CAPTURE JAP SUSPECTED OF TRIPLE MURDER

MAY BE SLAYER OF KENDALL FAMILY

(By United Press Leased Wire.)
CHICO, Cal., Aug. 8.—A Japanese believed to be Manjiro Yamaguchi, suspected by the Sonoma authorities of having knowledge of the deaths of the members of the Kendall family on the Starbuck ranch, was caught and is being held today by Robert Jamison at Cana, Cal.
Telephone devices from there say the man answers the description sent out by the authorities and that he resembles the photographs published in the newspapers. Chief of Police Goe hastened to Cana and will bring the suspect here.
The authorities at Oakland and Santa Rosa have been notified. Jamison is a warehouseman and saw the Japanese near his warehouse. Cana is 20 miles north of here.

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Aug. 8.—Evidence sufficient to warrant the indictment of Manjiro Yamaguchi or the filing against him of a complaint charging him with murder, is in the hands of the Sonoma county officials today, according to District Attorney Lea. The authorities will take no definite action at present, devoting all their energies to search of the Starbuck ranch where the three Kendalls were killed.
Sheriff Smith's deputies today continued their search of the ravines and canyons of the ranch in the hope of finding additional charred bones or other relics that might show that T. A. Kendall, the son, also was killed. A bundle of bone fragments, including a jaw bone, found yesterday, believed to have been that of young Kendall, was brought here today for examination by surgeons and dentists.
The jaw bone is relied upon by the Sonoma officials to establish the fact that young Kendall was killed and his body cremated.
In the jaw are gold filled teeth and these, it is hoped, will establish identity.
Owing to the present uncertainty regarding the number of victims in the ranch tragedy, the date of an inquest has not yet been set.
In the absence of definite proof, the authorities are still working on the theory of revenge and robbery as the motives for the triple crime.

Lucy Only 11 Months Old, But She Is An Opium Fiend

LUCY MORRIS AND THE DEADLY PAREGORIC BATTLE.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 8.—Lucy Morris is a confirmed "dope fiend," with an insatiable appetite for opium.
And Lucy is exactly eleven months old!
Paregoric did it.
Doctors have talked of the deadly effects of paregoric and other baby remedies; chemists have dilated on their poisonous contents; statisticians have even compiled figures of the terrible mortality traceable to this doping of babies by their mothers.
But here is a concrete case—a story in a photograph more powerful than a thousand scientific lectures—the story of Lucy Morris, "dope fiend."
While the physicians at the city hospital are planning and scheming to overcome Lucy's habit and save Lucy's life, the little, white, emaciated baby cries by the hour—for opium.
She doesn't know it is opium, she doesn't know that she is a "dope fiend," she doesn't know anything—but the tender, rasped nerves still left in the shriveled body won't rest without the poison now.
Lucy's case sets a precedent in baby annals. Usually they die when fed on a diet of paregoric in doses to which Lucy is accustomed. Her mother gave her 15 drops at a dose.
Lucy isn't dead—yet.
"Paregoric is a tincture of opium, and a most dangerous drug for mothers to handle," declares Dr. J. H. Landis, city health officer.
"Paregoric may ease pain and make a baby sleep, but it will never cure," declares Dr. Charles Howard, hospital physician. "The longer it is used the more dangerous it becomes. It contains about one grain of opium to every fluid ounce."
Lucy doesn't know this, of course. Her mother didn't, either. That's why Lucy probably will die. If your child forming the paregoric habit? Or any other medicine habit?

U. S. TROOPS TO FIGHT FIRES

(By United Press Leased Wire.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 8.—Federal troops in Oregon, Washington, California, Idaho and Montana will be placed at the disposal of the forest service to aid in fighting forest fires in the Pacific states.
President Taft, in response to an appeal from the coast, telegraphed the secretary of war, as follows: "You may direct the commanding officers of posts, upon application by them to lend every assistance in their power for the suppression of forest fires."
Reports here are to the effect that 175,000 acres of forest lands have been swept by the fires.
The rangers have been working under tremendous strain and probably a thousand troops will be sent to their relief to prevent destruction of valuable timber.

