Back Lot Beekeeping For Pleasure and Profit The A, B, C of Bee Culture for the Amateur

One Way to Get "Back to the Soil" Without Having Any Soil at All—Make Your Bees Your Proxies and Send Them Back for You. Here's the best "back-to-the-soil" stunt of all—from the standpoint of the man who hasn't any soil and simply can't get any. You merely employ 50,000 or more little folks to go back to the land for you—other people's land, mind you—which they do cheerfully at the rate of about 40 miles an hour. And it is something that can be done on a porch roof in the heart of a great city. If no more advantageous place of business be available. Following is the first of these articles—written by Thomas P. Hallock of Medina, Ohio. Anybody who knows anything about bees knows that Medina, Ohio, is to beekeepers what Medina, Arabia, is to the Moslem—a sacred city. It is the beekeeping capital of the United States. By Thomas P. Hallock. Almost every community has its beekeeper. No longer are neatly arranged rows of beehives a strange sight, even in congested city districts, and splashes kept on roof tops have brought pleasure and profit to their owners. Government statistics show that bees are kept on one farm out of every 10 in the United States. This nine farm families consume while only one farmer beekeeper produces. In New York city the past winter brought a condition which

NEW YORK, May 8. — An ironing board, placed from roof to roof, between two big apartment buildings, saved 50 tenants; trapped by fire. Five minutes later one roof fell in.

SOLVES HOUSEWORK PROBLEM BY SYSTEM

NEW YORK, May 5. — "The working hours of household workers, as well as their periods of recreation, must be better systematized," said Herman Robinson, commissioner of employment agencies licenses, in a report to Mayor Gaynor. "Heads of households must concede that the girl working in the house has rights, the same as the stenographer, the saleswoman and the factory employe."

Saved Man From Death

W. L. Mock, of Mock, Ark., believes he has saved many lives in his 25 years of experience in the drug business. "What I always like to do," he writes, "is to recommend Dr. King's New Discovery for weak, sore lungs, hard colds, hoarseness, obstinate coughs, influenza, croup, asthma or other bronchial affection, for I feel sure that a number of my neighbors are alive and well today because they took my advice to use it. I honestly believe it's the best throat and lung medicine that's made. Easy to prove he's right. Get a trial bottle free, or regular 50c or $1.00 bottle. It's Half Sash and Half Belt

A new rage has arrived—the rage for girdles. They come in endless variety and combine some features of the belt and the sash. They are trimmed in various ways and to match the lingerie dresses with which they are worn. By the way, isn't she quite a soulful poser?

Philosopher Gets in Wrong Too, By Telling Wife What To Do

The South I street philosopher was gazing at the sink. "Twas full of dirty dishes, the floor was black as ink. There were bread crumbs on the table and skillets on the range. The eye of the philosopher it glittered wild and strange. "It seems to me," he muttered, in a voice that was not low, "that women folks do housework in a way that's awful slow. "Now, I labor at the office from 8 till after 5. I struggle hard to keep my wife, myself and babes alive. But if my office looked like this I'd quickly lose my job. One look at this old kitchen would make my mother sob. Experience has taught me a man with ease can do more work in half a minute than a woman can in two."

Phil said: "I've often wondered and I'll ask you once again—Why is it women cannot work as swiftly as the men?" "You corrugated idiot," his wife then made reply. "You can't conceal your ignorance, no matter how you try. You harbor a delusion that men do all the work; I'll make a proposition to prove that I'm no shirk. "Tomorrow you may start right in and take my place at home and do my work around the house while I A-shopping room. You rise at 6 and fire up and cook the morning meal, and make the beds and dress the kids and soothe 'em when they squeal, and sweep the floors and dust the rooms and make a pie or two and buy the stuff for dinner and prepare the luncheon, too. And after lunch make seven calls and dress the kids once more, and finish up the ironing and scrub the kitchen floor, and wash the dirty dishes and press your Sunday clothes, and plant the early carrots and spray the rambler and quiet all their cries, then walk around the block to get a little exercise."

Philosopher made no reply; he wasn't there to talk. He'd jammed his hat down on his head and beat it for the walk.

World Exposition to Show How Big Cities Are Doing Things

Chicago to Have First Big Exhibit of Articles and Methods Pertaining to Municipal Betterment. CHICAGO, May 8.—An international municipal congress and exposition, the first of its scope and importance ever planned in the world, is to be held in Chicago beginning Sept. 18 and lasting through Sept. 30. This exposition is to be a world focal point for things pertaining to the advancement of the municipality and the betterment of the city dweller. Pledges have been secured from officials of many of the largest cities in the world promising exhibits and delegates. Berlin will demonstrate her magnificent plans for rebuilding. London will show her method of police control of traffic. Paris and other French cities will set forth their schemes for boulevards and parkways. Chicago will exhibit her civic center plans and demonstrate her unexampled work in the establishment of playgrounds. Thus each of the great cities will show how it had gone about the solution of municipal problems. Arrangements have also been made for the display of exhibits by manufacturers who make machinery and materials used in municipal affairs, so that there will be on exhibition everything ential organizations. The moving spirit back of the exposition is John MacVicar, commissioner of the city of Des Moines and one of the leading members of the League of American Municipalities. MacVicar first suggested the exposition, and it was through his representation that the Chicago Association of Commerce was persuaded to undertake the matter. Now, as commissioner general of the exposition, MacVicar is busy rounding up the municipal authorities of the world with a view to making the international municipal congress and exposition the biggest thing of the kind ever held.

POE'S DEFENSE OF HIS REPUTATION BRINGS $1,700

NEW YORK, May 8.—A letter written in 1848 by Edgar Allan Poe, defending his reputation, sold here for $1,700. "My habits are rigorously abstemious, and I omit nothing of the natural regimen requisite for health," he wrote. "But this is my private life and of course escapes the eye of the world. Desire for society comes upon me only when I have become excited by drink. Then only I go—that is—at these times I have been in the practice of going among my friends, who seldom, or in fact never, having seen me unless excited, take it for granted that I am always so. Those who really know me know better. But enough of this; the causes which maddened me to the drinking point are no more, and I am done drinking, forever."

NICKLEDEON CHECKS BABIES

CHICAGO, May 8.—Grand opera places check your cloak or hat, but it remained for the manager of a five-cent theater in North Chicago to check babies. Mother leaves baby and carriage at the door and enters for a half-hour relaxation. Show over, she gives up her check and the man bawls out the number—just as they call automobiles at the grand opera house. The attendant comes running with the proper vehicle. Bread making is often a vexation to the good housewife, but never so when she uses Pyramid Flour.
