The Joy of Getting Ready

All week the little boy had studied hard in school, looking forward to Saturday, for Saturday the boys were coming over to play Indian.

And Saturday came, too, and with it the boys. They made a search for barrel hoops and made bows. They cut straight sticks and made arrows. They tied stones into split sticks for tomahawks.

All the little boy got out of his longed-for holiday was the trouble of preparation and the work of cleaning up.

But the little boy did not know that his holiday was an epitome of life; we are never quite ready until it is time to "go home."

School days were a preparation for higher education—for a start in life; we are never quite ready until it is time to "go home."

School days were a preparation for higher education—for a start in life. The start was only the beginning of a struggle to get enough together to marry and settle down.

Are not we all so? And is not the chief trouble that we fall to get the full joy out of the passing moment?

What we need to do is to learn to enjoy the passing moment and then we won't mind when it is time to "go home."

Only, when it is all over, let us hope that no Father will have to scold us for musing up things!

W. Murray Is Wise

W. Murray Crane, for some years United States senator from Massachusetts, announced yesterday that he would not be a candidate for re-election in the primaries next fall.

Crane is head of the combine which sells paper to the government for use in making paper bills. He's been a standpat governor of the old Bay State, standpat senator and one of the standpat state bosses.

In his announcement he mentions the fact that the state legislature may pass a law soon for the direct nomination of senators. W. Murray knows what would happen to him then. HE'S WISE.

Observations

WITH one city lineman burned up on a pole and another evidently lost in the bottom of the Narrows in a space of three days, it looks as if a hoodoo had hit the department.

ALREADY SUPPLIED. The Caller—Do you need any typewriter supplies, sir? The Guv—no—Typewriter supplies? No. I've just bought her a box of chocolates.—London Opinion.

About People

Capt. Charles R. Howland, brother of the Cleveland congressman, has just completed his book on the digest of opinions of the judge advocate general, and it will go into effect in the army at once.

Congress has offered the widow of Rear Admiral Winfield S. Schley, the hero of the battle of Santiago, a pension of $600 a year.

"What is the meaning of the word 'honeysuckle' that President Taft used?" inquired the puzzled young lady.

"Well, it's hard to explain definitely; but it means about the same as hornswoogle," answered the obliging youth.

"I'm as much in the dark as ever, with all this slang."

"I don't know how to explain it, but it means the same as flim-flam."

"Oh, I see," she gurgled. "It's about the same thing as bamboozle."

In ancient times poets courted their loves with the lyre.

Women are still used to being courted by liars.

THE MINISTER'S USEFULNESS.

Among the members of a fashionable country club of Washington are a doctor and a minister, who delight in the exchange of repartee touching their respective professions.

As they met one day, the minister observed that he was "going to read to old Cunningham," adding (as he was aware that the old man was a patient of his friend, the doctor), "Is he much worse?"

"With the gravest of expressions, the physician replied: "He needs your help more than mine."

"Off his guard, the minister exclaimed, anxiously: "Poor fellow! Is he as bad off as that?"

"Yes, he is suffering from insomnia."—Lippincott's.

NOT OVER IT YET "Has she entirely recovered from the effects of her operation?" "No, she's still talking about it."

TRY SCISSORS NEXT TIME. "She meant to chop off the chicken's head with a hatchet," says a Missouri editor, "but only succeeded in cutting off her forefinger. The next time she has designs against the life of a chicken, we recommend the use of a pair of scissors."

TODAY IN HISTORY

May 24, 1844, Samuel F. B. Morse made the first real test of his telegraph wire between Washington and Baltimore, just completed. He assembled his friends in the chamber of the supreme court at Washington; his assistant, Alfred Vail, was at the Baltimore end.

Morse had promised the honor of sending the first message to Miss Ellsworth, daughter of the patent commissioner. Her mother suggested as appropriate for the first message, Numbers xxiii:23, "What hath God wrought!" It was the first message sent over a telegraph line in the world.
