Society

The bridge and "500" held for the benefit of the Children's Industrial Home, at the Tennis club house on North Tacoma avenue was generously attended by the ladies of Tacoma yesterday afternoon. The ladies were informally received by Mrs. A. E. Raze, president of the home board, and Mrs. George B. Burke. After a pleasant session at cards, tea was served by the refreshment committee.

Mrs. Ball, Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Trindle will have charge of the meeting of the Custer W. R. C., which will be next Saturday at the armory.

The Tacoma Dramatic club will entertain with a program and cards Friday evening at the new Eagles' hall. All friends are invited.

The young girls of the First Congregational Sunday school will be entertained by Miss Huggins next Friday evening. The feature of the evening will be a travel talk by Mrs. Charles Drury.

Mrs. Ernest Card will be hostess Tuesday afternoon to a number of the young people who last year played bridge together, and who have not assembled as a club yet this season.

Miss Bonner of the Annie Wrighl seminary has been called East owing to the serious illness of her sister in New York.

The nurses of the St. Joseph's hospital will hold a large Thanksgiving dance Tuesday evening, November 22, at Sloan's academy.

The dance is being given for the benefit of the building fund of the hospital and a large attendance is expected.

The Fern auxiliary will be entertained at the home of Mrs. E. L. Hackaday tomorrow afternoon at her home, 815 South O street.

The Current Topic Musical club is being entertained this afternoon by Mrs. J. Q. Mason at her home on North Washington street.

A number of the young married women were entertained at the home of Mrs. Charles Spinning on North Twenty-fourth street, with a dainty luncheon.

The members of the Kappa Gamma sorority of Whitworth college will hold their annual initiatory meeting at the college residence Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Following the initiation a banquet will be held at the Tacoma hotel at 9:30. The event proves of great interest not only to active members but to the alumnae as well.

The ladies of the G. A. R. will hold a card party this evening at the armory. Refreshments will be served and a most delightful affair is expected.

The Ladies' Aid of McKinley Park M. E. church will give an entertainment Friday evening assisted by Mrs. Joslyn's elocution class.

Whip together the cuffs from wornout shirts for stoveholders. These are already thick, and when whipped together and a brass ring sewed into one corner, they make excellent holders that are easily washed.

Should you forget to add flavoring to the cake batter, try sprinkling the required amount of flavoring over the cake as it stands in the pan before baking.

TEACH BABY IN SCHOOL TO HALT DEATH ANGEL

Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—The baby's Death Angel has won in this "Black Year of the Babies."

The American Association for the Study and Prevention of Infant Mortality meets in Baltimore today to talk over its hand-to-hand struggle during the past year with the grim enemy of the children and the best it will be able to say of will be, "We have studied and fought, but we have not prevented."

There is not an American city represented at the congress that can report a decrease in the death rate of children.

"Why have we lost?" will be the question which the congress is trying to answer.

Even Philadelphia, which, of all cities, has made the most desperate fight against infant mortality, will have to report that the death rate of the babies increased during 1910. But Philadelphia's fight was more nearly successful, and in methods points the way for other American cities, for it shows how baby care may be taught in the schools.

Last spring the Philadelphia city council voted a large sum of money for the struggle. The philanthropic societies joined hands. Twenty physicians volunteered their services.

Director Jos. D. Neff first secured a census of the babies. Every citizen was given cards telling mothers how to care for their babies, and was instructed to leave one of these cards at every home where there was a baby. In addition he turned into his desk a gazillion the address of every baby under two years of age on his beat.

Every policeman who heard of a sick baby on his beat was to report the case immediately, through children were asked to report cases of sick babies.

Baby-Saving Exhibits. The public was drawn into the struggle. It became the duty of every citizen who heard of a sick baby to report the case to the nearest policeman.

Then Commissioner Neff went a step further than any other city has ever gone. He prepared "Baby Saving Exhibits," and placed them in the milk docks and on the two great recreation piers. Dirty and clean milk bottles were shown. How to make ice boxes out of wooden pallets and how to make a fly-proof cradle out of a 20-cent wicker basket, were illus-

Cured to stay Cured

How a Tacoma Citizen Found Complete Freedom From Kidney Troubles.

If you suffer from backache—From urinary disorders—From any disease of the kidneys. Be cured to stay cured.

Doan's Kidney Pills make lasting cures.

Tacoma people testify. Here's one case of it: Mrs. C. A. McCort, 253 S. Fortieth st., Tacoma, Wash., says: "At intervals for five or six years I had attacks of kidney complaint and while they lasted my back ached severely. I lacked energy, had trouble with the kidney secretions and was annoyed by dizzy spells. Finally I got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills at Malstrom Bros' Drug Store and in a few weeks after beginning their use, found them to be just the remedy I needed. Before I had finished the contents of one box the backache and other difficulties were removed and my kidneys became normal. The effective manner in which Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me leads me to endorse them." (Statement given November 11, 1905.)

AFTER FOUR YEARS.

When Mrs. McCort was interviewed on Jan. 3, 1910, she said: "I have enjoyed good health and freedom from kidney complaint since I took Doan's Kidney Pills. The remedy cured me and in return I always give it my endorsement when opportunity occurs." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Cynthia Grey's Correspondent

Dear Miss Grey: 1.—What is the meaning of holding hands?

2.—Is it proper to exchange photographs with a boy friend who lives out of town?

3.—I will be 18 soon. Should I wear my hair dressed high?

