

ONE KILLED; FOUR HURT IN STRIKE RIOTS

ERTH AMBOY, N. J., June 14.—One striker—Peter Dudack—was shot and killed and four others were injured, one mortally when 1,000 strikers surrounded the main gate of the American Smelting & Refining company's plant here today. Private detectives, armed with rifles, fired a volley into the ranks of the strikers, and five men fell.

The strikers left their dead and wounded lying on the ground and fled. The volley by the detectives followed an attempt by the strikers to burn a high fence surrounding the plant.

Adjutant General Sadler is here and is reported to have telephoned to Governor Wilson urging that state troops be rushed to Perth Amboy at once.

The fatal outbreak today resulted from the presence of 500 strike-breakers inside the smelting plant. The rush of the strikers to the gate house was too sudden for the police and deputies to stop. The strikers allege the firing was unwarranted.

SCENES OF HORROR DURING ERUPTION TOLD BY WITNESS

(By United Press Leased Wire.)
SEATTLE, June 14.—A. H. Wheatly, superintendent of the Copper River and Northwestern railway at Seward, today cabled the United Press the most authentic and interesting account of the volcanic eruptions which during the past week have covered a large portion of the coast of Alaska with ashes and filled the air with sulphurous fumes. His story follows:

merian darkness, the ashes and fumes choking all on board.

For thirteen hours the Dora steamed seaward, trying to escape the storm of ashes.

Vegetation is destroyed and all animals are dead or dying of hunger. Loss of life is still unknown, as it was impossible to communicate anywhere during the eruption. Lightning destroyed the Kodiak wireless station.

The villages near Mount Katmai are undoubtedly destroyed but luckily the population is scanty and the wind forces the ashes seaward.

Seward and the entire Kenai peninsula was showered by ashes and an acid rain which burned vegetation and corroded metals. Uyak and Karluk are safe.

Another eruption of Katmai is possible as fresh explosions are reported to have been heard this morning.

(By Cable to United Press.)
SEWARD, Alaska, June 14.—Mount Katmai, dormant for 20 years, erupted one week ago. The steamer Dora, then sixty miles distant and bound for Kodiak, witnessed the approach of a huge ash cloud which was accompanied by terrific electrical discharges. The ship was completely enveloped five hours, immersed in Cim-merian darkness, the ashes and fumes choking all on board.

For thirteen hours the Dora steamed seaward, trying to escape the storm of ashes.

Vegetation is destroyed and all animals are dead or dying of hunger. Loss of life is still unknown, as it was impossible to communicate anywhere during the eruption. Lightning destroyed the Kodiak wireless station.

LOS ANGELES, June 14.—Death Valley Scotty, who once plastered Los Angeles with treasury notes and flooded its bars and streets with gold pieces on his spectacular returns from his mysterious treasure mines, languishes in prison today because he refuses to answer Superior Judge Craig's question regarding the disposition of $25,000 he claims to have received from the sale of a mine.

Scotty must remain in durance vile for contempt of court until he is willing to talk and pays a judgment of $1,247 held by Dr. J. W. Lawton.

Taft and Roosevelt Men Clash In Fist Fight

(By United Press Leased Wire.)
CHICAGO, June 14.—First blood of the republican national convention was spilled just outside of the national committee room today in a fist fight between two Oklahomans, one a Roosevelter and the other a Taftite, the Roosevelt man receiving the worst of the encounter.

The trouble started when L.

G. Disney of Oklahoma voiced his opinion of United States Marshal Grant Victor of Oklahoma, a member of the Oklahoma delegation. Victor swung a hard right to the mouth of Disney, who went down, the blood flowing in a stream.

Pat Dore, a Roosevelt man, took Disney's part and planted a hard right between Victor's eyes.

TACOMA A REAL STRAWBERRY CENTER

Tacoma has become strawberry headquarters at a single bound.

The strawberry business of the Northwest is now being done out of this city and from two to five carloads of the luscious berries are being shipped out here daily now.

Everything from Vashon, Maury, Fox, Anderson and McNeil's islands and from the whole bay country is being landed at the Municipal docks and the berry business of this city on strawberries alone will run to a fine sum. It is estimated that $500,000 will be taken by Western Washington strawberry growers this year.

HIGH SCHOOL'S LARGEST CLASS GRADUATES

Two hundred and twenty-three graduated from the Tacoma High school last night and not one in the lot read an essay on "Hitch Your Wagon to a Star."

In fact there were no essays and orations, the exercises in Tacoma theater being confined to six members of the class giving dramatic readings and piano solos while the boys glee club furnished music.

Irene Armstrong, Minnie McDowell, Erna Miller and Frank Bjorkman, the honor pupils of the class picked to appear, gave readings from standard authors with good dramatic effect and Etha Cook and Doris Foster entertained at the piano.

Principal H. F. Hunt of the High school presented the class in an interesting talk and President George G. Williamson of the school board presented the diplomas.

The class is the largest ever graduated from the school.
