

The Next Novel a Week in the Times

Is a story of love and intrigue that holds the reader in suspense to the very last word. Every element of interest possible in a novel appears in Phillip Oppenheim's story.

"Jeanne of the Marshes"

The scene of the story is laid, principally, in an English country house, which has a subterranean passage and secret doors that open unexpectedly out of paneled walls. These give to the story a romantic turn not often found in fiction.

Starts on Monday Ends on Saturday

MORE METALLIZATION.

(By Feacher Wright Orr.) A little Frenchman who died in Spokane recently, who could metallize roses, is said to have died with the secret locked in his bosom.

I wish to dispute this statement.

The Frenchman may be dead, but I knew a man years ago who had the metallization process down to a fine point. He was a tall, lanky New Englander, slow in his movements, but he could certainly metallize.

I think his environment helped him a good deal. I never saw him metallize flowers, but he had a lot of fruit in his condition. Some apples he owned were like iron. It was with food, however, that he achieved his greatest success. He had pie that was absolutely petrified, doughnuts that defied all teeth and sandwiches that had to be pried apart with dynamite.

This man ran a railway lunch counter.

PERSONALS.

That pair of trousers Jimmy Slover is wearing are certainly about the giddiest raiment we have seen in many a day.

Hugo Metzler may look like a melodrama villain with his straw hat and a cigarette, but he can certainly "stimulate" environment.

Frank Greenman is thinking of quitting the practice of law for that of cartooning. An Eastern paper has offered him a princely sum, it is rumored, for his services.

Clark Donovan thinks his memory is getting better. He is continually reading his statements in the papers, and, strange to say, can remember making one of them.

George Woodbridge is so fond of writing that he was made secretary of the Rotarians.

THE REAL ISSUE.

Whether Mellen sacrificed himself for Morgan, or whether he didn't, does not worry us. All we know is somebody was skinned.

NOPE.

You can never tell what a woman will do next. The suffragette who fell on her knees before the king proves this.

OUR SHORT STORY.

(By Bread Hart.)

Jukes and Dukes snarled at each other. Mortal enemies both, they had met on the cliff edge, and a fight to the death seemed imminent.

"You robbed me of her, and so you die," snapped Dukes, reaching for his holster.

"Die yourself and see how yuh like it," retorted Jukes heatedly.

A .44 fusillade woke the echoes, and each quickly missed the other six times. Then they glared with deep hatred at each other.

"There is but one thing to do," said Dukes, "we must mediate."

So they mediated. That was 10 years ago, and they are mediating yet. (The End.)

SYMPATHY'S LETTERS.

Q.—What is good for cleaning the teeth?—Dimples.

The 7 o'clock shift did not begin work at all. JURY CLEARS DOCTOR FROM ALL BLAME

LONG BEACH, June 5.—Dr. Walter B. Hill is innocent of any wrong doing that might have led to the death of Mrs. Fred Raab, according to the opinion of the coroner's jury that returned a verdict to the effect that Mrs. Raab and her two babies came to their deaths by suicide and homicide. The contents of a note written by Mrs. Raab before she slit the throats of her two children and then committed suicide late Wednesday, were read. Girl Wife, 17 Years of Age, Seeks Divorce

Judge Card permitted a look of surprise to appear on his face this morning when Theresa Zanchetta appeared in court to press her divorce suit against Jack Zanchetta, for she seemed scarcely more than a mere child. It developed later that she is but 17, and small for her age. Her married life was very short, as she wedded Zanchetta March 29 this year. She alleged he treated her cruelly and kept her in fear of him, besides appearing to have little affection for her. Zanchetta didn't contest the case.

Camera On the Spot Catches Cop Arresting Mrs. Pankhurst On the Grounds of the King's Palace

"Tell the king I'm arrested!" When Mrs. Pankhurst, leader of the militant suffragets, made that famous remark, a few days ago, she was being carried in the arms of a burly policeman to a patrol wagon.

"Arrested in the precincts of the palace!" was her exultant cry when carted off to jail.

She had just led an assault on the gates of Buckingham palace, London—one of the most daring enterprises ever attempted by the militants.

The picture was, happily, obtained by a lucky photographer just as Mrs. Pankhurst cried out her defiance, grasped tightly by the policeman, with her feet off the ground.

STANDPATTERS TRIED TO KEEP OLE FROM SPEAKING

STEVENSON, Wash., June 5.—Cie Hanson, candidate for the progressive nomination for United States senator, spoke before a large audience here last night for over an hour, only after a spirited fight with the standpatt members of the county commissioners, who refused to turn over the court room to Hanson for the meeting. The room is open to all for political meetings.

Following the decision of the commissioners, the county auditor refused Hanson the use of the room. The officials stood pat until Ole invaded the court room yesterday afternoon, and in open court demanded equal rights. Judge Hufford listened to the appeal, and the prosecuting attorney was called into consultation. When these men were reminded that the standpatt republicans had a meeting scheduled in the court room today they consented to throw open the court room to Hanson.

Hanson made a big hit with his audience. He speaks in Vancouver, Wash., Saturday.

THEY'RE SPENDING QUARTER MILLION TO SAVE THE DEAR PEOPLE--HERE IS

The Stop-Look-Listen league is spending more than $250,000 to kill the seven initiative bills known as the "Seven Sisters."

Where is the money coming from, and why? Concealed in mystery, it is now known definitely, that Ed Sims of Port Townsend, is the directing genius behind the league.

Yes, it's the same Ed Sims who was the standpat whip and floor leader for the reactionary forces in the house last session.

And it's Ed Sims who raised the false alarm cry that it will cost a tremendous lot of money to pass the "Seven Sisters" and that it's a mighty expensive experiment to legislate directly by the votes of the people. First, the Stop-Look-Listeners said it would cost $300,000, then $500,000, then a million, and now they're shouting it will cost two millions.

