(By United Press Leased Wire.) SAN DIEGO, June 12.—Details of the fall of Culiacan and Mazatlan are being told here today by Captain Francisco Miranda and passengers on the steamer Benito Juarez.

No less than 1,000 persons, according to Miranda, lost their lives in the fall of Culiacan, which was accomplished by the rebels May 31. Many of these were women and children. The attack upon Culiacan was begun on May 30 by General Bandera's insurgents. With the arrival of the reinforcements Bandera ordered General Turbe to advance from the east while he divided his force and attacked from both north and south. The rebels swept everything before them.

Set Town on Fire. With their entry into Culiacan the insurgents began to apply the torch and to blow up with dynamite less inflammable buildings. After two days of fighting Federal Gov. Redo attempted to retreat with 300 men. They were intercepted and many slain. The second day of fighting at Culiacan centered about the church of the Sacred Heart, where almost the entire population had taken refuge. Before the federals were finally routed 500 persons had been killed.

Mazatlan capitulated June 2 without a shot being fired. Before they deserted their posts, however, 300 criminal prisoners were executed by federal authorities.

Gibbons Urges Forgiveness Of Injuries Against Us

(By United Press Leased Wire.) BALTIMORE, Md., June 12.—Cardinal Gibbons' powerful trinity sermon is causing considerable comment today in religious circles. The cardinal urged the congregation to tear from their hearts all feeling of ingratitude and anger and to forget injuries. "Imitate Our Father," said the cardinal, "and when the devil tries to ensnare us and draw us down to the mire of sin, let us say, 'Be gone, Satan.'"

"Jesus is not ashamed to call us his brothers. After his glorious resurrection, he did not rebuke his apostles and call them cowards and traitors. Instead, he sent a message of love. What would we do if we were betrayed by our friends?"

THE PICTURE THAT BROUGHT HOPE TO MOTHER'S HEART.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 12.—Through the unconscious agency of the Cincinnati Post and the Newspaper Enterprise association, Mrs. C. H. Francis of St. Paul, Minn., thinks she has found trace of her only son John, lost for six years. Mrs. Francis last heard from her wandering boy in Chili. Some time ago the Cincinnati Post sent a staff photographer to Kentucky on a mining story. Among other photographs he snapped a typical mine boy leading a horse. The photograph was supplied by the Post to the Newspaper Enterprise association, which distributed copies over its service.

Officials in the bureau of mines in Washington saw the N. E. A. picture in a southern newspaper and thought it would be a good one for the bureau's series of mining pictures. The negative was thereupon supplied to the government. Some weeks ago Leslie's Week-

Coming Back to Newport Because 'Dowdy' Queen Mary Bars Them

LONDON, June 12.—Over in America, when the society leader of your town won't speak to you, you simply stick your nose in the air and form a society all your own.

Not so in Merrie England. If the king won't say howdy and the queen won't smile as you look at her from across the street, you're done. The only thing left is to give up your shooting box, rent your town house and quit civilization.

Consuelo, duchess of Marlborough, and Mrs. Ava Willing Astor, former wife of John Jacob Astor, will soon leave London for Newport. Both are classy dressers and considerable cut-ups in swell society, but Queen Mary won't have anything to do with them because Mrs. Astor is a divorcee and the duchess has a legal separation, which amounts to the same thing in England. And besides, both run too much to duds.

Queen Mary is known as the dowdy queen. She wears tan stockings with black boots, which is a devil of a fox pass in the Newport set. In fact, society leaders, like the duchess and Mrs. Ava Willing Astor, always wear shoes and stockings to match and they aren't afraid to show a bit of both, if the reports from our best circles may be depended on.

But dowdy or not, Queen Mary has a lot to say about Who's Who in this neck of the woods. For without her approval you need no fine clothes. It's just like spending your vacation in the backyard. It's cheap but no fun.

So the two ladies in question are going to Newport, where there are no dowds and everybody's a queen as long as her shoes and stockings match.

Tuska, of New York, are here today ready to appear at the hearing of the divorce case filed against her by Sidney C. Love, formerly millionaire broker of New York and Chicago. Says Small Stockholders Control The Sugar Trust

(By United Press Leased Wire.) WASHINGTON, D. C., June 12.—That the American sugar refining company (the sugar trust) is in the hands of 19,000 stockholders, more than half of them women, and the vast majority only small holders, was the admission on the stand today of Acting President Edward Atkins, who appeared before the congressional committee investigating the sugar industry. Most of these stockholders, Atkins said, had paid more for their holdings than they were worth.

Asked why so many people had invested in an industry about which they knew nothing, he said: "I suppose it is because of the natural desire of all persons to put money into a proposition of which they know nothing. People of the temperate zone are prone to invest in a proposition involving operations in the torrid zone."

The small stockholders bought sugar at 130, Atkins testified, and the stock is now quoted at 120.

DESPERADO CAPTURED

(By United Press Leased Wire.) SPOKANE, June 12.—"Bill" Byrd, desperado and slayer of three men, who was trailed by three posses through the Saltese district, 20 miles from Spokane since Friday, was captured without a fight by Deputy Sheriffs today near Mica peak.

Byrd had no gun, having concealed it in some bushes when he started for a farmhouse to get breakfast.

Heavily manacled and under guard of 35 men of the sheriff's posse, which surrounded him last night, the outlaw was bundled into an automobile and started for Spokane. Byrd's boldness in making himself known and his utter disregard for his own safety is looked upon as responsible for his bloodless capture.

Byrd's victims were G. H. Whipple, 28; John Manski, 32, and Justice of the Peace C. W. Meisner.

Jealousy of Whipple's wife, whom he loved and a grudge against Manski is said to have been the cause of Byrd's running amuck.

"I watched a posse all day from the top of a hill," said Byrd, "but I did not want to hurt any more, because I had already got the men I wanted. That's enough, isn't it?"
