

FEAR AMES WILL FAIL

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—That the contest against Senator Lodge waged by Butler Ames and his adherents will prove fruitless is the general belief following the selection of republican nominees to the legislature. Reports from all parts of the state show that only the northwest part of the commonwealth, along the Merrimac valley, has gone insurgent, and it is believed that Lodge will have more than a working majority when he comes up for re-election. The Lodge followers are jubilant to-day over the showing made in the selection of candidates.

HE MAKES "LOVE AMONG THE LIONS"

A. E. MATTHEWS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The fearless man is brave and so is the courageous man, but there is a difference.

"Love Among the Lions," a new play having a successful run at the Garrick theater, illustrates the difference.

Lorana de Castro would marry Theo. Sanders, who loved her, provided he would consent to have the service said in a cage of lions at the hippodrome. Lorana plied for notoriety. Sanders was a test taster by profession.

One cannot recall any tea taster who led a forlorn hope in battle or went through fire and blood to rescue beauty in distress.

Theodore was no fire eater. His knees caved in and he came up groggy but game.

The play introduces to America the best comedian England has sent over here in many a long day.

—A. E. Matthews, who plays the shrinking hero.

FIND LETTER LOST FOR ELEVEN YEARS

DENVER, Sept. 30.—Harriett Tolley 11 years ago mailed to her husband in Pueblo a certificate of deposit for $750 in the Denver National bank. The husband, Geo. H. Tolley, failed to receive the letter in which the certificate was inclosed. Efforts were made to trace it without avail. The bank issued a duplicate certificate, but required the Tolleys to file a bond guaranteeing the amount should the original certificate fall into other hands.

The original certificate was found recently in Pueblo and mailed to Mr. Tolley. No explanation was made as to how it got there. On presentation of the original certificate at the bank the indemnity bond was released.

Queen Mother Doffs Colors

The queen mother, Alexandra, does not intend ever again to wear colors and has given away many of the costly and elaborate garments in the royal wardrobe which she will never use again. She will wear the becoming small Mary Stuart bonnet with the peak in front and hanging veil behind for some time to come when out of doors, but indoors she usually wears a white crepe headress with a white-crepe collar and broad cuffs of the same material.

Queen Alexandra has only left the precincts of Buckingham palace twice since her widowhood, but has taken a good deal of exercise in the beautiful grounds of the palace.

"LITTLE BOY," 66, SUCCEEDS FATHER, 93, AS LIGHTTENDER

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 30.—With the death of the oldest employe of the department of commerce and labor, his "little boy," 66 years old, has been appointed to succeed him. Age has just claimed William Welch, 93 years old and keeper of the Van Weels' beacon light in the Hudson river since 1858. The salary is $6 a year, and Warren Welch will continue the duties.

The Sultan of Sulu's In Our Midst ---Wearing Clothes

A Real Oriental American Citizen Who Used to Whack Off Heads and Tote a Harem Around, is Going to Tour Country and Peddle a Bushel or So of Pearls.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Mr. Hadji Mohammed Jumara Kiram is visiting his Uncle Sam. Oh, let's be plain about it. The sultan of Sulu is in our midst. He expects to call on President Taft—and maybe George Ade—after which he will "do" the United States, in more ways than one, for when he tripped down the gangplank of the liner St. Louis he toted a couple of trunks filled with pearls, which the sultan intends to peddle around. They are real pearls. The sult's prime minister says so.

This is the first time a sultan of Sulu has been west of Mecca. Jamalul Kiram II—that's the way Hadji Butu, the prime minister, speaks of him—hadn't seen a railroad train before he started out on this trip. A two-story building was his highest. He's afraid to go near the Singer building for fear it will fall on him. He was never in a theater in his life and never saw a play.

The sult is a little fellow, just about five feet five inches in his stocking feet. Yes, he wears 'em when visiting. At home he goes barefooted. He also wears a mustach and a rather doleful appearance. The latter may be accounted for by chronic dyspepsia, or the fact that he's only drawing $30 a week now from Uncle Sam, when he used to have money to throw at the birds.

His small wages—stipend is what the Butu fellow calls the sult's salary—made it necessary for his highness (it tickles the sult when you call him that) to wear his last year's suit on this trip. But it's a good suit at that. The sult was soaked $1,800 for it, which isn't saying that the suit isn't some piece of a garment, for it is. Every hue of the rainbow was garnered and placed in the sult's uniform, not to say anything about the pretty beads, gold lace, and the furbelows scattered hither and thither over his five foot five.

