

Bury Frederick With Ancestors

(By United Press Leased Wire.) COPENHAGEN, May 24.—European notables, including four kings and four queens, attended today the funeral of the late King Frederick of Denmark, who died alone and unattended, on the streets of Hamburg, Germany. The body was buried in the crypt where rest the bodies of 33 Danish kings.

Pen Routed By Typewriter

There remain but two books in the county auditor's office which are used for longhand writing. One is for log marks and the other for water claims. All the other record books contain typewritten records. There are so few registrations in the two longhand books it would not pay to change the system, while between $15 and $20 a day is saved the county by use of the typewriters.

Bar Negro Elks

(By United Press Leased Wire.) ALBANY, N. Y., May 24.—The circuit court of appeals decided today that negroes have no right to the title of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. Judge Bartlett ruled, however, that the negroes might have the same titles for officers as the white Elks have, adding: "If the negroes want to use the name of an animal there is a long list of beasts, birds and fishes yet unappropriated."

SELL SHIELDS TO AID RELIEF WORK

To obtain money for relief work among the members of the G. A. R. Phil Sheridan corps of the W. R. C. of Tacoma will inaugurate an annual civic flag week beginning May 25. All next week members of the corps will visit residents of Tacoma to sell shields of the national colors for 10 cents each, the entire proceeds to go to the relief work of the organization.

Chester Rowell Dies

(By United Press Leased Wire.) LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 24.—Dr. Chester Rowell, mayor of Fresno, is dead here today at 68 after a six months' illness. He served two terms in the legislature and was regent of the state university for many years. He founded the Fresno Republican in 1876.

In Special Session

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 24.—The Arizona legislature is engaged in its first special session today for the consideration of 35 measures untouched by the recent regular session of the body. Thirteen of these are constitutional proposals which must be approved by the legislature.

Earthquake In Hawaii

HONOLULU, May 4.—Hawaii is recovering today from the most severe earthquake shock experienced in years. Wireless advice report that Moana Loa volcano is working. Seismologist Perret predicted an eruption for June.

Scene from Wm. A. Brady's production of the farce comedy, "Overnight," at the Tacoma Sunday night.

For one week starting Monday the Tacoma theater will offer the latest and greatest production of moving pictures, namely the wonderful Kinemacolor production of the world's greatest spectacle, the Durbar in India.

Wm. A. Brady's production of the comedy success, "Over Night," will be the attraction at the Tacoma Sunday.

"ATTACKED BY A LION."

"Attacked by a Lion" one of the greatest animal films ever produced in motion photography, is the offering at the Circuit theater today and tomorrow. There will be a new bill Sunday. The picture shows a lion attacking a man, later killing his horse and being killed by a bullet. "Hen-Pecked Ike" is a rattling good comedy and "The Haters" is an exceptional film of ranch life.

Today and tomorrow at the Dream will be shown "The Last Rites of the Maine and the Burial of Her Dead." The film shows the Maine being towed out to her grave and all the ceremonies of burying both battleship and the victims of the horrible disaster. Manager Cohen also has secured some good comedy and dramatic films for the program.

Adventures of Average Jones

BY SAM'L HOPKINS ADAMS. (Copyright, 1911, by Bobbs, Merrill Co.)

(Continued From Yesterday.) Average Jones re-entered. "Have you no curiosity in your composition?" he asked. "Not much—having been reared in the newspaper business."

Stooping, Average Jones picked up the glasses which the man had thrown on the floor and examined them carefully. "Rather a fine instrument," he observed. "Marked N. K. I think I'll follow up the owner."

"You'll never find him now. He has too much start." "Not at all. When a man is in his state of abject funk, it's ten to one he lands at the nearest bar. Wait for me."

In fifteen minutes Average Jones was back. There was a curious expression on his face as he nodded an assent to his friend's inquiring eyebrows. "Where?" asked Waldemar. "On the floor of a Park Row saloon."

"Dead drunk, eh?" "No—er; not—er—drunk. Dead."

Waldemar stiffened in his chair. "Dead!" he repeated. "Poison, probably. The ad was his finish, as he said. The next thing is to find it."

"The first edition will be down any minute now. But it'll take some finding. Why, counting 'classified,' we're carrying fifteen hundred ads, in every issue. With no clue to the character of this one—"

"Plenty of clue," said Average Jones suavely. "You'll find it on the sporting page, I think."

