GAMES TODAY
Portland at Tacoma, Victoria at Vancouver, Spokane at Seattle.

Just a plain, unadorned muff of an easy throw to first yesterday afternoon caused gloom to settle once more over Tigerdom after hope had for a moment shone on the baseball horizon. It was in the eighth. Tacoma had suddenly put on batting clothes in the seventh and after Coleman had broken the six innings of hitless monotony at the start with a single to right, Lynch, Rocky and Burns came along with fine healthy swats and three men clattered home. This made the score 3 to 2 for Portland had taken a pair in the fourth by some timely hitting and some bad errors on the Tacoma end.

But that muff of Bill Fisher's in such a simple manner put Nick Williams on first in the eighth. Nick stole, Pettigrew flew out and two were down but fate had marked the Bengals for another drubbing and Mensor and Harris smote the ball and two men came home. That made the score 4 to 3 and there it stayed. Tacoma looked dangerous in the eighth and a hit by Fisher in the ninth would have changed things for Burns was on third, but Bill hit only blue sky and the game was over.

Jakey Baumgarten contributed to the Tigers' defeat by his poor judgment of strikes on Mensor in the fourth. Pettigrew had hit for three bags after two outs had been made and Mensor then stepped to bat. Schmutz got two strikes on him and put over two more but Jakey saw the Portland bench glaring at him and sustained a dose of cold feet and walked Mensor when he should have been out on strikes. Baumgarten will have a hard time of it from now on with the local fans.
