O, It's Daring, Tearing Teddy!

BY EDMUND VANCE COOKE.

O, it's daring, tearing Teddy is the man for you and me;
His foot is on the hilltop and his shadow's on the sea;
He never was a Waser; he's a Iser and To-Be,
So it's hi! yi! Teddy! with a tiger.

He's a scream and he's a scholar,
He's a hit and he's a holler;
He's a sailor from the ocean, he's a hunter from the plain.
He's a little rough-and-ready,
But he's Teddy! Teddy! Teddy!
So we're all Rough Riders for the next campaign.

O, he handed us a lemon and we took it at a gulp;
It was sugar to the taste, but it was rotten at the bulb,
But who are we that one of us should dare impute a culpe
To Teddy, hi! yi! Teddy! with a tiger!

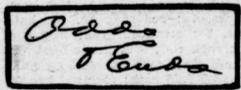

For he's snappy and he's scrappy,
And was made to make us happy;
He was born to be our ruler; we were born to watch him reign.
He's a little bit unsteady,
But he's Teddy! Teddy! Teddy!
So we're all Head Hunters for the next campaign

He's the pet of foreign princes, he's the sort of man they like,
The nearest thing to a Yankee King who ever struck the pike,
So let's run him in the white house and let court and congress hike,
For it's hi! yi! Teddy! with a tiger!

Not for us is tariff thinking,
Not for us is talk and thinking,
But for us is only Teddy, for we've got him on the brain.
He's a little hot and heady,
But he's Teddy! Teddy! Teddy!
And we're all Big Stickers for the next campaign.

O, his smile is like the lightning as it rives the forest tree;
His voice is like the thunder as it rolls across the sea,
And he rises every morning just to set the sunlight free,
So it's hi! yi! Teddy! with a tiger!

O, our heads are somewhat hazy,
But we know that he's a daisy,
And it's lovely to be crazy and it's sweet to be insane;
O, he's powdery-and-heady,
But he's Teddy! Teddy! Teddy!
So we're all World's Wonders for the next campaign.

GREATEST WELCOME IN NATION'S HISTORY ACCORDED ROOSEVELT ON RETURN TO NEW YORK TODAY

NEW YORK, June 18.—Theodore Roosevelt returned to America today, after an absence of fifteen months, during which time he hunted big game in African jungles, hob-nobbed with kings and royalty in Europe and acted as American ambassador at the funeral of King Edward VII.

He went away on March 23, 1909, shortly after his retirement from the highest office in the gift of the American people. He came back today a private citizen, but one to whom was tendered the most enthusiastic greeting ever given a returning countryman.

The reception to Colonel Roosevelt started at daybreak this morning when the Hamburg-American liner Kaiserin Augusta Victoria came abreast of Fire Island, down the Long Island coast, 60 miles out of New York harbor. It continued at Quarantine, and in a naval pageant up the Hudson river; it reached a climax in Battery park, where the official welcoming took place, and became a real American greeting, in which Theodore Roosevelt was the guest of his friends, the "common people," in the march up Broadway and Fifth avenue.

Off Ambrose light the battleship South Carolina and the torpedo boats, anchored there at Tati's order, boomed out the presidential salute as the Kaiserin passed. It was the highest honor ever paid to a private citizen. Then the warships joined in the naval parade in Roosevelt's honor.

A large number of excursion boats, yachts and press tugs gathered at Fire Island last night and were there when the Kaiserin hove in sight. Among the boats were the Albany, bearing the Republican club of New York; the Nassau, carrying 300 of the Roosevelt neighbors' association of Oyster Bay; the Commodore, with the Hamilton club of Chicago, and several private yachts, which gave

Replied to Gaynor's speech of welcome, Roosevelt today said:

"I wish to thank you and your committee and through them, the American people, for their greetings. I need not say that I am deeply moved. No man could receive such a greeting and not feel very proud and very humble.

"I have been away a year and a quarter. I have thoroughly enjoyed myself, and now I am back in my own country, among the people I love, and am ready and eager to do my part in helping to solve the problems that must be solved if the greatest of democratic republics is to see its destinies rise to the highest level of hopes and opportunities. This is the duty of every citizen and particularly my duty.

"Any man ever honored by the presidency is forever rendered the people's debtor and bound throughout life to remember this as a prime obligation, so that the people may never regret that they once had placed him at their head."

Colonel Roosevelt a noisy salute as soon as the Kaiserin was close enough for the figure of the returning hunter to be discerned. The Kaiserin did not slow down, but continued to Quarantine, where she anchored promptly at 7:45, while the health officers went on board. No one was allowed to board the liner until she had been formally inspected and given her health clearance papers.

Meet Their Children.

As soon as the Kaiserin was passed by the health officers, the Manhattan drew up alongside and the Roosevelt party boarded the cutter. There was a happy scene as the Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt greeted their sons and other relatives. In the party which boarded the Manhattan were Col. and Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Alice Longworth, Kermit, and Ethel Roosevelt, Mrs. E. Reed Merritt, a cousin of the ex-president, and the party of newspaper men who have been constantly with Roosevelt since he emerged from the African jungle at Renk on the White Nile.

The Naval Parade.

While the Roosevelt party was thus engaged, the naval flotilla that was to act as escort gathered. The vessels, 300 in number, were divided into twelve divisions, each commanded by a vice-commander, all under the general command of Commodore Fred B. Dalsell, on board the tug Dalselline. With the line formed, the flotilla escorted Roosevelt up the Hudson river to Fifty-ninth street, thence down again to Battery park, where the land exercises were to be held.

The Land Ceremonies.

While the harbor pageant was taking place, Battery park, where Colonel Roosevelt was to land, and Broadway and Fifth avenue, along which he was to pass, were filling. It is estimated that in Battery park alone, where the formal welcoming took place, 150,000 persons had gathered.