MAN WHO MADE BRIBE OFFER TO BE CALLED

(By United Press Leased Wire.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 8.—NAME OF STATESMAN WHO SOLICITED BOODLE MAY BE MENTIONED BY UNKNOWN WITNESS—SOME CONGRESSMEN AND SENATORS ARE WORRIED.
M'ALLESTER, Okla., Aug. 8.—J. C. McMurray, holder of the Indian land contracts that have resulted in charges of bribery made by Senator Gore, probably will be called before the congressional investigating committee, which resumed its sessions here today. Although the committee had not believed to call McMurray, it is believed that the testimony of D. C. McCurtain, son of Chief Green McCurtain of the Choctaws, in which it was charged that McMurray had offered him $25,000 to withdraw his opposition to the contracts, will result in the summoning of the man behind the deal.
Sensation Expected.
Besides the testimony which it is expected McMurray will give another sensation is expected to be developed by the testimony of an unknown witness, who, it is said, will be called.
Asked For Bribe.
This witness probably will appear before the committee at Oklahoma City. According to the reports here, he will show that a prominent legislator went to a certain contract holder and offered to use his influence to have the contracts declared valid in return for a stipulated sum. Congressmen, senators and politicians are expectant. The committee members refuse to confirm the report that such a witness is to be called.
A number of Indians will be called to the stand here and questioned closely concerning their land deals. They will be asked whether they desired to sell the land and will be asked what fees they have paid lawyers for the transactions in which they have figured.
Those who have been watching the committee closely during the hearings already held predict that no matter what the finding may be, so far as the bribery charges are concerned, the committee will recommend drastic legislation for the protection of the Indians.

NOTED EDITOR OF PORTLAND DEAD

U. S. TROOPS TO FIGHT FIRES

(By United Press Leased Wire.)
PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 8.—The death of Harvey W. Scott, for more than 45 years editor of the Oregonian, which occurred in Baltimore as the result of heart failure, following an operation Saturday, came as a distinct surprise to his friends and associates, who believed that the operation would restore him to his accustomed vigorous health.
His death is the ultimate outcome of a cold contracted while returning from the east in May, causing severe attacks of rheumatism.
Mr. Scott, accompanied by his wife and son, Leslie M. Scott, arrived in Baltimore on Aug. 1, and the operation was performed Aug. 6, by Dr. Young of Johns Hopkins hospital. He died Sunday at 6 o'clock.

BLACKPOOL, Eng., Aug. 8.—Flying at a great height in a triplane of his own design, A. V. Ross, an inexperienced aviator, fell to the ground today, but escaped serious injury. His machine caught fire while high in the air and was almost consumed by the time the framework hit the earth. The wreckage fell in such a way that the aviator escaped death.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 8.—Joe Gans is close to the end. He is lying in his Argyle avenue home in a semi-comatose state. His wife, his foster-mother, his physician, Dr. Jay, and a nurse are the only persons allowed in the room. Thronging of his friends are waiting outside the house.
In a saloon raid in prohibition Georgia, 750 gallons of whisky were confiscated at one place.
VANCOUVER, Wash., Aug. 8.—Ned Bruce, a logger, has begun the serving out of a fine of $10, imposed because he refused to aid in the extinguishing of a blaze in the woods near Yacolt, Wash.
Cox, boss of Southern Ohio, says that Senator Burton is a very rusty pinhead. Then Senator Dick be the rust on a pinpoint, hey?

ANOTHER CANDIDATE

The ninth candidate for sheriff to file his declaration is Joseph W. Kendall. He filed this morning.
When the weary traveler gets off the Northern Pacific train the chances are more than even that he will step up to Patrolman J. A. Schock with some sort of question. Schock has been answering questions at the depot for more than nine years. He knows what the ticket agent should know, and what the baggage master, train dispatcher, freight agent, hotel director and the local bureau of information for tourists should know, and he answers more questions in a day, it is estimated, than any other Tacoman.

Worst Fire In History Raging

MILLIONS OF FEET OF VALUABLE TIMBER GOING UP IN SMOKE.—RANCHER REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN CREMATED.
SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 8.—The worst forest fire in the history of that part of the country is raging near Bell Grove, according to reports brought here by Ned Calkins.
Calkins estimates that each quarter section burned contained from 2,000,000 to 4,000,000 feet of choice timber.
It is reported that a rancher named Dow was cremated in a fire at Mica Bay, where the flames leaped a gap of half a mile, catching brush at Gould's Landing.
Several families lost everything in the fire.
No high winds have blown in the Coeur d'Alene forest in Idaho and reports from the fire stricken districts indicate that the situation is encouraging.
Trenches have been dug and practically encompass the burning areas.

