

Silver Grill Cellars Closing Out Wines and Liquors

You've probably read about all kinds of bargain sales—the sort of sales that one finds regularly in department store advertising, but it takes the Silver Grill Cellars to mark a new venture by putting on a bargain sale of wines and liquors, cordials, etc.

CONFESSIONS OF A WIFE (Copyright, 1915, by Newspaper Enterprise Association.) "At the sight of her sweet little appealing face, my whole heart went out to her," continued Mr. Stuart.

"Oh, Malcolm," she whispered, "what makes you take the part of these ignorant men against father?" "Can't you understand, sweetheart, that it is because they are ignorant that I must help them to get their own in spite of the greed of the corporation of which your father is the head?"

"But if you persist in this we cannot be sweethearts any more." "Why not, what have the troubles of a lot of miners got to do with our big beautiful love?" "Everything. Why, Malcolm, I am afraid if Dad even knew I was here talking to you he would never do anything for us."

"Even that should not change anything between you and me. I don't want him to do anything for us." "But Dad would leave all his money to my brother." "Couldn't you be happy without it?" "Yes, I guess I could, but it seems so easy to get some of it too. I think if you really loved me you would not go against Dad."

"I am not going against your father, sweetheart, only against the methods he employs." "Dad says you have practically called him a cheat." "I was silent and she continued, 'then you won't do this for me.'"

"I can't, dear heart." "What will I do?" "You will have to choose between your father and me. I know it is a hard thing I am asking of you but you would despise me did I do differently."

"Yes, I know, dear, I know, but we could be happier if he gave us. He always said he was going to settle a hundred thousand dollars on me on my marriage day."

"Even this reference to money did not worry me, for you see I was very much in love."

THE PHOTOPLAY THEATERS

CROWDS ATTEND BILL AT LIBERTY

Capacity crowds turned out yesterday to see the first of the Triangle programs at the Liberty theater, much to the gratification of E. L. Davenport, who has just assumed exclusive management of the Pacific avenue house.

The Triangle productions are being shown in the east at high prices and have just been adooled as the attraction of some of the largest Seattle and Portland houses.

Public Wants Class. Speaking concerning his new venture, Mr. Davenport had this to say: "I have long been impressed with the belief that patrons of moving picture theaters would be willing to pay a slightly increased price of admission provided the offering was of a superior quality. I have never been imbued with the idea that the general public was partial to the "sensational" production, so-called. I am a firm believer in the "happy-ending" picture—the picture that builds up to a clean, wholesome logical climax.

"The general public is not familiar with the prevailing method of marketing motion picture productions, and, for that reason, I have been subjected to a certain amount of adverse criticism because I have been virtually compelled to offer certain productions of a semi-sensational character. First Bill a Hummer.

"Having my own ideas as to what was acceptable and appropriate in the way of picture programs, I immediately, on securing control of the Liberty, made a consistent effort to secure the very best program available. That I have succeeded the general public will, I have faith to believe, admit after viewing my initial effort produced by the Triangle Film corporation. "My initial program, for instance, embraces seven reels of super-feature pictures, and I shall offer it for seven days in order that the general public may have every opportunity to measure its merits. I offer a five-reel drama, "The Iron Strain," and a two-reel comedy, "A Grain Old Knight." The former was produced under the direction of Thomas H. Ince.

"Infatuation," With Margarila Fischer, Is Great Movie Drama

Joseph Singleton and Margarita Fischer in "Infatuation," at the Apollo until Wednesday.

"Infatuation," featuring one of the screen's most popular stars, Margarita Fischer, opened to packed business at the Apollo yesterday. "Infatuation" is the story of the daughter of a multimillionaire who falls in love with her, but only later that some of her father's money that she thought should be hers would be deflected from her.

"Sweetheart, I'll make arrangements and tomorrow you will be mine forever—my wife," I whispered. "Do you think father will forgive us when he finds out?" "I don't know, but whether he does or not, I will make you happy."

"Yes, I know, dear, I know, but we could be happier if he gave us. He always said he was going to settle a hundred thousand dollars on me on my marriage day."

MOVIE CROWDS STAND IN RAIN Many persons stood in line in the rain yesterday waiting to see "The Spoilers," which opened a four-day farewell engagement at the Melbourne.

Produced in nine reels by Selig and featuring William Farnum and Kathlyn Williams.

TODAY'S BILLS AT THE MOVIES APOLLO "Infatuation," with Margarita Fischer. COLONIAL "Tess of the Storm Country," with Mary Pickford. LIBERTY "The Iron Strain," with Dustin Farnum and Erid Markoy. MELBOURNE Farewell visit of "The Spoilers."

EXQUISITE IN ROLE OF 'TESS'

Mary Pickford, greatest success since she went into the movies, in the opinion of a majority of fans, was in "Tess of the Storm Country," which is playing a return engagement to packed houses at the Colonial this week.

The effect of Mary Pickford's wonderful interpretation of "Tess" in "Tess of the Storm Country," was seen on the country of the Colonial theater Sunday afternoon and evening when many of them swallowed hard as is to dispel a lump in their throats that would not down.

Every dramatic and tragic scene in the production plays upon the heart-strings of those who see it and the drama, pulsing with human interest, holds the audience from first to last, sometimes laughing, sometimes crying, and sometimes holding their breath.
