After-Supper Talks

With Cynthia Gray

HER HUSBAND SMOKES CIGARETTES! SHOULD SHE LEAVE HIM.

"Anxious Wife" writes me this: "My husband smokes cigarettes. It is distasteful to me, but when I speak of it we quarrel, which makes us both unhappy. Since he seems to prefer them to me, shall I leave him? In despair."

Anxious Wife, did you know that your husband smoked cigarettes before you married him? And would you REALLY be willing to GIVE HIM UP for so slight a cause?

At a little thimble party of friends not long ago the bride of the group, who had been married a year or so, had just been airing her views, which were very much like yours except that she did not think snacking sufficient grounds for divorce.

The woman of wisdom and experience, who was really very little older than the bride, laid down her sewing, looked at the younger woman a moment thoughtfully and then said: "Do you mind if I tell you a little personal experience?"

"When I was married I had visions of reforming my husband, just as you have. Smoking was distasteful to me, and I went to work very diplomatically, though."

"I told John how I disliked the odor of tobacco, that it really made me ill, that it was an extravagant habit, that he must quit it or we never, never in the world could be happy. All without making the slightest impression, much to my amazement."

"Then I started in to weep about it, for I knew how he hated tears. This really had some effect at first, but it soon wore off, and John acted like an old grouch around home. He did not stop smoking. I cried until it made me ill, and we were in a fair way of becoming a miserably unhappy young couple."

"Then I began to think. If John really enjoyed smoking, why should I try to deny him that pleasure when he came home at night tired out, especially since I knew he could smoke very little through the day? I enjoy candy and ice-cream sodas and if these had been denied me I would have felt very much abused. Much to my amazement, it really did not make me ill. I just thought so. And if I were to keep up my present methods I could see that we were going to be very unhappy. SOMEONE had to give in, and I decided that I loved John sincerely enough to want him to be happy—so I came down to solid earth. Now John smokes at home and is content."

"If the smoke blows my way I move in another direction, for I have not quite overcome my dislike for it. Much to my amazement, however, I find that I don't mind it half so much as I thought I did. And I decided there were far worse things than tobacco smoke, so long as John is willing to spend his evenings with me."

Do You Do This?

After the "greens" have been cut from beets, they should not be touched with a knife. When they are sufficiently cooked, pour cold water on them. The skin, "tail" and tip will then come off readily if rubbed between the thumb and forefinger.

It is much better to salt the butter as you put it on corn than the corn to put on the butter first and then salt it. The salt permeates the butter and gives the corn a better flavor.

An excellent acquisition for the "midnight lunch" is wafers served with Roquefort cheese which has been made into a paste by mixing it with beef sauce, Worcester or any good meat sauce.

To do away with the "spattering" of grease when meat is frying, sprinkle the contents of the pan with flour. The popping and spattering will cease instantly. This will prevent greasy spots on the stove and floor and eliminate the danger of burns that follow in the wake of flying grease.

STADIUM CONCERT

Wife Got Tip Top Advice
"My wife wanted me to take our boy to the doctor to cure an ugly boil," writes D. Frankel, of Stroud, Okla. "I said, 'Put Bucklen's Arnica Salve on it.' She did so, and it cured the boil in a short time. Quickest healer of Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Corns, Bruises, Sprains, Swellings. Best Pile cure on earth. Try it.
