Send Insane Woman Back

Mrs. Hulda Fault, insane woman who was being treated at Brother Arthur Jordan's Home of Peace, will go back to the asylum for treatment. The legal papers were received yesterday. But she should not worry, says Brother Jordan. He and his flock will still pray for her recovery, and the driving out of the demons. If the asylum folks will let him, he plans to send her anointed handkerchiefs also. He says they're a dead-shot cure for insanity. Neighbors want Brother Arthur and his place at 3637 East A. street shut up as a noisy nuisance.

CYNTHIA GREY'S LETTERS

Q.—Are Niagara and Victoria the highest waterfalls in the world? C. V.
 A.—By no means. The height of Niagara is 164 feet, Victoria 400 feet, Grand in Labrador 2,000 feet, Sutherland in New Zealand 1,940 feet.

Q.—I am going to have a party. Would it be impolite not to invite a boy who is in our set and who used to go with me? We have quarreled and do not speak, but he now goes with a girl who is coming to my party. GENE.
 A.—And so you have an excellent chance to be courteous. Invite the boy and show that you are above petty enmity. The world needs more of the spirit of forgiving in small things as well as in great.

Q.—Several men and women entered into a warm discussion the other evening as to which sex is more honest, the male or female. We would like to add your opinion to the rest as you must know considerable of the question on both sides. THE BUNCH.

A.—Your argument is the same as all others of its nature. Much might be said pro and con on either side. I have known of respectable men who deceived women, even their own wives, and found no lack of morality in themselves, but would condemn their wives as outcasts for the same offenses; and they were considered men of the highest business integrity among their fellows. And women sometimes form the habit of fibbing about little things and of practicing small deceptions which a man would scorn. The ideals concerning truthfulness are probably much higher than the general practice. Neither sex has ever been able to obtain a copyright on honesty.

Q.—Could I make a photo play out of a story which I have read? The plot would make a nice movie story. YOUNG WRITER.

A.—You could not do so if the story is copyrighted, except with the permission of the publishers or the author.
 Q.—Can you help me? I am a boy of 17, and have used tobacco since I was 11. The habit sticks. I cannot break away from it. I have broken so many pledges and resolutions that I cannot make any more. I know I cannot keep them. Now, Miss Grey, I am not a bad boy in any way, and I have no other bad habits. Please suggest some way that I can cure myself of this habit. A BOY.

A.—You need more confidence in your will power, my lad. "Can't" never did anything. You CAN do what others have done if you are willing to make the effort.

You ought to have the companionship and guardianship of a temperate young man about 25 years old, who could supervise and encourage you in a friendly way. Probably membership in the boy scouts would be most helpful.

Taking these opportunities, you might put yourself under a doctor's care. Some physicians prescribe certain medicines for persons whose nervous systems are disturbed by the sudden disuse of tobacco.

Never give up. Try one thing, and another, most of all your will power, until you win out. Victory over this small thing may mean victory over many great things in your life.

Q.—When an engagement is broken, regardless of which party broke it, is it customary for the girl to return the engagement ring? A. M.

A.—It is customary for a girl to offer the ring back after an engagement has been broken.

Q.—We have been renting furnished rooms all winter, and now that we are going to move, the landlady wants us to pay her for the wear on the rug. We did not damage the rug in any way, other than the natural wear that comes from every-day usage. Is it customary for the renter to pay this? Thank you. RENTER.

A.—Renters of furnished places do not have to pay for the general wear of the furniture, unless it receives extraordinary hard usage at their hands. Owners are supposed to charge enough rent to cover this expense.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 13.—Sec. Lane announced today that serious effort will be directed toward building up a large reindeer meat industry in Alaska.

"I wanted to talk to you alone," said Mollie. She had come over to my home after she had ascertained that Aunt Mary was absent on one of her numerous charitable excursions. "I wanted to ask you, dear Margie, if you think I am right in not running away."

"Now, Mollie, you know you don't want to ask me that question. You want to ask me to tell you you are right. If it will do you any good I will say that I am sure if I were in your place I would not budge."

"There!" exclaimed Mollie. "That is just what I told Pat and Mr. Hatton."

"Oh," I remarked softly, "you have been talking it over with Pat and Mr. Hatton?"

"Well, you see they both are awfully cut up because I have been brought into this political mess."

"Mr. Hatton is especially worried because he seems to feel that he is to blame for it. He said with that sad air of his: 'I am afraid, Miss Mollie, that I cannot give myself the pleasure of lunching with you and Pat after this.'"

"Now look here, Chad," said Pat, "none of that. If you think Mollie and I are going to let these insinuations break up our little noontime lunches you are mightily mistaken. After Miss Waverly gets back everything is going on just as before."

"What are you talking about, Pat?" I asked in surprise.

"Why, your brother Dick and I concluded it would not be quite the thing for you to be in town while we thrashed that d— (excuse me) cad."

"So you have fixed it all up between you," I said.

"Well, let me tell you I am going to stay right here."

"But, Miss Mollie," expostulated Mr. Hatton, "if you want to discharge me I shall have to leave the paper, but not one of you—not even Dick—can send me out of town."

"The men looked at each other in consternation, and then Mr. Hatton said: 'I am afraid if you don't go I will have to do so.'"

"Yes, why?" asked Pat all at once. "Chad, Mollie in her innocence and purity of mind is right. Why should anyone of us change our mode of living? Right must triumph in the end. We all know that your 'morality and ethics,' old man, are much above reproach and anyone that insinuates your presence is not an honor to anyone must answer to me."

