TIGERS DROP 12 INNING CONTEST

NORTHWEST LEAGUE. Yesterday's Results. Tacoma 7, 2; Portland 6, 5. Seattle 3, 8; Victoria 1, 2. Spokane 2, 5; Vancouver 1, 2.

Games Today. Portland at Tacoma. Vancouver at Spokane. Victoria at Seattle.

After 12 innings of heart-rending struggle, the Tigers lost yesterday afternoon's game to the Portland Pippins, score 5 to 2. The Tigers put one over the plate in the fourth, one more in the seventh and the Pippins came back with 2 in the eighth, and the tie remained until Portland showed over three in the first half of the twelfth. It was a hard game for the Tigers to lose, but they lost it pretty much the same way as the Pippins lost the morning contest—by putting a bad finish on a good start.

Higgins pitched the game for the Tigers and got off well enough until the twelfth when he weakened and three runs were put over. Jess Garrett held the Tigers to nine hits; the score:

SAFETY

is what the extended arms of the semaphore mean. THEY MEAN that the Moving Train has automatically protected itself from collision. No train will follow it onto the block of track it occupies. The signals are set automatically. As the train enters a new block an electric circuit is broken and the arms of the semaphore fly outward, signalling all comers to "STOP." They remain set until the train passes to the block beyond.

The System gives perfect protection. Any defect or accident to the electric system, a broken rail or an open switch, will break the current and set the semaphore at "STOP." A train cannot enter a block that is not safe in every way. The Electric Block Signal and the exclusive use of Steel Coaches make our system most inviting to those who demand safety and comfort when they travel.
