

BUY IT NOW!

Say,
Do you remember when you were a kid,
How they used to tell you
About throwing a pebble into a pond,
And how it made a ripple
That went on, and on, and on, and on
Until it reached the distant shore,
Or something like that?
And when you got big enough
You went to the minstrel show
And saw the end man
And the middle man
Show off ten dollars' worth of debts
In about five minutes,
By passing from Tambo to Bones,
And from Bones to Rastus,
And from Rastus to Ephraim
And from Ephraim to Lijah
And so on around the half circle?
And then, when you were sent up
To college,
The high-brow Professor
Tried to explain the same thing?
You remember?
Well,
This is no talk on Political Economy
Or anything like that;
It's just a gentle hint
To the effect that Right Now
Is a good time for you
To start a little ripple of your own,
A good time
To start your dollars
Moving around the circle.
Pay off your debts,
Buy what you need,
And buy it now.
Get things started.
Put money in circulation.
That's good sense,
And patriotism,
And good business.
Every ripple in the pond,
No matter how small,
Helps break the stagnation.
Get busy
And make a splash,
"Buy it now"
And get your money back.

THEATRICAL

John Drew Next Week In His Famous Success, "Rosemary"

John Drew, famous actor, who comes to the Tacoma theater Wednesday night in "Rosemary."

John Drew's great success, "Rosemary," coming to the Tacoma Wednesday, is a play that is charmingly wholesome and one that is thoroughly enjoyed by all theatergoers who like the best that is produced in drama upon the stage today. While "Rosemary" is not a new play, it having been produced by Charles Frohman for Mr. Drew almost 20 years ago, its story is as sweet and appealing and as full of excellence as any one could desire. The theme of "Rosemary" is the love of a bachelor past first youth for a lovely young girl already betrothed to her young sweetheart. She comes into his life like a ray of sunshine and makes him feel years younger and she, flattered by this chivalrous gentleman, sees her impetuous lover at a great disadvantage. As Sir Jasper Thorndyke, the bachelor, Mr. Drew is said never to have had a part that fitted him so well. The supporting company is one of unusual excellence, each and every part being in the hands of competent players.

HOCK MAY PLEAD GUILTY OF ASSAULT

"He was too quick on the trigger. Otherwise I should not care to prosecute him at all."
This was the statement yesterday made by Prosecutor Remann in regard to William Hook, the aged recluse who fired a double charge of bird-shot into a party of joy-riders who had kept him awake with their singing and shouting and finally smashed two beer bottles up against his shank last Summer. As it is, the charge will probably be third degree assault. Hook might plead guilty and receive a year's suspended sentence.

Registration Books Are Open Tonight

For the benefit of those who wish to register so that they can sign the referendum petitions, the books at the city hall will be open this evening until 10 o'clock.
The custom of keeping the books open late Saturday evening will be continued as long as there are enough registrations to warrant the expenditure.
Mayor Fawcett has given his approval to five of the referendum petitions, and has signed them personally.

TACOMA MAN'S SONG TO BE HEARD AT CAFE

"My Northern Dusky Flower," the song by M. R. Noreen of Tacoma, will be sung at Helm's cafe this evening by Miss Vera Cook.
Noreen, a former soldier in the hospital service in Alaska, had the inspiration for his song there. It is his first attempt at composition.
He has sent a number of copies around the country, one of them to President Wilson, as commander of the army. He has another song which he says is even better than this one.

TWILIGHT SLEEP

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the last of three interviews with Dr. Francis B. Wakefield, an authority on the new "painless childbirth" in which the scopolamin treatment has been explained in detail.)

"Perhaps the most remarkable feature of the twilight sleep or painless childbirth treatment effected through the use of the drug scopolamin, and doubtless its greatest blessing is the almost total absence of physical exhaustion and nervous disorders following labor in these cases," says Dr. Francis B. Wakefield.

"The patient undergoing childbirth without strain upon her nervous system and without the terrible exhaustion of having to bear it in full consciousness, comes out of her labor without any of the effects of breakdown usually following childbirth.

"As a result all her vital functions are in perfect working order. She feels muscularly strong and fit; there is no impairment of the digestive functions; no nervous irritability.
"Women who have been spared suffering through twilight sleep make surprisingly rapid convalescence. They are often up and about within 48 hours after the ordeal. They call for and eat the heartiest meals directly afterward. They are almost invariably able to furnish an adequate supply of natural food for their babies. And they are able to go about their household duties within one-fourth the time it required mothers under the old method to recover. They take home well nourished babies who continue to thrive.
"Most of these mothers marvel at the even temper of their babies; at the notable absence of fretting and crying.
"Boon to Delicate Women.
"The coddled woman who all her life has been spared work and muscular exertion and upon whom pain in consequence descends with crushing force, especially the onset of childbirth, is the most enthusiastic of all twilight sleep patients when her baby has arrived without her recollection of any pangs.
"It is among this class of women, too, quite naturally, that childbirth is regarded with the greatest dread. That the scopolamin treatment robbing it of its apprehensions will result in many more children from this social class, seems to be a reasonable deduction.
"To appreciate the miracle of scopolamin as an amelioration of delivery one must have seen these women of hyper-sensitive nerves and delicate physique undergo the old obstetrical treatment in full consciousness and the scopolamin treatment of semi-conscious labor in which there is no recollection of pain.
"Confusion of Treatments.
"Several years ago in this country and in Germany, there was in use a tablet containing morphine, scopolamin and cocaine, which was quite extensively employed in obstetrical cases. Its use was soon discarded because even if given in sufficient quantity to produce mental cloudiness, an amount of morphine was used that was deleterious and even dangerous to the infant as well as the mother.

