Letters Explain Tragedy, But Are Kept Secret

(By United Press Leased Wire.) WALLA WALLA, June 17.—Myrtle Kyle, who shot Joseph Harper and then herself at Milton, left letters in her coat explaining why. The coroner read them, but refuses to make public the contents, and says they will never be given out. One was addressed to the wife of the man she killed.

If you are going to move, pack or store your furniture, call Fidelity Transfer Co., M. 83-A1497.

DARING BOY NABBED

(By United Press Leased Wire.) SEATTLE, June 17.—Floyd Merrill, Seattle's sensational automobile youth and inventor, is jailed again. The Bellingham police today notified the local authorities that Floyd and his youthful partner, Archie Jamieson, were arrested last night.

This was after they had escaped from the Seattle jail and taken long joy rides every day, paying the auto renting companies with bad checks, it is alleged.

Yesterday Young Merrill, who is the inventor of an electric railroad signal, passed another phony check in Marysville, Wash., and on the proceeds managed to reach Bellingham. He will be brought back.

VANDERBILT'S BOAT BURNS

(By United Press Leased Wire.) RED TOP, Conn., June 17.—Harold Vanderbilt's gasoline launch today lies at the bottom of the Thames river near the Harvard crew headquarters, and Vanderbilt is suffering from badly burned hands and a scorched face as the result of an accident that occurred when Vanderbilt was cranking up the engine. The engine back-fired and ignited the frame of the launch.

MAINE MAY BE WORTHLESS

(By United Press Leased Wire.) HAVANA, June 17.—In the opinion of the engineers attempting to raise the battleship Maine, not enough salvage will be recovered to pay for the expense of removal. The investigations so far possible show that the steel hull is very rusty and it is probable that the guns and armament have been ruined. It is now doubted whether it will be possible to float the hull away.

GIRL SUITS OFFICER.

(By United Press Leased Wire.) SKAGWAY, June 17.—Lena Bernhofer, 16, shot Fred Fozzo, deputy U. S. marshal, yesterday when he attempted to eject her and her aunt, Mary Bernhofer, proprietress of the New Home hotel, on a writ of restitution. Fozzo will probably recover. The girl has not been arrested. She says she will set fire to the house and kill herself if an attempt is made to eject her.

GIRL AND MAN SUICIDE, BUT IT'S ALL IN PLAY

Once upon a time a girl fell in love with a man whose father was her father's bitter enemy, and they were secretly married. On the same day the man's best friend fights a duel with one Tybolt, close relative of the girl, and the happy bridegroom runs his sword through Tybolt. He is banished from the city, and the girl is told she must wed another man.

Rather than do that she takes a potion which puts her to sleep for two days, with all the appearance of death. Believing her dead, her family remove her to the vault, where her lover, having been notified to come, hurries to meet her. He thinks her dead. She wakes up to find him dead, a suicide, at her side. So she kills herself, too.

This is Romeo and Juliet in 150 words. Doesn't sound very cheerful, does it? But Julia Marlowe and E. H. Sothern, two of the leaders of the American stage, made this play ring with reality and beauty before a crowded house at the Tacoma theater last night.

People laughed and half cried as though the beautiful sad drama was actually happening before their eyes. The two principals were magnificent. The play was splendidly staged.

The company will give "The Merchant of Venice" tonight.

SHASTA LIMITED IS HELD UP

(By United Press Leased Wire.) EUGENE, Ore., June 17.—Trainmen who arrived here this forenoon from Yoncalla, where the robbers of the mail on the Shasta Limited left the train declare that the two thieves were polite and carried on an animated conversation with the clerks while they proceeded with the robbery.

As soon as they entered the mail car from an end door they said they had come to rob and requested the clerks to "please" hold up their hands.

Just before they left the car one of the outlaws thanked the clerks for having made no unnecessary trouble.

The clerks were then backed into a corner by one of the men and the other ripped open the mail sacks and rifled their contents.

The train crew had no intimation that a robbery was in progress until Yoncalla was reached and the robbers pulled the emergency cord which brought the train to a dead stop. Then without bringing a shot the thieves disappeared. The alarm was given immediately and within a half hour a posse was on the trail.

ROBBERS SAID 'PLEASE'

(By United Press Leased Wire.) DRAIN, Ore., June 17.—Poses headed by Sheriff George Quine of Roseburg and by local officers are searching the hills today for two robbers who held up and robbed the mail car of the Shasta Limited, the Southern Pacific's crack train, and escaped at Yoncalla at midnight.

The robbers entered the mail car just as the train was leaving Drain. They brandished three revolvers and gave the three clerks no chance to show fight.
