanna organization adds much to the difficulty. During the eight years of the Ohioan's leadership, the party was thoroughly Hannaized. The men on guard at all points were his strong friends. They were drilled in his way of doing things and their training made them well-nigh invincible. To promote one of Hanna's lieutenants and have the old organization work in the old way would be difficult enough. To set these workers aside and, in six months, build up a new party organization, would require Napoleonic genius.

It seems probable that the president will disregard his advisers at least to the extent of having Elmer Dyer elected secretary of the national committee. As secretary to Senator Hanna and assistant secretary of the old national committee Dyer got a thorough knowledge of political leaders and conditions in all the states. In the judgment of most political observers his services would be invaluable in the campaign.

His selection would leave the more important post of commanding general still to be filled. Postmaster General Payne, a veteran in political management and vice chairman of the old committee, would seem to be a natural selection. His health, however, will not permit him to take an active part in the campaign. Senator Dick who built up and managed the invincible Hanna organization in Ohio, could conduct the work along Hanna lines, but the president does not favor him for the place. He probably would not consent to have Dick act even as vice-chairman.

Senator Scott was one of Hanna's closest friends and assisted him in 1896 and 1900, but he has not the qualities required in national leadership. He has sensitive nerves and is impulsive.

Outside the Hanna circle there seems nobody with a strong claim for the place. Ex-Governor Murray Crane, of Massachusetts, is perhaps best qualified of the Roosevelt-Lodge contingent, but he has declined to serve. Senator Boies Penrose, of Pennsylvania, seems most eligible of the others that have been mentioned. He has had a thorough training in the Quay school, and Pennsylvania political history speaks loud and clear for the efficiency of that school. He would have the benefit of Quay's advice, which, founded on long and successful experience, would be of great value.

None of the old party chieftains is available. Quay elected Harrison in 1888, and would be just the man, but his health would not stand the strain. Platt, of New York, is feeble and has passed from power. Carter, who led Harrison to defeat in 1892, is, of course, impossible. He is serving now as a World's fair commissioner. Aldrich, Lodge, Spooner and other state leaders serving in the senate cannot be considered. Some of them would not serve and the others would not fill the bill. "Joe" Manley, of Maine, long a party leader, has retired from politics. A new man must be developed. He will be a new national figure and an interesting one.

Courts' at the Edison theater this week. Anton Van Gobree, the strong man, will appear at every performance. Charles Cameron and Harry Toledo present "The Enchanted Grotto." Emma Cottrill will appear in a hoop-rolling and juggling act. Thomas Annand sings "Your Dad Gave His Life for His Country," and Sam and Ida Kelly will present "The Dramatic Agency."

Tacoma 6, Oakland 2. That tells the story of another solar plexus blow delivered to Lohman's crowd yesterday. Fitzgerald was in the box for the Tigers. That he is worthy a place among the baseball stars is evident from the fact that he allowed only eight hits and, but for a couple of errors, might have given Oakland another shutout. The first five innings Oakland couldn't score, but made one in the sixth and on an error scored another in the ninth. About 2,500 people witnessed the game. The score:

played. Those who saw the work of the Oakland men last Wednesday never dreamed that they would go away with three shutouts against them and leave the Tigers with a credit of five straight games.

Today Fisher took his Tiger aggression to Seattle to do things to the fellows who say "Rainier." He promises to give them a mighty drubbing. A few fans went over with him just to show the Seattle fellows how to root for a team that has a firm grip on first place.

SEATTLE, May 3.—Portland had things her own way until the last of the fifth inning yesterday, when Shields, Seattle's new pitcher, won his own game by a timely hit. After that Seattle found Thielman easy. The score:

ATTEMPT TO KILL MORGAN

Motorman F. J. Morgan, of the South Tacoma line, again narrowly escaped from the clutches of a highwayman early this morning, when an attempt was made to shoot him while his car was going at full speed. The bullet missed its mark and, whizzing by the motorman's face, lodged in the car door.

It was about 12:45 this morning and while the car was making its last trip from South Tacoma to the city, that the incident happened. Near the Wapato bridge the car met a horseman, going in the opposite direction, and when the two passed, the horseman raised his gun and fired.

