NINETY MILES AN HOUR WITH TEDDY TETZLAFF EXPERIENCE OF BOALT

Times Writer Watches the Landscape Roll Up and Fall Backwards When Racing Demon Drives His Racing Machine at 90-Mile Clip Over Sixth Avenue Boulevard.

BY FRED L. BOALT

Ninety miles an hour! We did it—Teddy Tetzlaff and I—on the boulevard yesterday. But, first, for the benefit of those sincere automobilists to whom this narrative may seem incoherent, let me explain that I don't know a thingamajig from a whatyoumaycallit, never having been taught the automobile language.

All I know is that Teddy Tetzlaff, with me at his side, pulled a whateveritis, and that sneaky little 70-horsepower F-I-A-T started hitting the mountain-tops. The moment before he pulled the whateveritis, the boulevard lay before us in nice, smooth rolls of asphalt; but after he pulled the whateveritis, all the landscape in the universe rolled up in a bunch and hurled itself at us in chunks.

My particular business at the moment is to describe the emotions of men when traveling at 90 miles an hour. And how am I going to do that when, if I had any emotions, I can't remember 'em.

Yes, I had emotions. The trouble lies in sorting them out. You can't take an emotion and put a ticket on it for future reference, and make a record of it by the card-index system. You've got to grab an emotion on the fly, and make a hazy sort of mental note of it; and when the emotions are coming thick and fast—well, you've got to do the best you can.

It was in Smooth Rolls As I started out to say, the boulevard lay before us in nice, smooth rolls when Teddy pulled the whateveritis. When he pulled it he released from the innards of the car all the fiends of hell. They screamed in torment, in an evident desire to get away from there. We got away from there pronto.

A Million Miles An Hour And as I have already stated, the landscape rolled up and fell backwards over us. And the very first emotion worth recording hit me in the pit of the stomach.

My amateurish estimate is that we were going a million miles an hour. We were not. We were going a sluggish 60. I knew this a second later when Teddy let out another notch of the whateveritis.

Before he did it, I could see. The wind was hitting me in the face like twenty gales, but—I could see. The boulevard, which stretched like a ribbon before us, began to narrow. Whizz! The boulevard was a piece of string. Whizz-z-z! The boulevard was a thread. Whizz-z-z-z! There wasn't any boulevard.

By reaching behind Teddy's back I could reach a leather handle. I grabbed it. It saved my life every time we hit a mountain. I knew, if I let go of that handle, I would be hurled into the void. If that happened, I would keep on going. I would never stop. So I hung on. With what tenacity I hung on an aching hand still testifies.

Teddy let out another notch. Boalt Got It All You have, perhaps, been in a gale at sea. Perhaps cyclones have toyed with you. Tornados, it may be, have had sport with you. When Teddy let out that third notch, all the gales, cyclones and tornados that ever blew bunched and hurled themselves at me. Teddy didn't get a zephyr. I got it all.

That wind unbent my coat. It ripped the buttons off my vest. It blew up my trousers legs and threatened destruction. It sent prehensile fingers under

SAYS HANFORD WAS DRUNK OR ILL

WITNESS AT IMPEACHMENT HEARING SAYS HE SAW JURIST STAGGERING UP STREET ONE SUNDAY IN SEATTLE.

(By United Press Leased Wire.) SEATTLE, June 29.—"I saw Judge Hanford intoxicated—he was staggering toward me as I was standing one Sunday in September of October, 1911, in front of the public library. This was about 6 o'clock in the evening. His condition was such that he was either very drunk or very ill. He staggered from one side of the street to the other.

"I did not follow Judge Hanford but I observed his staggering walk for some distance. Once he danced off into the gutter.

This was the testimony of John Bathurst for five years United States commissioner at Tanana, Alaska, and now city weightmaster at Seattle, this morning before the congressional committee investigating the Hanford impeachment charges, in answer to a series of questions propounded to him both by the investigators and E. C. Hughes, of counsel for Hanford.

Everybody's Getting! Getting What? Speed

"Everybody's getting it"—the speed mania. From the Hupmobile and motorcycle up the scale to the Pierce "Six," "M. P. 30" and back down the scale to the diminutive "Brush Runabout." They are skidding around the corners flirting with death, defying the laws of nature and gravity with a nonchalance unequalled.

The speed cars can do a rushing business any day now. It behooves fond mothers and doting dads to keep their kids off the streets, tightly chained to the back door-step, and chickens, dogs and pigs would do well not to creep, crawl or fly beyond their confines. After the racers finish practice on the Montanara course at Lakeway, the track is a grand orgy of recklessness. And the would-be Barney Oldfields and Hughie Hughes are out for an airing, pleading with the undertaker for a permanent overcoat.

RETIRED SEAMAN IS ROBBED OF $2,600 NO CANDIDATE CHOSEN ON SEVENTEENTH BALLOT

Robbed of $2,600 while he was being entertained last night by two women at 1317 So. D st., John Spencer, a retired seaman from the United States navy, is nursing a bundle of experience today. The police as yet have been unable to locate the women, but have taken all their effects from the Rainier hotel, including three trunks, suitcases, pictures and other goods.