"That's all right, Pat. I, of course, know how you feel about it, but before I come again Miss Mollie must be told." He stopped, turned white and dropped to the floor.

"We, Pat and I, worked over him quite a while before he came to, and Pat was all the while swearing to himself. As soon as he was able we sent him home, and Pat said 'Mother Nora' would fix him all right."

"After he had gone I turned to Pat and said: 'What is it? Tell me what is at the bottom of all this?'"

"I thought you knew Chad's story," said Pat. "If you don't I can only tell you, Mollie, that dear old Chadwick is the very best man in all the world and the saddest. When he gets well he must tell you the rest."

"Now, Margie, what do you think of it all?"

"I am sure I don't know. Is it decided that you keep your position on the paper?"

"Nothing is decided, but I am going to keep on until someone tells me to quit."

"I'll ask Dick if he knows anything about it."

"Don't you do it. Between Dick and mother I am about crazy."

"I'll Take Orders from Man, But Not From a Woman"

WHILE DEMANDING EQUAL OPPORTUNITIES WITH MEN WOMEN YET WEIGH THE SHACKLES OF SEX IN THE SCALES OF EFFICIENCY.

By Cynthia Grey.
 I have often wondered why everything which is written about girls in the working world turns out to be a SEX question rather than a plain labor problem. Today I discovered that it is because many girls who work look at it that way themselves. This letter provided my sudden illumination: "Dear Miss Grey: 'I am working in a very pleasant office, but I have never got along at all with the girl at the head of my department. Today I asked the boss a question and he referred me to the lady manager. 'I told him perfectly politely that I positively would not take any orders from a woman, and he said then I'd better stop taking any orders in that office. 'My boss is a real good sort, and I want to get back into good standing with him, so how can I manage it?' 'INDEPENDENT. Perfectly willing to be bossed by a man! But will not take orders from a woman! I have heard a dozen girls say that. And if this isn't a sex problem it can't be classified. And this is one of the reasons women do not deserve, in the estimation of the average employer, either the good positions or the high wages for which they consider themselves qualified. If woman relies on sex attraction to help her, she is doomed to remain in sex slavery from which economic independence is supposed to free her. If she indulges in sex antipathy, the repulsion between woman and woman, the result is still the same, for woman AGAINST woman means woman FOR man. Either way, she lays herself open to exploitation. Will she never find a different way? STANLEY BELL PRINTING CO. "adv."

Why Spring Brings Out Freckles and Eruptions
 The sudden appearance of freckles, slight eruptions or fine lines at this season is attributed by scientists to the "actinic ray," which is usually active during the spring months. Where the skin is so affected by this influence it will procure a ounce of common mercurochrome wax at any drug store, apply a little of it before retiring. Like cold cream, she can easily overcome the trouble. When the wax is washed off next morning, flaky skin particles come with it. The entire outer cuticle is removed in this way in a week or so, with all its defects. No bleach could so effectively remove freckles or blemishes. The new surface is smooth, clear, fresh looking. No pain or inconvenience accompanies this simple treatment. In case of wrinkles which sink beneath the outer skin, a solution of salicylic 1 oz., dissolved in 1/2 pint witch hazel, makes a face bath which is wonderfully effective. "Advertisement."

Personal and Social

A novelty in Tacoma musical entertainments will be seen Friday night when the Ladies' Musical club presents a theatrical concert of Indian music at the Tacoma theater. Sixty women, thoroughly trained for six weeks, will present the music. The Sunset Song of the Zunis and the Medicine Chant of the Apaches are two of the most striking numbers.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Norwegian Lutheran church, South Tacoma, will meet in the church parlors tomorrow with Mrs. C. Nygaard as hostess.

Miss Pauline Endris and Miss Lois Bell will appear at an entertainment at the Y. W. C. A. tomorrow night given by the Business Girls' club.

St. Joseph hospital nurses will be hostesses at a ball in Sloan's hall Tuesday evening.

Plans are being made by Tacoma women to give a cordial welcome to Mrs. Mat Wright Sewall, educator and suffragist, when she reaches this city April 29.

Miss Arizona B. Wimple, who gained a wide reputation through her progressive work as city food inspector here, and who later was made state bakery inspector by Gov. Lister, was married quietly this afternoon to Dr. Frederick Park Calkins of Ellensburg, at Seattle.

A concert will be given tomorrow evening in the Swedish Methodist church, South 11th and J sts., under the auspices of the Epworth league. Numbers by the Thule Singing society will be a feature, as will songs by Marton Carlson, tenor, and Miss Elsie Moe.

USING SOAP SPOILS THE HAIR

Soap should be used very sparingly, if at all, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it. The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulattified coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), is cheaper and better than soap or anything else you can use. One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage. You can get mulattified coconut oil at any pharmacy, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

Pioneer Woman Deplores Modern Sex Instruction

Mrs. Addie Barlow, a Stella-oom pioneer, last night before the Research club of the Washington State Historical society declared that sex instruction for boys and girls is killing modesty among girls and manliness in young men.

Mrs. Barlow told of the early days in Stella-oom, when she said, the girls were modest and the youths manly; when they danced until daybreak; when a person's social status was judged by his personal behavior, and when the children were pure and innocent.

"We are sorry—so sorry," concluded Mrs. Barlow, "that our young girls in their 'teens cannot today have this innocent good time."