WILL IT COST THE STATE A SINGLE PENNY MORE, MR. SIMS, TO PASS THOSE MEASURES THAN TO DEFEAT THEM? No, not one red cent.

And here is another point, and a more important one. Granted for the sake of argument that it will cost a lot of money to adopt the initiative measures, WHO IS TO BLAME?

YOU, MR. SIMS, ARE TO BLAME. YOU AND THE STANDPAT MACHINE WHICH SPEAKER TAYLOR AND YOU CONTROLLED IN THE LAST SESSION ARE TO BLAME.

These are not new measures which the people are to vote on and which have the endorsement of the State Federation of Labor, the Farmers' Grange, and the Direct Legislation league.

They were up in the last session of the legislature. They came to your rules committee, Mr. Sims, and what did you do?

YOU BURIED MOST OF THEM WITHOUT LETTING THE LEGISLATURE TAKE A VOTE. YOU PIGEONHOLED THEM IN COMMITTEES.

Had you given them a fair chance in the legislature, there would not have been any need for this great big expense that you pretend is bothering you. It is only a pretense, anyhow, Mr. Sims, and you Stop-Look-Listeners. You are spending more money to defeat these bills than your proportionate taxes would amount to on account of the cost of placing the initiative measures on the ballot.

The meat in the coconut is not your public spirited interest to save the taxpayers any money, because you will not save them any, no matter if the "Seven Sisters" win or lose.

YOUR CHIEF CONCERN, MR. SIMS, IS TO KILL THE FISH BILL, WHICH WILL MAKE YOU, AS HEAD OF A BIG FISH COMPANY, PAY THE SAME RATE OF TAXES THAT OTHERS PAY FOR THEIR PROPERTY. THAT'S

ROSE DISPLAY IN STORES ATTRACTIVE TO HUNDREDS

Window dressers in Tacoma's stores have somehow overlooked a bet in the past. They've just learned that roses—plain roses of most any kind and color—can be used for decorating windows in the most exquisite manner imaginable.

As an advertisement for the Rose show at the armory, all of the downtown stores used roses as their chief window display today, bordering them about the pretty displays of June fabrics, June bridal gifts and all the other pretty articles displayed in the mid-summer season.

The Stone-Flower company's windows—contain a rose bower, rustic bridge, lily pond and a beautiful maiden seated in a rose-lined chair, calmly reading a book as the crowds gaze upon her. In Rhodes Brothers' windows white and pink roses set off the displays of June fabrics in delicate fashion. The Peoples store has used roses exclusively for decorative purposes. Dege's windows show roses in every book and corner.

Gorgeous in its rich variety of dainty colors, the Tacoma armory at noon today presented one of the prettiest pictures ever seen in the Northwest.

From end to end of the big

WHERE THE COLORED GENT IN YOUR CASE IS HIDDEN, MR. SIMS.

And the employment sharks, of course, are helping you because they want to continue their graft on laboring people. Your friend, Speaker Taylor, and the other lumber barons, of the Stop-Look-Listen league want to kill off the "first aid" law. And so on down the line.

THERE'S A GREEDY, SELFISH, PRIVATE MOTIVE THAT IS FURNISHING A QUARTER OF A MILLION DOLLARS TO DEFEAT THE "SEVEN SISTERS" AND NOTHING ELSE.

JAP HAS LEPROSY

Suffering from a plain case of leprosy in its incipient stages, K. Takuda, a Japanese mill hand at the Wheeler-Osgood mill, was today taken in charge by United States immigration officers and rejected.

Takuda went to the hospital 10 days ago. He was examined and his case diagnosed as leprosy. City Detective James Milone, after the Japanese leper had tried to escape.

When Takuda learned this morning that there was danger of his being deported, he arose and started to leave the hospital. Physicians with rubber gloves and other safeguards forced him back to his bed and he was locked in his ward until a detective came to guard him.

Assistant Health Officer Joe Gorman immediately fumigated the sanitarium and all possible means were taken to prevent a spread of the disease.

13 PER CENT OF NAMES CAN BE THROWN OUT AND STILL SAVE THE RECALL

At 11 o'clock today, officials checking the recall petitions had rejected 270 signatures for technical reasons. About 1 1/2 per cent of the signatures have been rejected, but the petitions contain sufficient signatures so that 13 per cent of the names can be cast aside without materially injuring the recall.

Many of the names were set aside because of questioned signatures. In many cases a woman would sign the recall petition, using her own initials or given name, after she had registered with her husband's initials.

All of these persons can be reinstated on the recall petitions by reporting at the city clerk's office and identifying their signatures.

Among some of the names rejected on technicalities today were the following:

Mrs. Johnson, 2109 Sheridan avenue; Almira Christensen, 6402 Puget Sound avenue; John P. Kelly, 6817 South L; Earl Adams, 5905 South J; Mrs. J. S. Henderson, 6101 Tacoma avenue; Mrs. F. M. Worlds, 581 South 50th; Anna Anderson, 1623 East 31st; Amy E. Van Slyke, 3830 North 6th; E. M. Johnson, 901 North K; J. R. Chambers, 2128 North 32nd; Henry Lasfolk, 2819 North 32nd; Mrs. J. F. TO PREVENT IDLENESS

A colonel wanted a man-servant, so he inserted an advertisement in the local weekly. "What I want," explained the colonel, "is a useful man—one who can cook, drive a motor, look after a pair of horses, clean boots and windows, feed poultry, milk the cow, and do a little painting and paper-hanging."

"Excuse me, sir," said Murphy, "but what kind of soil have ye here?" "Soil?" snapped the colonel. "What's that got to do with it?" "Well, I thought if it was clay, I might make bricks in me spare time."—Everybody's.
