SOCIETY

Mrs. Nellie Filling entertained at her home Wednesday evening with a little dance party for a group of friends. The rooms were tastefully decorated in green, with testout roses. Mrs. Filling presided over the punch bowl, and after the dance a light luncheon was served. During the evening Walter Spencer gave a number of violin selections.

Mrs. Nathan Friedman entertained informally Wednesday afternoon at a luncheon given at her home, 616 North 17th street. Covers were laid for twenty. The rooms were artistically decorated in green and white and the afternoon was pleasantly spent with cards, games and music.

Ladies of the First Christian church will hold a home cooking sale Saturday in the Singer Sewing Machine rooms, 915 South C street. There will be a large assortment of delicacies and the sale will continue all day.

Accompanied by a group of local musicians, including Clarence Lind, Henry Schroeder and Mrs. J. Austin Wolbert, Jason Moore, will visit McNeill's island federal prison tomorrow morning and entertain the convicts with a program of songs.

Mrs. John Q. Mason has as house guests this week Mrs. James M. Mason and daughter Alice, of McCormick, Wash.

As a farewell to Miss Leslie Davis, Miss Fanary Russell entertained in delightful manner Wednesday afternoon with a tea for several intimate friends. Among the other guests of honor were Miss Hulda Fear and Miss Edith Thompson.

Mrs. W. H. Udall entertained for the executive committee of the Woman's club yesterday with a picnic and luncheon at her Manzanita summer home.

Richard C. Herick of Indianapolis, who is passing through Tacoma, was a special guest last night at an informal reception held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hunt on North 28th st.

Miss Agnes Berry, the popular and gifted young prima donna of Tacoma, left today for New York, where she will prepare for her debut on Broadway this winter. She has signed a contract with one of the leading theatrical syndicates in the country and will blossom forth as leading woman in one of the next season's foremost musical comedies.

Miss Ethel Sprague gave a pretty but simple little shower Wednesday afternoon in honor of Miss Marion Malbon, whose marriage to William Ghourill is announced for the latter part of July. The shower was given at the home of Mrs. M. Torgerson on Melrose avenue.

Cynthia Grey's Answers

I learnt she loved another. Dear Miss Grey: I married a little girl 20 months ago, and in a short time I learnt she loved another man, and not me. So I left home and came out here. It almost broke my heart to leave her, but I knew she did not love me and we could not live happily together. Please tell me what to do to gain her love? I have written several times, but she won't answer. It has been eight months since I left. I am afraid we married too young. She was 18 and I was 20. Please don't throw my letter in the waste basket. M. R.

You were young to marry, but if both had been sensible it might not have been so bad. I wonder if you just packed up and came away without letting her know, or even if you did, do you think it quite fair to have left her to wonder who was to blame? She may simply have found marriage very different from what she thought, and being young fancied she loved the first man who showed a little sympathy for her. That is often the case with the very young, who are not experienced enough to know that the man who will sympathize with a wife against her husband by that very act shows he would not make a good husband himself—and, more—he does not hold even respect for women who will confide in her home troubles to him. Why did you leave her to face this temptation alone? Was it manly, or childish? No wonder she does not write you.

The best kind of marriages result, not from emotional love, but companionship. It is a more solid foundation, and from it a deeper and better love develops. Are both of you willing to try again on this foundation, and honestly do your best? I cannot tell you what to do; but this I can say, I wish you would send her my reply to you, and remember in the future that it is always safe to sleep a night at least before deciding any question, with the exception of putting out a house afire.

Superstition and Signs. Dear Miss Grey: What is the sign of two crowns on a baby's head? I have been told so many different things. Please answer in your paper as I will await your reply. A MOTHER.

A—I just wonder what decision depends on my reply—the reply of another human being who can no more than another tell you what will happen to your baby. I presume you have heard both good and bad things that may befall the innocent, loving, crowing babe, just because it happens to have two little swirls of hair on its head. I am glad I have never heard anything bad that comes from two crowns. The only sign I have ever heard is that the child will see two kingdoms—that is, travel in two different countries, but, honestly, I don't believe a bit in such a thing. Just to show you how little you can depend on "signs," in our country to find a pin with the point toward you is good luck; in one of the foreign countries to discover a pin with the head toward you means the same thing, the head signifying a lump of luck.

A Man's Calling. Dear Miss Grey: What vocation do you think best for young men? Which is better, civil service, or automobile running? Thanking you. TOM.

A.—Vocation means "a call," or "a calling," and I believe that a man does best at the occupation to which he has the loudest call. There is always some one thing one really likes to do—that is the
