When you make a railway journey

YOU want to be assured that every device known to humanity has been introduced by the railroad on which you ride for your protection. Now, the UNION PACIFIC-SOUTHERN PACIFIC SYSTEM carried almost 50 millions passengers in 1910 without the loss of a life. It wasn't luck—it was due to the fact that the system has thrown a blanket of protection over every passenger by introducing Steel Coaches and Electric Block Signals—the two Great Giants of Safety in railway travel.

FURTHER: When you GO EAST

OVER THE UNION PACIFIC SYSTEM you are not put to the bother and inconvenience of changing sleeping cars. Our Through Sleeping car service is one of the best features of up-to-date railway travel. You go aboard your car in the West knowing that it's your home till your destination is reached—it's a mighty comfortable feeling.

Some Attractions Along the Way are the Columbia River Gorge; Portland, the City of Roses; Salt Lake City; Denver and Colorado Springs.

"Miss Nobody From Startland." Joseph C. Smith, who produced "Miss Nobody From Startland," the musical production coming to this city at the Tacoma theater on Saturday, is also responsible for the production of many of New York's most noted successes. He is the son of George W. Smith, who staged "The Black Crook" and other musical productions of other days. The younger Smith claims to have been the first to introduce in the United States the apache and Vampire dances. He also staged "The Chocolate Soldier" and several large vaudeville acts.

At What Age Shall My Baby Go to School?

(Editor's Note.—Dr. Hirschberg in his first article to the readers of The Times dwelt upon the suffering put upon children through the unconscious error of their elders. His second article deals with the vital subject of the age a child should go to school and the physical condition which should exist when a child is placed in the school room; Dr. Hirschberg's articles are pointed and practical.)

By Dr. Leonard Keen Hirschberg, B. A., M. D.

"Doctor, at what age should I start baby to school?" is no uncommon question. It is undoubtedly wiser to send a child to school for his first study at the age of eight. Since, however, six is the usual age for beginning school in America, there is possibility of impressing mothers with the fact that the boy or girl which begins at seven or eight absorbs more quickly and thoroughly than the younger child.

Three hours a day is enough study for any child during its first year or two of school life; especially at the ages of six and seven.

Children of this tender period should also anticipate the ills of faulty stomachs, by eating warm meals regularly. At the school age delayed toilets are responsible for much of the constipation, defective digestion, coated tongues, and poor assimilation of growth.

Nowhere is the adage "Well begun is half done" more true than in the first impetus to health given to a child as it enters the portals of his first class room. A child is sent to school to fit him for life, to battle with the world to make him self-supporting, self-respecting, and happy.

Mental training, alone, which is emphasized at the expense and neglect of health, is but one-tenth of his equipment. His physiologic and hygienic stability, though much more important is sadly ignored by the mother anxious to start him learning the

Cynthia Grey's Letters

Dear Miss Grey: A poem given as a recitation at one of the theaters, has taken my fancy, but can not get the name of it, to buy it. The subject of it was, an old soldier of the Civil War, advising his son or rather compelling him to enlist for the Spanish American war. Can you help me find it?
A.: Can anyone answer this?

Dear Miss Grey: Does the law grant a woman a divorce because her husband is insane?—C. A.
A.:—Yes.

Dear Miss Grey: About two years ago I met a young man, whom I have pity and sisterly regard for. Would it be proper for me to write to him if I can find out where he is. My mother liked him very much.
EMPIRE STATE GIRL.
A.: If your mother knows, all the circumstances, and doesn't object, yes. I'd talk it over fully with her first, if I were you.

Dear Miss Grey: While walking on the street with a man is it proper to take his arm?—READER.
A.: Ordinarily it is unnecessary except when crossing a street or in the evening.

Dear Miss Grey: I make hair chains and will be glad to hear from the person who inquired.—Mrs. H. E. Garcken, Burley, Wash.

NOT WISELY, BUT TOO WELL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—An appointment said to have been held up because the appointee "became too joyful when he received word that he had been appointed by the President as postmaster at Newark, Del., is giving Robert L. Armstrong time to repent at leisure and his $2000 job never seemed so far away as it does at this minute.

Some one informed several senators that when Mr. Armstrong was informed of his nomination, he drove to Glasgow to celebrate his success with relatives and friends. It was charged that at 11:45 o'clock that night he made the wilkirk ring in that quiet town and horrified the staid residents by driving through town yelling at the top of his voice.

Just the article needed for the toilet—an adjustable shaving mirror. Tomorrow the $2.50 kind at Ryner Malstrom's, 938 Pacific ave. for 98c.

three R's. At a meeting of my medical society last month, I asked "How often have you been consulted by your patients to pass upon the physical condition of the six-year-old candidates for school?" Some two dozen prominent doctors replied. Not one had been so consulted. Most parents bring their children to be vaccinated, but ignore the equally important matter of an examination.

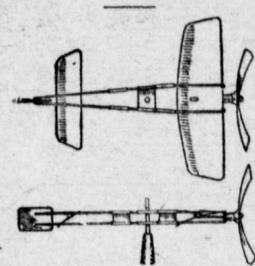

Each mother, to do justice to the future of her darling, must have the physical condition of her child's eyes, ears, nose, throat, glands, chest, lungs, heart, joints, legs, arms, stomach, kidneys, erections, blood, sputum, hair, head, feet, skin, and endurance, thoroughly established by a modern physician.

This record must be kept from the beginning of school life and additions made by a qualified doctor, every six months. Simultaneously a dentist may be permitted to suggest the correct treatment of the teeth.

If mothers and teachers would remain alert to the fact that a slow, backward, or inattentive child is not a well child, much subsequent incurable maladies could be prevented. For the onset of many maladies, evident only at the ages of twenty, thirty and forty, are manifest to the observant doctor in childhood. Palor, anemia, lassitude, hysteria, absence of concentration, baldness, constipation, headaches, telling fibs, sneakiness, petty immoralities, and so-called "growing pains" are all real evidence of ill health. Neglect of these early danger signals of nature lead to immeasurable suffering in later life.

The mother who was actually the offender never traces the enlarged liver, the tuberculosis, the chronic joint disease, the indigestion, the Bright's disease of her married son or daughter to her own criminal negligence of his childhood days at school. She indignantly repudiates the accusation as now hurl it at her. Yet she has condemned her grown child to a living hell, because in his youth she loved him so.

MAKE A WINDMILL, BOYS

Say, boys, the windy days of fall are here, so don't you want to make a windmill—a monoplane windmill? The high brows call them weather vanes because they show which way the wind is blowing, but—

Well, this windmill is made to look like a Bleriot monoplane, one of the new flying machines that makes any way from 80 to 90 miles an hour. It's very simple. You just use heavy wire and connect it all up with straps of tin. The picture, which is from Popular Mechanics, shows you exactly how to make it.
