What's Become of Tom Wilson. Princeton '79. Insurgent?

BY OLIVER P. NEWMAN
Author of "The Fortunes of the Sun."

Way back in 1879—Now be patient. You'll find this story has a 1912 stinger in its tail, and a lot of sub-stingers, scattered all through its 33 years.

Way back in 1879 the star debater of Princeton University was a young Virginian named Tom Wilson. That was before the days of crack athletes and aristocratic clubs. It was when the popular idea of sport was to beat a rival translating Latin prose or down him in debate.

In 1879 the biggest noise in the way of honors was the Lynde prize for the best debater, and our rangy young southerner was the undisputed Whig debating choice for the Lynde that year. Furthermore, it was joyfully heralded by the Whigs—and tearfully admitted by the Closophic club that he would make mince-meat of anybody the Clios put up.

Fine and dandy for Tom Wilson—great jubilation for the Whigs, but—Young Wilson possessed convictions, as well as logic and eloquence. The subject for debate was "Free Trade Versus Protection." Wilson drew "Protection"—and refused to perform.

Gloom camped in the hearts of the Whigs. They argued with Tom in vain. The glory of victory was dangled before his eyes; he refused to support a doctrine in which he did not believe. Another Whig took his place—and lost. Momentary condemnation followed. Then the school and the faculty caught the idea—principle above personal honor—and Wilson was elevated to the job of perpetual, popular idol of the school—and he's still on the job.

You're thinking that a boy who displayed that kind of character ought to have made a pretty good man? He did. He made an honest lawyer, a human instructor of young men, a college president who fought the powers of wealth to turn a great university into a democracy, a governor who licked the bosses of the worse boss-ridden, corporation-owned state in the union, and a national leader who has earned the right to be seriously considered for president in 1912.

And he's the same kind of a man that he was boy.

A glance at Woodrow Wilson's history shows why he's the kind of a chap he is. That law tells the story—and he came by it naturally. His father was Rev. Joseph K. Wilson, a Scotch-Presbyterian minister, whose family came to the colonies in the early days to escape religious oppression. His mother was Jessie Woodrow, whose forebears, for 800 years, carried the banner of religious insurgency in Scotland. Wilson's father and mother began life in Ohio, but were soon sent into the south, where the

of the house of representatives. "Almost absolute power has fallen into the hands of men whose irresponsibility prevents the regulation of their conduct by the people from whom they derive their authority."

"It is not enough that the general course of legislation is known to all. Unless, during its progress, it is subjected to a thorough process of public sifting, to the free comment of friend and foe alike, to the ordeal and battle among those upon whom its fate depends, an act of open legislation may have its real intent and scope commuted by its friends and undiscovered by its enemies, and it may be as fatally mischievous as the darkest measure of an oligarchy or a despot."

This, mark you, 33 years ago, out of the mouth of a Princeton student but 23 years old. This was the sort of doctrine Tom Wilson was preaching—and living up to—when Vic Murdock was a babe in arms.

Wilson took his law course at the University of Virginia and afterward tried to practice law in Atlanta, but after a year gave it up—BECAUSE A MAN COULDN'T MAKE A COMMERCIAL SUCCESS OF THE LAW AND HOLD INDEPENDENT, PROGRESSIVE IDEALS AT THE SAME TIME.

He became professor of history and political economy at Bryn Mawr in 1885; in 1888 he was called to the same chair at Wesleyan university, Middletown, Conn., and in 1890 he was made professor of jurisprudence and political economy at Princeton.

In 1902 when the presidency of the college became vacant, Woodrow Wilson was unanimously elected, and he straightway set on foot democratic reforms that shook Princeton to its foundations.

(In his second article, Newman will tell the story of Woodrow Wilson's heroic struggle to change Princeton university from an aristocratic club for rich men's sons to a democracy.)

Anarchy and Famine Rule in China

Scene on a Pirate ship—the hooks are used to hold the attacked vessel to the pirate craft, so that they can swarm over.

UNLESS GOVERNMENT CAN STOP LOOTING AND BUTCHERY AND PIRATES, CHINA WILL BE GOBBLED UP BY FOREIGN POWERS.

SHANGHAI, China, Feb. 5.—China today faces the greatest crisis in its history. Two and a half millions of its population is in the throes of a famine; robber bands practically run the interior, while the navigable waters are infested by pirates. A condition of anarchy reigns throughout the empire. Scenes of horrible cruelty on every hand are described by Europeans who have been compelled to flee.

Linchow city has been plundered and burned by 5000 brigands. Hundreds of girls have been kidnapped. Chinese women, of the better class, walked to Pakhoi. They were repeatedly attacked on the road, and on arrival went begging protection from door to door of the foreign houses which are the only safe refuges.

Pakhoi is also in the hands of the brigands. They captured 25 girls and carried them off. Later some of the girls were brought back on wheel barrows, dead.

Executions are the order of the day. It is a sickening sight to see soldiers opening the bodies of beheaded Chinamen and carrying away the livers to fry and eat.

The realization of the true state of affairs will come shortly, and unless there be a government, strong enough to meet the situation, China must face intervention by the powers, which means a division of the country by other nations.

World News In Brief

SAN FRANCISCO.—Coolness of the Sisters of Mercy at St. Catherine's home here today prevented a panic in the institution during a fire which caused several thousand dollars damage. Discovering the blaze the nuns worked quietly but swiftly, removing the beds of the aged invalids and calming 200 girls locked up for waywardness.

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—Thirteen shots fired and nobody even scratched is the record of a running revolver duel here early today between Policeman John Schultz and John Pie, Chinese laundryman. John Pie had lost his trel playing fantan and was returning home when he mistook the policeman for a holdup.

NEW YORK.—Three students each from Stanford university and the University of California today are en route to Brazil on the steamer Jennyson to work for the Brazilian government at Rio Janeiro.

SAN QUENTIN, Cal.—For the first time in the history of the state prison here, a father and son arrived together to serve terms of 15 years each for burglary when Nelson Primrose and his son Edwin today began sentences.

CHICAGO.—J. L. McKeever, a realty broker here, is to brave the anti-race suicide wrath of Colonel Roosevelt by building a "family hotel," which will cater only to bachelors of sexes, will bar babies and will be called "The Roosevelt."

Beauty In Two Weeks; One In Jail, One Insane

(By United Press Leased Wire.)
MUNICH, Feb. 5.—Two years in prison for failing to make good on her promise of "beauty in two weeks," for which she was to receive $15,000, is what Auguste Kiesebecker, proprietor of a Munich beauty parlor, will have to serve.

The woman had induced the wife of a Berlin army officer, who was anything but plump, that she could make her bust grow to seductive beauty in two weeks. The officer's wife was willing to pay $15,000 and make a first payment upon the "famous secret cosmetic." Applied, it developed a serious outbreak of red rash all over the body and the woman went insane from worry. She is now in an insane asylum.

INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, SOURNESS, GAS AND STOMACH-HEADACHE GO

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or Indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why Dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or Indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please your most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for Bilioousness or Constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for Indigestion or Gas-tritis or any other Stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of Stomach Trouble and Indigestion.