As soon as the car reached the city the happening was reported to the police. It is thought that this case may have a bearing on last Wednesday morning's hold-up when two men attempted to rob Morgan and failed, departing with bruised bodies instead of Morgan's cash.

SOLDIERS' SMOKER

Company A, National Guard of Washington, will give a smoker in the armory, corner of Twelfth and G streets, tomorrow night. The boys are planning to have an unusually large number of amusements for entertainment and hope to make the affair much more interesting than the ordinary smoker.

EDGERTON RESIGNED

Yesterday afternoon the board of education received the resignation of Samuel E. Edgerton, a teacher in the Hawthorne school. It is Mr. Edgerton's intention to leave the profession and go into business in some Eastern city.

CAPTAIN COWLES AND OFFICERS ARE HELD BLAMELESS FOR EXPLOSION

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 3.—The text of the findings of the court of inquiry held to investigate the cause of the Missouri disaster was made public this afternoon. The report states that the cause of the accident was the unexpected ignition of two sections of a charge of smokeless powder, then in the gun, by a "flare back." The flames ignited two sections in the ammunition car and a shower of burning powder was projected down to the 12-inch handling room, igniting eight other sections of smokeless powder. The accident was in no respect due to fault or negligence on the part of the officers or the members of the crew.

The court finds the following worthy of particular mention under the head of extraordinary heroism: Acting Gunner Cox, Chief Gunner's Mate Mousen, Gunner's Mate Schepke.

A list of 18 other officers and men, including Captain Cowles, is given as "deserving of special commendation."

Rear Admiral Barker approves the findings and commends largely on the properties of smokeless powder, which, apparently, are not thoroughly understood in our navy. The admiral says that the conduct of the captain, officers and crew was superb and he makes special mention of Mousen's act in crawling through a hole into the burning magazine.

and is put through as a whole.

It is expected that the platform will probably express hearty approval of the Roosevelt administration and endorse the national Republican principles and policies. The efficient services of state officials will be commended. Appreciation of the valuable services of Hon. William E. Humphrey will be expressed and the delegates will be instructed to use all honorable means to secure his renomination. The election of a King county man for United States senator will be urged upon the King county members of the legislature as a duty, and the candidacy of Hon. S. H. Piles will be endorsed.

ARRESTED FOR SERIOUS CRIME

Last evening W. A. Russell, a railroad man, was arrested by Patrolman Connor for criminal assault on a little girl. It is alleged that the child was induced by Russell to go into a shed in the rear of a grocery store near the corner of Jefferson avenue and Seventeenth street, where the assault was committed.

The girl became frightened and screamed. Her cries attracted the notice of people in the neighborhood and when a search was made she was found under the sidewalk.

The girl, who is about 14 years old, was brought before Judge Griffin this morning and told her story. The case is now in the hands of the prosecuting attorney.

PROHIBITION RALLY

This evening at 8 o'clock the Prohibition alliance will hold a rally and mass meeting in the W. C. T. U. headquarters, in the old Puget Sound University building, corner Ninth and G streets. Business of much importance will be transacted and all who are interested in temperance are requested to be present.

The song recital to be given tomorrow evening at the Mason library, Whitworth college, by Mr. G. Magnus Schutz, assisted by Arthur Alexander, pianist, will be an especially enjoyable event. This will be the last time that Mr. Schutz will be heard in concert before leaving next month for a year of study in Europe. The proceeds of the concert will be used to defray the expenses of Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. delegates to the conventions at Capitola and Gearhart parks, California.

DIVORCE COURT

Laura Carbone has brought suit for divorce against Rosario A. Carbone, on the grounds of drunkenness and cruel treatment. She alleges that he has threatened to kill her, has struck her with his fists and called her vile names. She asks for the custody of the children and whatever alimony the court sees fit to allow her. Carbone is a saloon keeper at Shelton and his wife alleges that his income is $250 a month.

Kauna Jones has been granted a divorce from J. D. Jones on the ground of abandonment. She was awarded the custody of the child and $10 a month alimony.

