Adventures of Johnny Mouse

OUTBURSTS OF EVERETT TRUE

"Yes, I was once with a circus. They had me, a sheep and a lion in a cage together, and had us labeled 'The Happy Family.'" "I don't see how you three could be in one cage and be happy." "Well, but we were. The lion had no teeth and I didn't care for mutton."

"Ponto, the Pup"

A GENTLE PROTEST A very mild North of England vicar had for some time been displeased with the quality of milk served him. At length he determined to remonstrate with his milk man for supplying such weak stuff. He began mildly: "I've been waiting to see you in regard to the quality of milk with which you are serving me." "Yes, sir," unhesitatingly answered the tradesman. "I only wanted to say," continued the minister, "that I use the milk for dietary purposes exclusively, and not for christening."

An Insult to Voters

"The Argus has no especial fault to find with Ole Hanson. As a rule this paper believes in getting every possible office for Seattle and King county. But there are exceptions to every rule. Ole Hanson is a progressive."

The above is an exact quotation from the Seattle Argus.

And the Argus epitomizes all the "opposition" against Hanson. There's no fault to find with Ole. He's honest, capable, and with a heart that beats for humanity. But—HE'S PROGRESSIVE. Therefore, say the Argus and all other standpat organs, don't vote for Ole. Isn't that a beautiful argument? How does it strike you, Mr. Independent Voter?

Forget the fact that Wesley LORIMER Jones defied crooked politicians—crooked senators and a crooked judge—forget that.

Forget that LORIMER Jones has not one single humane measure to his credit.

Forget that Jones voted for "Standard Oil" Judge Archbold, to save him from impeachment.

Forget that Jones voted against allowing the post-office employes to organize.

Forget that he sidestepped and trimmed on woman suffrage until after that amendment received an overwhelming vote in this state.

Forget all that, and remember that Jones is a republican. Because he's a republican, you should vote for Jones, say the standpat organs.

Isn't that a nice argument to present to intelligent voters?

The Times advocates the election of Ole Hanson because he is a man that can be trusted; because he has human impulses; because he is honest.

Party politics is immaterial. Hanson would be just as good a man in any other party, and Jones would be just as abominable if he had joined the progressive party.

The Times is for Ole Hanson because he is the kind of a man who is good enough to support, no matter what part of the state he should happen to live in.

The city commission is retarding a lot of repair and improvement work in the light and water departments because it doesn't want Drake to appoint a certain engineer. Drake says the man is the best one he can find in Tacoma. But the commission doesn't like him. Therefore, the light and water plants can fall to pieces, for all the commission cares, before that man will get the job. Childish, isn't it?

Well, the budget is pruned. The recall is quashed. City affairs are running smoothly. About time for another big fight at the city hall, isn't it?

Ole Hanson challenged Wesley L. Jones to tour the state in joint debate. The silence of Jones is typical of most of the standpat republicans. They know that there are many things better left unsaid.

Strange that the trial of Chief Loomis for insulting a citizen was dropped yesterday because the prosecuting witness was a few minutes late. If it had been you or some "ordinary man," it's safe to bet that the case would have been continued until the complainant had been brought forth.

Commissioner Mills wants lights on D street. "Any kind of lights—red, white or blue," he says. What's the use of changing the color? He established red lights there when he first took the public safety job.

Florida receives more than $1,000,000 a year from the trade in alligators.

"Is George wealthy?" "He must be! He and Mabel have been engaged two whole weeks and he still has money left in the bank!"

BEGGING OFF "Can you direct me to the best hotel in this town?" asked the stranger who, after sadly watching the train depart, had set his satchel upon the station platform. "I can," replied the man who was waiting for a train going the other way, "but I hate to do it."

"Why?" "Because you will think after you've seen it that I'm a liar."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Maud—Do you get bored where you are rooming? Grace—Oh, horribly bored. There isn't a man in the place.

NO REST FOR THE WEARY We do wish people would let us alone. Every time we go to sleep on the road some gilly comes along and toots his automobile horn to wake us.—Washington, Ohio, Record.

HEARD ON THE BUSTINGS "Far be it from me," "It behooves us," "It is hardly necessary to say," "One word more and I have done," "It falls to my lot," "I cannot find words to," "In the last analysis," "Be that as it may," "I shall not detain you longer," "It becomes my painful duty," "I point with pride."—Columbia State.

He—How is it that you are always so vivacious and light hearted? She—That's because I'm a "sad spinster." And why are you always so grave and solemn? He—Me? Oh, I'm a "gay bachelor."
