ANNETTE KELLERMAN'S IDEAS OF REALISM APPAL PRODUCERS

Annette Kellerman, "the diving Venus," has decided to remain in the movies and to forsake the vaudeville stage forever. But no cheap productions for Miss Annette!

When Miss Kellerman signed a contract to act for one of the large movie producers (it was stipulated that she be allowed the privilege of working out her own themes—SO

She took a company of nearly two hundred people to Jamaica, British West Indies, and in Montego bay had an under-water city built. Tremendous glass cages were used and the "set" covered several acres before it was finished. Sea weed of fantastic shape was used, and members of the funny-tribe unconsciously became movie actors to carry out Miss Kellerman's idea.

Then to make her film more realistic, the little lady decided to take the company to Robinson Crusoe island and to Yucatan, "the land of mystery." The owners of the company held up their hands in horror at the thought of the expense, but Miss Kellerman was obdurate. The company went.

International Intrigue Carries Plot of "The Clue" at Colonial

Blanche Sweet has the leading role in "The Clue," a clever detective drama at the Colonial theater Sunday.

A political-detective drama in which the spies of hostile governments and clever secret service men cross swords and wits, is "The Clue," with beautiful Blanche Sweet, which will open at the Colonial Sunday.

Miss Sweet has the role of Christine Lesley, to whom Count Boris Ruloff, a Russian adventurer, is paying court while visiting America on his way to London, where he is to turn over to the German government, a man of the Japanese coast defenses that he and his brother, Alexis, have obtained in the Orient. Alexis, at the same time is trying to win the hand and fortune of the wealthy Eva Bertram, whose brother, Guy, is the rival of Boris in the affection of Christine. Guy's valet, Nogi, is an agent of the Japanese government, and having discovered that Alexis has the map is seeking to regain possession of it.

On the very night Boris is planning to leave for London, his brother Alexis, is murdered in the sunken garden of the Bertram estate. Eve offers a reward of $10,000 for the capture of the murderer. The only clue appears to be the Russian coin, which Boris gave to Christine and which in turn Christine had given to Guy. It then develops that Guy believes he killed Alexis, though
