Cynthia Grey's Answers

THERE ARE LEFT-FOOTED DOGS

Dear Miss Grey: In answer to one of your readers, who wants to know if there are left and right-footed dogs, I say yes. I used to own one which could run first one way and then swing over and run the other way. L. L. G.

THE WIDOW AND THE BOY

Dear Miss Grey: I am a widow in love with a man 14 years younger than myself. He loves me and wants to marry me.

He has nothing, I have a little money and some property and two little boys. Shall I marry him and start him in business? He drinks, but says he will do the right thing by me and the children. Do you think he will get tired of me? Just think, he is 34 and I am 48 years old. I could be his mother; but I love—yes, I love him better than my own life. Please tell me what to do. A WIDOW.

A.—A woman of your age should know better than to put faith in the promises of a drinking man. If he does not love you well enough to stop drinking before marriage, he won't after.

Don't give him a cent. It is your duty to keep what you have to support your children, and don't marry him until he has not touched a drop of liquor for a year at least.

GIRLS WHO HAVE CHAPERONES

Dear Miss Grey: Tell your daughter the real truth of life and let them use their own good judgment as to who they want for company. Allow them a certain amount of spending money so that they will not be forced to accept attentions from any old sport who happens along, so they may go to amusements without waiting for some guy's offer to go to the show.

I tell you, Miss Grey, I had five years' experience with showing girls a good time before I met a girl who gained my respect and my love, and she did not get it by being easy.

My experience is that girls who had chaperones were the easy marks as soon as they were out of sight, and they will get away sooner or later.

The best truth I can tell mothers is to tell their daughters the actual truth of life. EXPERIENCE.

IT'S THE GIRL'S FAULT

Dear Miss Grey: Why all this talk about the mean wretch of a man in sheep's clothing, etc., etc.?

Poor girls! They know nothing at all. Pile all the blame on mere men. I would like to bet my last penny that ninety-ninths of the girls that go wrong do so of their own accord. Have been among lots of them, and I know. T. E. S.

PANTAGES—Miss Bess Laugenour, swimmer, headlining a bill of vaudeville afternoon and evening.

"Bought and Paid For" seems like something you own, and if someone tries to take it away there will be a fight," is one of the many extracts from the dramatic writers' criticisms of the sensational comedy drama which William A. Brady, Ltd., will present at the Tacoma theater tonight and tomorrow night. The play is in four acts with the scenes laid in the upper part of New York city.

NOT TOUCHY ON THEIR AGES ANY LONGER

Women have ceased to be touchy about their ages, as is proven by the registration books at the city hall.

"When they first began registering last year about half of them who came in gave their ages as '21-'; but this year only an occasional one tried to shield her age," said Mrs. Kendall, one of the city registrars.

The Times man picked up a registration book at random and happened to get the third precinct, Eighth ward. Just one woman of the hundred or more registered in the precinct gave her age as 21-; it was Mrs. Carrie Shaw Rice, teacher in Washington school. In a half hour's search the only other "plus 21" woman found was Ada B. Hillman, Y. W. C. A. secretary.

The registration books are real interesting reading. They beat a dictionary all hollow. They contain the pedigrees of all the citizens' vocations and ages, and the autographs are in themselves a study.

One striking thing is the list of vocations. The reporter turned to a random page and it bore 17 registered voters. There were two housewives and the rest of the vocations were all different. They ran from laborers to bankers.

Registration clerks have witnessed a lot of human nature in recording the nearly 28,000 names of Tacomans.

One thing that struck Mrs. Kendall was the utter selfishness of women. Four out of five of the 11th-hour registration were women. They came in at night won't you just wait until I get registered?" she said.

And the poor washerwoman waited.

"What is your vocation?" asked the registration clerk as he took down the name and age of the woman in "an awful hurry."

"Why nothing," she said scornfully as she gave the clerk a withering look for his audacity in supposing she ever did anything.

Makes Face Young—Tightens Love Ties

A fretful expression, a wrinkled face and an ounce of powdered soap to drive the male members from home than is commonly supposed. It was one of my greatest difficulties to appear smiling, fresh and elegant when my dear ones were with me. But I have overcome all that. I have changed my mental attitude and I now find it second nature to look cheerful. Due partly to this, partly to a remarkable treatment recommended by a friend, my appearance has so improved I look fifteen years younger than before.

A simple face lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered soap in a half-pint witch hazel, proved a wonderful wrinkle-chaser. I still use this occasionally. To renovate my complexion I purchased an ounce of ordinary mercerized wax at my druggist's and before using this up, a marvelous transformation had taken place. It was like removing an unsightly mask, revealing a new face, a youthful complexion of distinctive delicacy, clear, white and velvety. I merely applied the wax like cold cream before retiring, washing it off mornings. Ten days' treatment sufficed.
