COLD-BLOODED

A borrower once made the following cold-blooded remark to his accommodating neighbor: "It's 'gainst my interest to pay you the principal, and 'gainst my principle to pay you the interest." Many money lenders recall similar expressions. Such will not be your experience when you open a savings account with the Bankers' Trust Company of Tacoma and deposit your money.

Ach, Louie! Could those smashing, crashing, sphere-shattering, bat-breaking, fence-wrecking athletes of yesterday be our own Bengals? 'Tis indeed true. In two games the Tigers cracked over 27 safe swats, even though they won but one game. Oh, yes, it could have been worse.

C. Cecil Neighbors was the real hero of the afternoon. He gathered three hits, one of which was a homer that sailed clear over the right field barricade, thus breaking all records and making it the first time in history that two balls have been knocked out of the Tiger lot in one day. Charlie Swain, it will be remembered, clouted the other one over the left palisade in the morning affair. It was some wallop of Cy's. It went over the fence near the beer sign.

Other Tigers who played stellar roles in the 7 to 4 comedy were Sport Harris, W. Harris and McMullin. Mac and Sport garnered three bingles, one of Mac's being a triple, while Backstop Harris pounded out two three bases.

Altogether, five triples were knocked in the afternoon session. W. Harris made two, McMullin one, Holderman one and Delmas one.

To describe the game in detail is needless. Suffice it to say, Mr. Narveson, who twirled for Victoria, had a perfectly lovely time—not.

Big Meek was sent in with two down in the ninth to act as a pinch hitter. Harry looked one over, then wearily walloped to the fence in left center, and made two bases by exerting himself.

It was the first double-header of the season on the local grounds.

The homer hit over the left field fence by Swain was the first ever hit and Neighbors' drive over the right field wall is the first one in a regular league game since 1911, when Bill Fisher and Coleman drove the ball over.

smi-pro player from Chicago, who plays the outfield, has been signed by McGinnity and will be given a trial. He has a sad habit of pulling away from the plate, as he showed when batting in a pinch yesterday.

Everything is coming along nicely for Mike Lynch day.

McGinnity has a big bunch of bench warmers. Burrell, Kennedy, Reynolds and McMurdo are all being carried.

GOUX WINS THE GOOD OLD DAYS BIG RACE

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31.—Jules Goux of France, driving the Peugeot, a French car, won the 500 mile automobile race at Indianapolis Speedway yesterday in 6:31:33.45, an average speed of 76.59 miles an hour. He claims he could have made faster time, but that his manager held him back. Goux is a well known French driver.

The biggest thrill given the crowd was when Charles Marz, who finished third in a Stutz, drove the last lap of the race with his car on fire.

Bob Burman, the favorite, met with hard luck and was not in the race after the 55th lap.

Chirps & Chatter

Some one has arisen to observe that Jess Willard has a punch. So has a street car conductor.

Some conductors would make good pugilists, by the Schlotz. They can punch transfers and knock down nickels, so—

BOALT IS REMINDED OF THE TIME WHEN HE AND JIMMY BRITT CRUMMED IN LONDON.

By Fred L. Boalt. Jimmy Britt's in town. Great lad—Jimmy. And mebbe you think I wasn't glad to see him again.

I got to know Jimmy in London. We chummed together several years over there and got homesick together, while we drank warm ale and pined for ice-cold lager. There never was an American fighter or anything else—that made a bigger hit with the English public, and especially the English sporting public, than Jimmy did.

Jimmy was popular in London for a variety of reasons, one of which was that he fought his last fight in London—and got licked—by an English boxer, Johnny Sommers. The English are hard losers, but fine winners.

I saw the battle. It took place in the open air down in West Ham, in the great, workaday East End. The crowd was enormous. Britt and Sommers had fought twice before, if I remember, and each had a decision in his favor.

Poor Jimmy went down in the seventh and couldn't get up before the fatal ten was counted. And I'll never forget the great Cockney wave that swept over the barriers and up over the ring, carrying the grinning, triumphant Johnny on its crest, and leaving poor Jimmy lying limp and dazed on the boards.

It was that battle that convinced Jimmy that his fighting days were over. The "silk" was gone. Afterwards he told me: "If the rests between rounds were five minutes long, instead of one minute, I'd be as good as I ever was."

Jimmy went into partnership with Hugh McIntosh, the Australian promoter, who had come to London to compete with the ancient National Sporting club.

He went in for international contests—English against French and American fighters. Jimmy, immaculate and natty in evening clothes and white vest, did the announcing.

McIntosh stared pretty much in the background, while Jimmy took care of the social end. It was the popular Jimmy who persuaded many of the nobility, women among them, to honor McIntosh's fight nights with their presence.

You ought to have seen Jimmy hobnobbing with his lordship and her ladyship, and his grace and her grace, and all the honouables this and that in the boxes in the big arena at Olympia.

And the crowds—how they cheered when Jimmy entered the ring as master of ceremonies! It was mighty strange, for, when all's said and done, there is a lot of racial feeling against Americans running, as far as golf is concerned. We should worry and get a bunyon on our big toe.