Spencer was stopping at the Dewey house intending to go to Bremerton today and purchase a business on which he had secured an $1,000 bill, three $500 bills and one $100 bill.

No result has been reached up to the 17th ballot. Indications point to an all-night session with little hope of settling upon a candidate before morning.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 29.—Before the fifth session of the democratic convention was called to order by Chairman James at 1:06 p. m. today the ultimatum to the Clark managers to put Clark over as quickly as possible put the delegates in a wild state of disorder, all expecting that something big was going to happen soon.

The total roll call on the thirteenth ballot was as follows: Clark, 554 1/2; Wilson, 356; Underwood, 115 1/2; Harmon, 29; Marshall, 30; Foss, 2; Bryan, 1. There being no choice on the 13th ballot, James ordered the fourteenth roll call. When Connecticut was called the delegation gave Wilson one vote above their previous one. Underwood lost the one. In Michigan Wilson lost one to Clark. The New Jersey governor gained one-half vote at Underwood's expense in North Carolina. CITY THROGGED WITH VISITORS

With the Montanara Feste but two days off, the city is thronged with visitors, and it is estimated that fully 10,000 persons are here today for the evening. By Monday it is expected that at least 25,000 visitors will be here, and during the week the carnival committee expects between 200,000 and 300,000 people will be here.

The programs are being rapidly whittled into shape, the minute details being settled. The auto races are attracting thousands and new Tacoma newspapers are spreading the tidings in large type on the front pages. The Stadium attractions are now completed, and only a few hours' work remains to complete the labor. Everything will be ready on time when the Feste opens Sunday afternoon with the sacred concert at the Stadium.

O. W. R. And N. Does Good Work For Tacoma

The pictures contained in the booklet show Tacoma's business section, the residence and manufacturing section, nature's playgrounds and everything of interest concerning the city.

IN SECOND ATTACK UPON TAMMANY, NEBRASKAN EXPLAINS HIS POSITION

REFUSES TO VOTE FOR ANY MURPHY - SULLIVAN - MORGAN TAINTED DELEGATES AND DECLINES FOR NEW JERSEY GOVERNOR—DEMONSTRATION FOLLOWS SPEECH.

(By United Press Leased Wire.) FIFTH REGIMENT ARMORY, BALTIMORE, Md., June 29.—William J. Bryan tore the lid off the democratic convention this afternoon when in a stirring speech explaining the shift of his vote as a delegate from Clark to Governor Wilson, he virtually laid the foundation for a bolt should the nominee of the convention secure a victory at the pre of promised allegiance to the Ryan-Belmont money trust interests on which the Nebraskan's attack had been centered throughout the convention.

In his speech Bryan held Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall up as the connecting link between the big business interests and the party.

Bryan declared in changing his vote that he would not support any candidate whose success in landing the nomination was contingent upon allegiance to Tammany Hall or was made possible by securing the 90 Murphy controlled votes from the Empire state.

After the storm thus precipitated had subsided Bryan in a reply to a direct question as to whether he proposed to bolt in event of the candidate being selected under the conditions named, said that he could not conceive of a convention choosing a presidential candidate under the conditions outlined, once the delegates were apprized of the real significance of their action, but he declined to be pinned down to any more definite answer.

"Mr. Chairman," he began, "I am explaining my vote, only because my advice was not followed in my delegation. I advised that Mr. Clark should continue to vote for him until justified in doing otherwise.

"Nebraska is a progressive state. In this convention the progressive sentiment is overwhelming. Every candidate has proclaimed himself a progressive. By your resolution you, by a vote of more than four to one, pledged you would not in any case vote for a man who represented Belmont, Morgan, Ryan or the favor-hunting class. How can the pledge be made effective?"

"Only by naming a candidate who is not controlled by these interests can you win.

"The New York vote cast under the unit rule does not represent the intelligence, the honesty or the patriotism of the ninety men who are here. It represents the will of one man, Charles F. Murphy, and he represents the influence that dominated the recent conference at Chicago and are trying to dominate this convention.

"Speaking for myself and for any of the delegates who decide to join me, I shall withhold my vote from Mr. Clark as long as New York's vote is recorded for him. And the position that I take in regard to Mr. Clark, I will take in regard to any other candidate whose name is now or may come before the convention. I will not be a party to the nomination of any man who will not be prepared when he is asked to refuse the domination of Morgan, Ryan and Belmont and who is not prepared to make this a government of the people, for the people and by the people.

Switches to Wilson. "Now I am ready to announce my vote," continued Bryan, "with the understanding that I stand ready to withdraw my vote from the candidate for whom I will cast it whenever New York comes to make this a government of the people for Nebraska's second choice, Gov. Woodrow Wilson."

Bryan concluded amidst a perfect furor of cheers from the galleries and a very small portion of the delegates. The majority of the delegates, especially those from the South and East who were denouncing the Nebraskan and at least a dozen were crying that he had ruined the party.

Congressman Fitzgerald was demanding recognition when Charles White, Murphy's messenger, whispered in his ear. Fitzgerald at once desisted from his attempt to reply to Bryan and hurried back to his seat near the Tammany leader's chair.
