TIGERS OUT OF CELLAR

NORTHWESTERN LEAGUE

Table with 3 columns: Team, Won, Lost, Pct. Includes teams like Vancouver, Seattle, Spokane, Tacoma, Portland, Victoria.

Where They Play Today. Portland at Tacoma. Seattle at Spokane. Vancouver at Victoria.

Tacoma fans who have been waiting with more or less impatience to see if Jimmy Concannon was going to live up to the form displayed in training season were gratified yesterday, for Jimmy was pretty nearly the whole show out at the ball park.

The Bengal southpaw had aid and abetment, of course. His support—to use a hackneyed term—might be described as gilded. And Mr. Clyde Keller and Pinky Grindle, who secured four of the five hits off Mays, who pitched some himself, were prominent factors in the victory.

The Tigers started the pyrotechnics in the fourth when Stadille was given a free ticket to the first station. Attempting the hit-and-run play Keller shoved a bingle past Nick Williams, and Stadille made for the third angle. Fries hurled the globule at Guigni who carelessly let it bound merrily past him, Stadille counting.

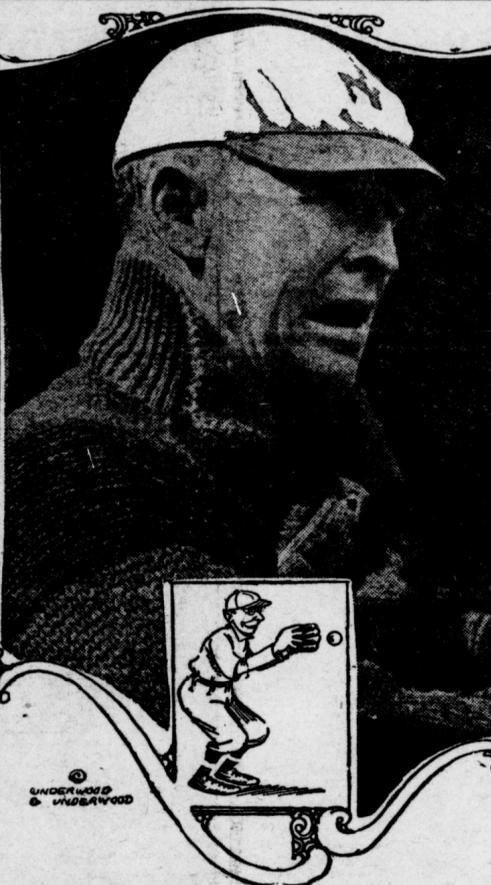

In the sixth Concannon arrived at first through the courtesy of Mr. Guigni, and later came home on a swat by Mr. Keller, who was right on deck again.

In the lucky seventh Nordyke drew a pass. Kenedy popped out but Ruell made his first hit of the week, a single to right. McMullin was the burn offering and the runners moved up a peg. Grindle thumped one over Guigni's dome and Lou came in. Foot also "footed" it for the platter, but Murray missed him coming in.

Two runs. Mays was derricked in the seventh to let Speas bat. Bill did not get anything to fatten his average, however. "Toots" Agnew, who would not pitch for Tacoma last year, worked the eighth for the Colts.

Yesterday's game was the third consecutive win for the Tigers this week.

Chance Bawling 'Em Out

Men who know Frank Chance, the American league's $25,000 manager, who was press-agently dubbed the "Peerless Leader" by C. W. Murphy before their historic break last winter, can perhaps imagine what Chance is shouting at some Highlander, in this picture. Chance does not believe in handling his players with velvet gloves. He rules them with an iron hand, and during the game he doesn't hesitate to use language that rasps. It is not difficult to imagine Chance raising the skin of some player in this instance.

Joe Bonds claims he's the guy that put pitch in pitching. He doesn't say pitching what.

Loony Lines

Still they come pouring in till ye editor's head is almost gray worrying which is the best one. Don't despair if you have not yet written one—there is lots of time yet. Set your brain to work and evolve a scintillating gem and we'll gladly publish it.

Enter today the "Brains Dept." of the county treasurer's office with the following effusion:

You might kid Kurfess but you can't Concannon.

(What's this, Evangeline—an echo of the battle of Bull Durham?)

R. H. Brown, 205 Tacoma building, sent in a long list that lack of space prevents us from printing complete, but here are a few:

When the team gets on the road, can a line drive? (Get away from that horse's head—quick.)

If the laundry girls all go out, with Pearl Casey strike two? (He'd better not—the nasty, horrid thing.)

When a fanette wanders on the field will a twobagger? (Unhand her villyun or I will kill you like a dawg.)

If Mike Lynch gets hold of a lady bug, will his double squeeze? (Break away there—break away.)

If a lady tries to umpire the game will any breast protector? (I should worry.)

If Bert Hall buries his knife will his fork ball? (Oh, boo hoo! This is pathetic enough to bring tears to the eyes of an onion.)

We'll now turn to the contribution of J. Ernest Murphy, 3133 North Ferdinand, who says it sprung from the diseased and disordered imagination of a rabid fan:

If Bennett could sand a Frisk, could Kippert Helster? (That imagination is certainly guilty of everything ascribed to it and then some.)

A. M. Jackson, 1212 Sixth avenue, has sent in some stuff that is evidently loony lines, but it must be too loony for even the loony editor for he can't get it. Mr. Jackson will kindly furnish an illustrated chart, a copy of the dictionary and a can-opener, and maybe we will make some headway with it. Until such a time we are up a tree.

MAY STAGE SMOKERS

Although the coming smoker of the Eagles' Athletic club, May 8, will be the last one of the season, Tacoma boxing fans may not be deprived of fistic sport, if the plans of Tacoma chauffeurs are carried out.

The auto drivers are organizing for the purpose of instituting a series of four round bouts, which will probably be held in Moose hall. If present plans do not fall through, they will stage a smoker between the 20th and 29th of May.

Young Phillips, well known in local boxing circles, is now pilot of a taxi, and will act as the matchmaker for the club. The chauffeurs will try to get Danille O'Brien of Portland, and Frenchy Vaise, the Seattle whirlwind, for the headliner of the first smoker. From the way people have turned out to bouts held this spring the chauffeurs believe that the innovation would be profitable if made permanent, and will endeavor to establish high class boxing on a firm basis here.

DO YOU KNOW

That Spokane has eleven players on her team culled from the ranks of San Francisco Seals?

That Outfielder Weed of Victoria was formerly a second baseman with Spokane? (This was ten or more years ago.)

That the last pennant won by the Tigers was in 1906, and that only three pitchers were on the staff, Ike Butler, Southpaw Flaney (later succeeded by Tommy Doyle) and Erv Higinbotham, now the Portland Beavers?

That Daniel Shea, at present receiving for the Bees, was the catcher of the three hursters mentioned?

That Hunky Shaw, holding down third for Seattle now, was a bright light in that position for the Bengals and used to turn handsprings for the delectation of the fans?

That the other three teams in the league then were Butte, Spokane and Grays Harbor, the latter being managed by Bob Brown, now leader of Vancouver?

That Jack Clynes, one of the gardeners for the Tigers, is at present playing in one of the Canadian twilight leagues?

SOME SLUGGING

VICTORIA, B. C., May 1.—Bert Hall was hammered hard and oft in yesterday's struggle betwixt the busy Bees and the Beavers, but Kiddo Wilson was hit still harder and the latter won by a score of 11 to 4. Lynch, Kippert, and Walsh pounded out homers.

R H E Vancouver 11 15 0 Victoria 4 13 0 Batteries: Hall and Lewis; Wilson and Meek.