Six Balloonists Missing for Three Days

(By United Press Leased Wire.)
MUNICH, Aug. 8.—Two immense military balloons each carrying three persons, which ascended here August 5, have not been heard from since the clouds shut them from view three days ago. The war department has sent dispatches throughout the empire requesting searches to be made for the missing aeronauts.
JACKSONVILLE, Ore., Aug. 8.—It is often said that the ground Jacksonville is built on is more valuable than the town itself. To bear out this seeming paradox, Jacksonville is laying golden sidewalks. Not so it can be noticed, of course, but the gold is there just the same. The sand used in mixing the cement is composed of tailings from the Opp mine and runs about $1 to the ton in free gold.

$75 LOOKED GOOD TO ME 19 YEARS AGO, THAT'S WHY I BECAME FIRE FIGHTER SAYS CHIEF M'ALEVY

"I joined the Tacoma fire department in 1891 because many of my friends belonged to it, and the salary of $75 a month looked pretty good to me." This is Chief George McAlevy's answer as to the reason he became a fireman. That $75 salary stuck to McAlevy, too. When he became a lieutenant and later a captain it was still $75.
"But nineteen years ago there was no Payne-Aldrich tariff and $75 a month was pretty good pay," said the chief with a smile.
McAlevy was first appointed chief under Mayor Fawcett's former administration in 1897. He served about 11 months, then retired to a ranch. In 1904 he was again appointed fire chief under Mayor Wright, and held the position since.
"The most spectacular fire in my career," said McAlevy, "was the fire at Dempsey mill about three years ago. It was situated two miles from the nearest fire apparatus. The plant was already domed when we were notified, and when we arrived on the scene it was a hot one indeed. Stacks and stacks of lumber were going up in flames, and it certainly was a brilliant affair. But we had no time to admire the scenery. We were kept busy pumping water out of the Puyallup river in order to save the wharf. The damage of that was approximately $300,000."
The fire at the Crown drug store about two years ago was the most tragic in the history of the department, according to the chief. A carboy of nitric acid, containing 20 gallons, was broken, and the department was called in to fill the place of the fumes. While taking the carboy out a number of firemen were poisoned. Lieutenant Covert died in 16 hours. Lieutenant Campbell was so badly affected that he has been unable to work since. For several hours the chief himself lay hovering between life and death, but finally the combined efforts of five doctors saved him.

DO YOU KNOW

That the railroad terminals in Tacoma, including real estate buildings and equipment, are worth nearly $35,000,000?
That Mount Tacoma's height is 14,583 feet above the level of the bay?
That William Jones, president of the Chamber of Commerce, owns the old Bay View hotel building, corner Ninth and C, and that he got it for $51,000 in 1897? Today it's worth $200,000.
That fishing is fine in the sound now and rich hauls are being made by local Isaac Waltons all around Tacoma?
That 20 years ago Johnny Meads, city controller, shot a deer up at the head of the city waterway with a 22 caliber rifle?

That Assistant City Attorney Baker a dozen years ago "got lost" in the wilderness up around the vicinity of South L and Twelfth street?
That autoists are charged $5 for a permit to enter the Mt. Tacoma national park, but that teams are allowed free?
That Judge W. O. Chapman of the superior court took the Ohio state bar examination at the same time that President Taft did, and that they were both admitted at the same time? That was in 1886. In 1881 Judge Chapman came to Port Townsend and in 1885 moved to Tacoma.

Odd and Ends

BALTIMORE, Aug. 8.—Joe Gans is close to the end. He is lying in his Argyle avenue home in a semi-comatose state. His wife, his foster-mother, his physician, Dr. Jay, and a nurse are the only persons allowed in the room. Thronging of his friends are waiting outside the house.
In a saloon raid in prohibition Georgia, 750 gallons of whisky were confiscated at one place.
VANCOUVER, Wash., Aug. 8.—Ned Bruce, a logger, has begun the serving out of a fine of $10, imposed because he refused to aid in the extinguishing of a blaze in the woods near Yacolt, Wash.
Cox, boss of Southern Ohio, says that Senator Burton is a very rusty pinhead. Then Senator Dick be the rust on a pinpoint, hey?

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 8.—Under estimates made by Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, and approved by President Taft, the enlisted strength of the army for the coming year will be placed at 87,000. This is an increase over last year.
Lillian Russell's to bring out a new play, which shows a high order of courage on the part of both manager and lid.
