hurt worse than I am. Please look after him first." Pohlmann was found seriously but not fatally hurt. The bride died on the way to St. Anthony's hospital.

Company officials today stated a considerable amount of the jewelry of the dead was missing, but whether this was the work of vandals or a freak of the wreck is not known.

Herbert Hease, assistant general solicitor of the Burlington, today declared he believed the wreck due to the dense fog.

Coroner Hoffman, on returning from the scene of the wreck, issued the following statement today: "Responsibility for the disaster depends on three questions—If the Overland was standing still, why was not the mail train properly flagged?"

"Did the block signals work, and if they did, or if the overland did send back a flag, why did not the mail train stop?" The coroner condemned the practice of running two fast trains so close together. He said they should have been at least 25 minutes apart. He has asked the local weather bureau for an official report of weather conditions at the time of the wreck.

THE REAL CHAMPION A COMIC FROM THE FRENCH

and gracefully acknowledge the boquets— But when the big mutt gets home he's apt to run up against a REAL champion. Liz and Mary were proceeding to morning school, and, of course, they couldn't resist the attraction of gazing into shop windows on their way. Suddenly the former paused at the window of the local photographer and gazed her eyes on a certain picture. It was the annual procession of school children through the village. "Mary!" she shrieked, excitedly. "Come 'ere!" "What's the matter, Liz?" asked the other. "You see the photo of Annie Smith in the third row, there? An' you see the pair o' boots b'hind Annie?" "Yes."

LARGEST PORCELAIN BOWL IS PUT IN CASE

NEW YORK, July 15.—The Morton punch bowl, a historic piece of rare Lowestoft porcelain presented to the city of New York by Gov. Jacob Morton in 1812, after a sojourn of 100 years in the governor's room of the city hall, has been consigned to a glass case in the Metropolitan museum of art. DRY-CLEAN To dry-clean corsets, lay corsets on a table, as flat as possible, and rub with pumice powder, using a firm piece of flannel. There is a church of singularly mixed architecture on Fourth avenue. It seems to be a combination of early Gothic, Moorish, Romanesque and Renaissance. It's almost as awful as Senator Clark's famous Fifth avenue mansion. For this strange edifice some one has invented a most undignified nickname which will probably stick to the building so long as it stands. It is "The Church of the Holy Zebra."

GRIFFO DOWN AND OUT. NEW YORK.—Weighing over 200 pounds and as shabby as he was once flashy, Young Griff, formerly lightweight champion of Australia and rated the cleverest man that ever entered the ring, was in the city jail here today, charged with slum-taking.

Women Would Banish Cigars From Streets

BROCTON, Mass., July 15.—There's consternation among the men of Brocton because the women are agitating for a city ordinance to prohibit smoking on crowded streets. Brocton women have been successful in having too many laws passed for the male sex to laugh off the idea, the men admit, and they don't know just what to do. Mayor Harry C. Howard, it is said, will refuse to allow the city's money to be spent for a public smoking room. The common council has put its foot down on smoking in the council chambers. "Ashes from cigars in the eyes of pedestrians are a source of danger and far from comfortable," one agitator said. "Lighted cigars may be held too near the thin dresses, and there are other reasons too numerous to mention."

His Name is Double John

(By United Press Leased Wire.) CHICAGO, July 15.—John John Baier, who was so named that he might be distinguished from an older brother John, is Chicago's latest citizen. John John was made a citizen of the United States the other day by Judge Carpenter in the federal court. "You mean John Baier, don't you?" queried the court when Baier gave his name. "No, John John is right," answered Baier. "My father made it double John so he would not get me mixed with my older brother John."

Elopers Think License To Marry is Enough

PORTERVILLE, July 15.—Juan Ramos, a Mexican ranch hand of Globe, was given a lesson in American usages in Judge Hall's court this evening when he learned from the judge the difference between a marriage ceremony and a marriage license. Ramos had eloped with the daughter of a neighboring Mexican, Rosa Felix, and Felix, pore, had sworn to a warrant charging Ramos with abduction. The officers locate dRamos and the girl after they had returned from a trip to the county seat. Nothing alarmed when the warrant was read and explained to him, Ramos returned after a dive into his house, triumphantly waving his license and avowing the girl was his. When the judge had explained to the pair of youthful elopers the difference between a marriage ceremony and a marriage license they repaired to St. Anne's church where practically the entire Globe village of Mexicans witnessed the wedding.

The Saddest Room, It Is Said, In The World--Foundling's Hospital

out of her niche quietly, as did Sister Beatrice of old when she, too, gave all for love. "Peace, my dear, peace," she breathed to Leonore, to eighteen-year-old Leonore, on whose slim shoulders rested the most awful sorrow the world has knowledge of. "But I love him so—I love him so," the little girl sobbed. "I know that, my dear," said Sister Agatha, "but to do what you have to do bravely—that is what I want from you. Do it for me, for the mother that ever a son could have." This room, this "saddest room in the world," is the room just inside the low-arched door that leads into the Foundlings' hospital in New York city. The Sisters of Charity run the Foundlings' hospital. Of all the mothers who ever came to the big brick hospital down on the East Side, Sister Agatha remembers Leonore the best. Leonore was just eighteen and she did love her baby so. Time after time she tried to lay Joey into the little white cradle, but she just couldn't. Finally Sister Agatha stepped