ETHEL DE GOMEZ, another "Twilight Sleep" baby. When this picture was taken baby Gomez was nearing eight months old. She weighed 17½ pounds and was in perfect health, never having been sick since her birth.

"This has been confused with the present day scopolamin treatment. Some doctors are still using these tablets and calling the treatment the twilight sleep. Many of the wild tales today circulated about scopolamin undoubtedly arise from the bad effects resulting from the combined drugs in these tablets.

"The scopolamin treatment as now used successfully is one in which morphine is not used, except for one exceedingly small dose with scopolamin at the outset of confinement to minimize the preliminary pains until the second dose of scopolamin is given about an hour later.

"From that time on no other drug save the latter is administered. Morphine is quite unnecessary to produce and maintain twilight sleep.
"Wild Talks Discounted.
"The claim in some quarters that scopolamin treatment for childbirth permanently affects the brain or reason of the patient is ridiculous. In fact, hyaline, so closely related to scopolamin as to be practically identical, is used for the very purpose of curing mental aberration as well as to cure drug habits.

"There isn't the slightest trace of scopolamin left in the system three hours after the final injection during the childbirth treatment. As has already been said, some of the cases where the old form of scopolamin-morphine-cocaine tablets were given, and where bad effects have been noted, are today being attributed to the pure scopolamin treatment which is without danger.

"It is unfortunate that the most unreasoning opposition to scopolamin as an aid in obstetrics should come from within the profession, most often from men who have not investigated it—just as it came in opposition to chloroform when that great boon was a new thing."

ROOT'S BOOMERS RIDING FOR FALL

BY GILSON GARDNER.
WASHINGTON, April 24.—That the voters of the country are keen to turn over the government to some representative of the special interests is the theory on which the republican managers are booming Elihu Root for president.

Root is particularly the representative of privilege. He was counsel for the tobacco trust and framed the plans and specifications on which this and most of the other biggest and most predatory trusts of recent times were constructed.

When he was elected to the senate he announced himself to be a republican "of the Hamiltonian school"—which is a learned way of saying that he does not believe in giving power to the people.

Senator of Privilege
In the senate Root stood consistently for all legislation favoring special privilege as against legislation for the public welfare.

The plan to nominate Root proceeds on the theory that the people are tired of being asked to give any attention to their political welfare and are willing to

THOUSANDS WITNESS SUBMARINE MOVIES

The submarine operating cage, in which under-water motion pictures of fish and divers were taken.

Tonight is the last time to see the famous Williamson submarine motion pictures, that have attracted big audiences to the Tacoma theater all week. The pictures are probably the most remarkable ever exhibited here.

REFERENDUM FIGHT GOES MERRILY ON

"Far from discouraging us, the supreme court decision which validates certain 'emergency' clauses which the legislature tacked onto bills which they were afraid to leave up to the people, only spurs us on to greater efforts," says Rea Last, secretary of the Washington State Referendum League.

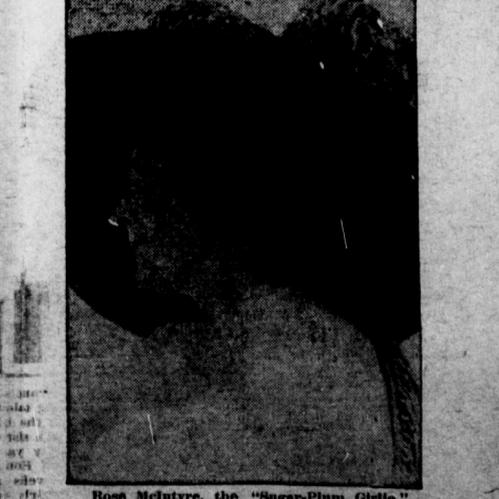

The action of the supreme court, which means that the people never can apply the principle of the referendum to the Rankin law, nor to the anti-jitney law, nor to the benefit - of - money-changers law, nor to the anti-jitney law.

But there are still the famous Senate Bill No. 301, which will prevent municipal ownership in the future, unless the referendum is successful; the bill which aims to destroy Seattle's port commission, which stands between Seattle consumers and the private waterfront monopoly; the anti-picketing bill, and the bills which seek to hamstring the people's own constitutional initiative, referendum and recall.

All Fun and Music On Monday Opening Bill at the Pantages

Rose McIntyre, the "Sugar-Plum Girlie."

There will be lots of fun on the new Pantages program, starting Monday. It is a bill that abounds in comedy, with just enough variation to make it rich in good features and variety.

"A Day in Hickville" heads the bill. It is an elaborately staged comedy sketch introducing Seth Dewberry, constable of Bungville, and other funny characters. Ed Reynard impersonates most of the characters. He is one of the best ventriloquists that ever came over the circuit.