4.—When a young man calls, should I stand in the hall while he removes his hat and coat?

A: 1.—No particular meaning except that the couple are "spooning."

2.—It is not advisable for a young girl to make a practice of exchanging photographs with her boy friends.

3.—Yes.

4.—If you like.

Dear Miss Grey: Will you kindly inform me whether it is proper for a young girl to exchange Christmas gifts with a young man when they are not engaged? ANXIOUS.

A: According to strictest rules of propriety, perhaps it is not, but if they are very good friends I see no harm in gifts of fruit, flowers, candy or books.

Dear Miss Grey: I recently visited a large city with my husband and stayed at a hotel. We were invited out to a dinner one evening and I wore a white shirt waist with a dark skirt. Should I have changed my dress?

We were to the theater later with our hostess and her husband. When we came to the seats our hostess went in first and stopped at the third seat. I passed her, taking the fourth seat, leaving the men to sit together. What should I have done? Another time a man took us to the theater and I took the third seat. Was that right? MARGARET.

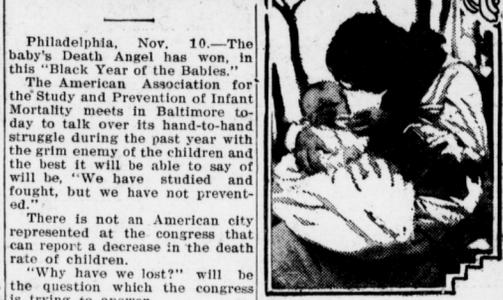

A: You should have worn a dress or a waist to match your skirt. However, allowances are always made for travelers, so you need not feel disturbed about it. Your hostess should have told you before you went to the theater the order in which she wished you to be seated. It really makes little difference, as it is merely a question of preference.

Dear Miss Grey: 1.—In passing a classmate to whom one has never been introduced, is it proper to speak?

2.—Should a girl say: "How-do-you-do" in greeting her young men friends, or is "Hello" all right?

A: 1.—A smile and a nod in passing is entirely proper.

2.—The former is preferable.

NATURAL HISTORY STORIES TOLD FOR OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

THE SEAL

Casually glancing at the seal you wouldn't think he possessed any intelligence. He looks awkward, flabby, stupid and lazy, and your first impression of the seal is that he is simply waiting on some iceberg for some hunters to kill him for his valuable fur. But if you have ever seen these northern animals in a circus you will realize that as far as seals are concerned appearance is often very deceptive. You may have seen him play on a guitar and sing, and you may have also seen a pair of them engaged in a boxing match.

Onespecies of these seals known as the sea lion, probably because he is a fighter from the word go. When two Romeo seal happen to admire the same Juliet they fight for her to the death. There is no interference on the part of the other seals which squat about on cakes of ice yelling "fair play" in seal language, and watch the contest.

These seals, which live on the northern Pacific coast, and on the shores of the Bering strait, are large, and sometimes reach the length of 16 feet and a weight of 1,000 pounds. The female is a dainty damsel about half the size and weighs only 500 pounds. The pel of this species of seal is used for upholstery, and is very expensive. These seals settle down near nests of gulls and other seabirds whose eggs and young supply them with all the food they require.

The best quality of sea skin, the kind many women wear as coats, comes from the fur seal of the polar seas. His hair is long, gray and bristling. Beneath this hair is the soft, fine fur sought after so much. These fur seals leave their native haunts in the far north about July, and migrate by thousands through the Bering straits into the Pacific ocean on the islands west of the coast of Alaska. Hunters used to kill them by the thousands until the United States and Great Britain put a stop to it. In October the seals take up their march back to the polar seas.

Then there is the rare sea elephant, an ugly looking creature with face even more expressionless than other seals. Years and years ago he was a common sight on the coast of California. But hunters almost wiped him out of existence and today he is trying to regain his lost prestige on the cliffs of the Arctic ocean, where no hunter can reach him. He is much larger than the other seals, and full grown males have been known to weigh 10,000 pounds and reach a length of 25 feet. The elephant seal is given the name because of the trunk-like snout on the face of the male. Baby elephant seals weigh nearly 100 pounds, and average five feet long. They are carefully nursed by their mammas until they are about two months old, when they are driven out upon the icy cliffs to shift for themselves.

The walrus has the face of a knockabout vaudeville comedian. Its head is small and round. It has a short broad snout; fleshy puffed out lips and bristles on its upper lip like a monstrous mustache. It also has two immense tusks nearly two feet long, projecting from the mouth. The oil and the tusks are the most valuable yields of this seal. The walrus is the most powerful of all seals. It spends most of its time hunting for food, and when not thus engaged lies for days on a thunk of ice. In the water the walrus puts up a good stiff fight. It is the rarest of the seal species.

Wash That Itch Away It is said that there are certain springs in Europe that give relief and cure to Eczema and other skin diseases. If you knew that by washing in these waters you could be relieved from that awful itch, wouldn't you make every effort to take a trip to Europe at once? Would you not be willing to spend your last cent to find the cure? But you need not leave home for these distant springs. Relief is right here in your own home town. A simple wash of Oil Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients as compounded only in D. D. D. Prescription will bring instant relief to that terrible burning itch, and leave the skin as smooth and healthy as that of a child. If you have not already tried it, get at least a 25 cent bottle today. We assure you of instant relief. French Drug Co., Owl Drug Co.