"Attacked by a Lion" one of the greatest animal films ever produced in motion photography, is the offering at the Circuit theater today and tomorrow. There will be a new bill Sunday. The picture shows a lion attacking a man, later killing his horse and being killed by a bullet. "Hen-Pecked Ike" is a rattling good comedy and "The Haters" is an exceptional film of ranch life.

"Judging from the man's appearance? Rather far-fetched, isn't it?" "Judging from a pair of very fine binoculars, a mention of Carroll Morrison's name, and, principally, some two thousand dollars in a huge heap."

"I don't quite see where that leads." "No? The bills must have been mostly ones and twos. Those are a book-maker's taking. The binocular is a racing-man's glass. Our late friend used the language of the track. I think we'll find him on page nine."

"Why," said Waldemar, handing him a paper still spiced with the keen odor of printer's ink. "Swiftly the Ad-Visor's practiced eye ran over the column. It checked at the 'offer' of a notorious firm of tipsters who advertised to sell 'inside information' on the races to their patrons. As a special lure, they were, on this day, letting the public in on a few particularly 'good things' free."

"There you are," said Average Jones, pointing out the advertisement. To his astonishment, Waldemar noted that his friend's indicatory finger shook a little. Normally, Average Jones was the coolest and most controlled of men.

"Noble and Gale's form ad," he observed. "I see nothing unusual in that."

"Yes—I fancy it's quite important—er—in its way." The editor stared. "When you talk like a bored Britisher, Average," he remarked, "there's sure to be something in the air. What is it?"

"Look at the last line." "Again Waldemar turned to the paper. "One Best Bet," he read. "That the Pharisee will never finish." Well?"

"That the Pharisee will never finish," repeated Average Jones. "If the Pharisee is a horse, the line becomes absurd at once. How could any one know that a horse would fail to finish in a race? But if it—er—referred—" er—to a man, an official known—er—as the Pharisee Phil—"

"Waldemar had jumped in his feet. A thrill, increasing and pulsating through the floor beneath them, shook the building. The editor jumped for the telephone. "Composing room; quick! Give me the foreman. Hello! That you, Corrigan? Stop the presses. I don't care if we miss every train in the country. Don't answer back. This is Mr. Waldemar. Stop the presses!"

The thrill waned and ceased. At the telephone, Waldemar continued: "Look up the Noble and Gale tip ad, page nine, column six. Kill the last line—the One Best Bet. Don't ask ME how. Chisel it out. Burn it out. Dynamite it out. But kill it. After that's done, print. Hello; Dan? Send the sporting editor in here in a hurry."

"Good work," said Average Jones. "They'll never know how near their idea of removing Governor Arthur came to being boasted of in plain print."

Waldemar took his huge head in his hands and rocked it gently. "It's on," he said. "And right-side-before. Yet, it tries to tell me that a man plotting to murder the governor, advertises the fact in my paper! I'll get a new head."

"Keep that one for a while," advised Average Jones. "It may be better than you think. Anyway, here's the ad. And down yonder is the dead man whom it killed when he failed to kill it. So much is real."

"And here's Bendig," said the other, as the sporting editor entered.

Flagged Train With Shirt. Tearing his shirt from his back an Ohio man flagged a train and saved it from a wreck, but H. T. Alston, Raleigh, N. C., once prevented a wreck with Electric Bitters. "I was in a terrible plight when I began to use them," he writes, "my stomach, head, back and kidneys were all badly affected and my liver was in bad condition, but four bottles of Electric Bitters made me feel like a new man."

A trial will convince you of their matchless merit for any stomach, liver or kidney trouble. Price 50 cents at Ryner Malstrom Drug Co., 938 Pacific av.

tered. Any such horse as 'The Pharisee, Bendig?' "No, sir. I suppose you mean that Noble and Gale ad. I saw it in proof. Some of Nick Karboe's funny work, I expect."

"Nick Karboe; N. K.," murmured Average Jones, laying a hand on the abandoned field glass. "Who is this man Karboe, Mr. Bendig?"

"Junior partner of Noble and Gale. He puts out their advertising."

"Any connection whatever with Mr. Carroll Morrison?" "Why, yes. Before he went to pieces he used to be Mr. Morrison's confidential man, and lately he's been doing some lobbying for the association. I understood he'd quit it again."

"Quit what?" asked Waldemar. "Drink?" "Worse. The white stuff. Coke."
