CARNIVAL OVER--TIGERS LEAVE FOR OTHER PASTURES

We Lose Last Game of Week

Well, the Carnival of Baseball is over. And we lost yesterday's game to Victoria, 4 to 2. And we also dropped a whitewash game to Ballard Saturday afternoon, 5 to 0.

But we clambered up out of the cellar during our winning streak. We put Ballard way down in the second basement, with Victoria alongside. And we are up in the 400 class ready to tackle the league leaders for a few sensational games.

Saturday's and Sunday's defeat for the Tigers proves that the home boys are up against it when they have to face a clever pitcher for the opposing team. Tiny Leonard, who whipped us Wednesday, kept the Tiger team in the palm of his hand during the Saturday contest. Bobby Steele had the Bengals on the run during every inning yesterday, and they only tallied four hits from him in 32 times at bat.

Dick Kaufman was not at his best yesterday, and that explains the 10 hits that those Victoria boys scored up. The Tigers played loosely in the infield, and lost at least one run by ivory-skull work on the bases. They had a chance to score in the first inning when Bender slammed out a hit that was easily good for three bases. Johnny stopped running between second and third, however, looked around to see where the ball was, and graciously tagged out by Lamb three yards off third base. McMullin's single the next moment would have scored Bender.

Victoria made its first two runs in the fifth. Tacoma tied the score in the seventh when Bender knocked a homer, bringing in Johnson ahead of him. But the Bees continued their hitting in the eighth and ninth, bringing in a new run each inning.

Tacoma goes to Vancouver today for a week's play. On Friday and Saturday the games are transferred to Mount Vernon, where a country fair is being held. Vancouver comes to Tacoma next Sunday and then we go to Spokane for another week. Victoria comes to Tacoma for a week's series August 17.

M'LOUGHLIN PLAYING BEST TENNIS WORLD HAS EVER SEEN UNITED STATES STAGES WORLD'S TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS FIVE NATIONS REPRESENTED IN GREAT TENNIS MATCHES

M'Loughlin
BY HUGH S. FULLERTON
The Davis cup struggle is on, with the preliminary matches which will eliminate some of the greatest players in the world, affording almost as much interest and quite as much good tennis playing as the finals for the championship will do. America faces the hardest task of the history of the game to retain possession of the treasured trophy. Five nations are represented by the pick of their tennis players: America, England, Austria, France, Canada and Belgium being determined to take the cup away.

Never before has so formidable an array of tennis stars descended upon defenders. But never before has the United States been so strongly represented in any tennis event. Reports from Westchester are that Maurice McLoughlin is playing the best tennis he ever has shown, which means the best the world ever has seen.

It is unfortunate that Lindley Murray, the brilliant Californian, has been affected by the weather and not shown his best form. Tom Bate, McLoughlin's old team mate, is steady, and Norris Williams is going great guns. Bundy was not expected to enter the Davis cup competition, and his decision to do so was a big surprise and pleasure. He and the California Comet, McLoughlin, must form the backbone of the defense.

The Australians, of course, are the most feared of all the comers. Anthony Wilding, leader of the Antipodeans, is world's champion, and Norman Brookes, leader of the team, is a marvel. Doubt, in the singles, is compared in brilliancy to the seventeen-year-old Murray. The Americans have had a hard time selecting the team, because the committee had to consider so much brilliant material that was offered in defense of the trophy.

MANY GUESS ON MYSTERIOUS PITCHER FRANK R. LESLIE GETS $10.00 PRIZE CLYDE CRISWELL WAS "MR. MYSTERY"
The "Mysterious Pitcher," who appeared at Athletic park several days this week with a mask covering his face, is a mystery no longer. "Mr. Mystery" was Clyde J. Criswell, baseball operator at the park for the Western Union Telegraph company, and a former professional player in the Middle West.

Frank R. Leslie, 936 Commerce street, one of the most regular fans in Tacoma, gets the $10 prize. Frank's answer was sent in on the second day after the Mysterious Pitcher appeared in uniform. John R. Wiese, 806 Yakima avenue, a waiter at Helm's cafe, was the only guesser near the answer. But he didn't give Criswell's name, merely saying that he believed "Mr. Mystery" was the telegraph operator in the press stand.

Some of the answers follow:
"Gentlemen—The Mysterious is Mr. Chris Harris of the Times or the telegraph operator at the press stand. John R. Wiese."

Photoplayers out west have organized a baseball league of their own. The plan has proved exceptionally popular. It not only gives the players exercise and recreation, but it gives the public an excellent opportunity to see their favorites at the bat and in the field.
In this bunch of ball players, which is one of the Universal Film company's teams at Hollywood, Cal., you'll see Eddie Lyons and Ford Sterling, the famous comedians of the "independent movie" world; Herbert Rawlinson, who is one of the Universal stars.
His recent impersonation of Harvey Birch in "The Spy" will be remembered. And then at the end of the line stands Victoria Forde, the Universal ingenue who is noted for the daring parts she plays in western pictures.

AUTO BUILDING FOR THE BOYS Steering Gear and Axles.

On Saturday's sport page of the Times E. H. Pendleton told how to make the springs and frame of a baby auto racing machine. Several lively Tacoma lads have already started to make their machines for the September races at the Speedway. Today's letter to the boys tells how the steering gear, spring clips and axles are made.

BY E. H. PENDLETON.
My Dear Boys:
The last letter I devoted to the making of the springs and the frame, and by following the drawings you can make a frame that will answer for any kind of a car you desire. Now in plate two we have the steering gear and wheel, the spring clips, front and back axles, and the knuckles. The front axle can be cast from a wood model or you can have a blacksmith forge one for you, and the knuckles can be made from inch and three-eighth steel with the arms brazed in.

When you are ready to set the steering gear, which will not be until after you are ready with the engine and dash mounted, you want to have the wood spool directly over the tie rod that connects your two front wheels, run a steel flexible cable from the right steering arm to the spool and take six turns around the spool. Then fasten the cable to a small turn-buckle on one end and the other end of the turn-buckle to the other steering arm. By this method you will be able to take up any play that may develop in your wheel.

Be sure to fasten the cable in the middle to the hook-bolt for if you do not your cable will slip on the spool and cause you not only trouble but maybe serious damage.
When you are building your car and come to something that you do not understand you can come to the Olympus hotel any evening and ask for Homer Loudenclos and he will put you right. Homer is one of the boys from Los Angeles who is here to help you all he can and is willing and ready to do so if you will but ask him.
Be sure to leave enough stock on the end of the steering rod that sticks out of the spool to fasten to the front cross member of the frame. You want to be very careful to get all the steering bearings solid because it is on these things that your life depends when going at a high rate of speed. For your first car have your wheels—that is, the hubs—filled with rabbit metal and bored out to fit the axles. Then you can put a washer and nut on the end of the axle to hold the wheels on.

This method, while it makes the car a little slower and the friction greater, still the cost is much less than cones and balls. You can make them out of your winnings later.