Eliza J. Williams has filed suit for divorce against Francis Williams on the ground of desertion. They were married in Smithfield, Mo., in 1877. There are three children, the eldest a girl 23 years old.

Tina Jones was granted a divorce from Henry R. Jones. She will get $10 a month alimony.

"M'FADDEN'S ROW OF FLATS."

Those who love music and laughter will welcome the coming of "McFadden's Row of Flats," which is the offering at the Tacoma theater next Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee. To a great, big, costly production has been added a cast of exceptional merit. The sale of seats commences Wednesday.

"A GIRL FROM DIXIE."

Among the many favorites in Messrs. Shubert, Nixon & Zimmerman's musical comedy novelty, "A Girl from Dixie," which comes to the Tacoma theater next Sunday and Monday, are Beatriz Bronte, who has been called one of the most beautiful girls on the stage; Essie Lyons, Viesty Gale, Olga May and Annie Wilson, whose attractive stage presence and vocal abilities have done much to promote the success of the production. Essie Lyons' song, "When the Sunflower Turns to the Sun," is one of the strongest hits of the piece.

SAVAGE IGORROTES AT WORLD'S FAIR WEAR NO CLOTHES AND DINE ON DOGS

ST. LOUIS, May 3.—Whether or not dog consumption and fricasseed dog are to figure on the bill of fare at the World's fair is the subject of diplomatic negotiations between the directors of the big show and the local humane society. During the armistice the agents of the city pound are busy and citizens with valuable Rovers and Carlos are keeping them locked up.

It's all about the Igorrotes. Now the Igorrotes are a bunch of savages who are prospective citizens and voters of this great republic. Just at this writing several hundred thousand of them inhabit certain jungle sections of the Philippine islands. These sections are not in demand for picnic parties. The favorite amusement of the Igorrote is murdering and carving into geo-

The Igorrote is a cheerful looking cuss—in the daytime. If one met him on a dark night in an alley, it's doubtful if the impression would be favorable. A bunch of them was paraded down town the other day. Somebody had given them cob pipes and each stuck his pipe in his hair. It shared honors with the tea cup shaped thing which passes as a concession to the St. Louis city ordinances, and one carried—or led—his lunch. It was a plump little bow-wow at the end of a string.

metrical figures any wandering squads of Uncle Sam's soldiers bent on benevolently assimilating these "simple children of nature."

Somebody rounded up about 300 of these chaps and brought them to St. Louis. In order to keep them here an island was built and they were put on it. It didn't need an interpreter to tell that the Igorrote has an aversion amounting to hatred for water for sanitary purposes. The language of the nasal organ is a universal and persistent one.

Where the Igorrotes have their habitat the climate is warm, and laws compelling citizens to wear clothing are not strictly enforced. The full dress of the Igorrote consists of a teacup on his head and a spear. Sometimes he omits the tea cup, but to appear without a spear is "deuced to shed his newly donated apparel. He broke the windows and threw it out and the tracks between Tacoma and St. Louis are strewn with the garments.

So the Igorrotes arrived here, clad in spears and tea cups, and with 60 cases of pneumonia fully developed. About a dozen have died, but their demise has not induced the others to wear clothes. After much persuasion some of them donned a sash. It is useful to tie up nomadic dogs. That brings us to the dog question.

To an Igorrote nothing is daintier or more toothsome than a stewed dog. In his own land he has pup in some form the piece de resistance for each meal. Of course, there is no humane society in his jungles. Neither do they broil live lobsters; there, nor force food down the throats of geese. In fact, it is doubtful if the most advanced Igorrote would eat pate de foie gras.

He likes the grass all right. He puts handfuls of it—roots, soil and all—into the pot with his dog. His recipe for cooking the dainty is simple. Every cook book in the Igorrote country gives it the same way.

First you capture your dog. That is simple in that dear Mindano, but it's harder here. Then you tie him to a post or a stake or the back of the house.

KILLING THE DINNER.

Next, you seize a large knotted hickory club—a crowbar will answer in the absence of hickory—and beat the dog to death.

Now, some Igorrote cooks wash the dog,