The sultan carries a sword upon all formal occasions. Sometimes it looks like the sword was carrying the sultan, but that is clearly an optical delusion. The sultan used to whack off ehads right and left with his sword. His subjects were—headhunters then, and thought it capital sport to creep unawares upon neighbor tribesmen and do a little wholesale slaughtering. Those little wars were discontinued by Uncle Sam when he began walking the Sulu beat. It was to keep him good that the United States pays Hadji $30 per.

Also Uncle Sam told the sult and his dattees that one wife was enough for any man. The sult didn't take the hint very promptly, until his salary was cut. Then

The Sultan in His $1,800 Uniform he distributed his better halves among the bachelor Moros, keeping but one for his own hearthstone.

A word about the sult's women-folks. They are conspicuous by their absence from the royal party. They are at home picking corals for the babies to teeth-on. Some are gathering the fall crop of pearls from the garden. They are all ugly, so fascinatingly ugly that the sult's male subjects go plump batty over them.

Maybe that is why the sult wanted to make Alice Roosevelt, Mrs. Longworth now, his sultana. He held peculiar views of his own about female loveliness. No dusky, flat-nosed beauty for him if there was a chance to get an American cutie.

The sult deems that he received the "mission" upon that occasion. He says he didn't propose at all. So there you are. An amiable of the event reports that at the Taft-Alice Roosevelt-Philippine reception, the sult's rival and enemy, Datto Jokonanin, when being presented to the fair Alice gave her a beautiful pearl. That stumped the sultan. He had forgotten his present. But he was merely non-plused, so to speak. He noticed the huge pearl set in a ring on his finger. He couldn't help noticing it, for it spread out over his hand like a heavyweight oyster. Quickly seizing the opportunity and the ring he handed the latter to the American princess.

CHINESE WEDDING IS A SERIES OF WEEPS

A Chinese marriage is all ceremony—no talk, no levity, and much crying. The solemnity of a funeral prevails. After the exchange of presents the bride is dressed with much care. A feast is spread upon a table to which the blushing bride is led by five of her best female friends. They are seated at the table, but no one eats. The utmost silence prevails, when finally the mother leads off in a cry, the maids follow, and the bride echoes in the chorus. Then all the bridesmaids leave the table, and the disconsolate mother takes a seat beside the chair of state where the bride sits. The bridegroom now enters, with four of his best men. The men pick up the throne on which the

USE FOR COLLEGE YELLS DISCOVERED

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 30.—Sordid-minded persons who never could see any sense in silly college yells have another guess coming.

The college yell now evolves as a useful adjunct to stage mechanism at political conventions, and politicians will do well to cultivate it in large slices.

Dr. Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton university, was nominated by the democratic convention here for governor. Just as things were becoming interesting in Woodrow's fight, Harold Sweet, star center on Princeton's foot ball team of 1903, piloted to the platform a choice assortment of Princeton undergraduates who turned loose the famous Old Nassau yell at the psychological moment.

Ray, Ray, Ray, Tiger, Tiger, Tiger, 'Sis-Sis-Sis-Boom, Boom, Boom, Ah, Ah, Ah, Princeton, Princeton, Princeton!

After this convulsion on the part of the "rah-rah" boys, Dr. Wilson was nominated without further ado.

MOTORING MAKES US CARELESS, SAYS SHE

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—A Berlin society leader, who has just returned from the United States, says that the craze for motoring which pervades all classes in the United States is causing such carelessness in dress that the reputation of Americans as the most elegantly dressed women in the world is vanishing. They are now wearing the simplest kind of wash dresses, cheap and ready-made, the cost of motoring making the expense of elegant attire impossible. American women are also doing their own housework in order to keep up the cost of automobilizing, she says.

ILLINOIS FARMHAND GETS $1,000,000 IN 25 YEARS

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Sept. 30.—In just 25 years Philip Wolf, who is dead here, rose from an $18-a-month farm hand to a millionaire. Wolf came to East St. Louis from Germany when he was 25 years old. He was penniless, but through frugality and fortunate real estate investments he accumulated a fortune.

PAYS BOARD AND TOBACCO BILLS AFTER 39 YEARS

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 30.—Thirty-nine years ago Martin Padden left Carbonate owing for a couple of months' board and a package of smoking tobacco. Several days ago he sought out Martin Flynn, a hotel keeper, and paid both bills. He came from New Orleans expressly to wipe out the obligations.

SANKEY'S WIDOW DIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Mrs. Frances Victoria Sankey, widow of Ira D. Sankey, the singing evangelist, died early Sunday morning at her home in Brooklyn. She was 71 years old.

The president and secretary of the Ladies' Department of the Valley Fair will be at the residence of Mrs. John Welch, 430 1/2 St. Helens avenue, from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., Friday, Sept. 30th, to receive entries in the Woman's Department for the Valley Fair.
