Vote Tomorrow For Walter L. Johnson

Voters of Tacoma School District: A brief but lively campaign for school director will come to an end tonight. Tomorrow you will decide whether you wish to continue in office Harry B. Hendley, now president of the board, or substitute one of four other candidates. The Times believes and hopes that a change will be made and that Walter L. Johnson, the labor nominee, will be elected. It is perfectly just that labor should have one representative on the board. As now composed it includes a minister, an attorney's wife, a lumberman, a druggist and a bakery proprietor. A large proportion of the children in our schools come from the homes of laboring men, so it is only fair that this large class of parents have a direct voice in school affairs. Mr. Johnson is clean, intelligent, representative, long a resident of and familiar with Tacoma, and he stands for five commendable principles which the labor unions adopted as a platform. Briefly these are: To make all Tacoma school buildings, safe, to see to the establishment of courses which will be of the greatest practical value to the pupils, to free the appointment of teachers from social and political pull, and to expend the large school fund in the most efficient possible manner. Mr. Hendley has not been an especially unfaithful or careless public servant; neither has he been a particularly zealous and intelligent one. He stands for no definite set of principles. Tacoma can well afford to make the change. Vote for Walter L. Johnson. His name appears at the extreme bottom of the ballot.

CITY TO MAKE AMUSEMENTS BEAR BURDEN

Determined to curb the tendency of Tacoma moving picture managers of raising the price of certain feature films for a few days' exhibition, the city council today decided to assess a high license rate in case of any increase in prices.

The action came during discussion of Commissioner Mills' new license ordinance, drawn recently with increases in all city licenses as a substitute for liquor fees.

By the new law, movie houses charging 5 cents admission will pay $100 annually; those charging 10 cents, $150; 15 cents, $175; and 20 cents or more, $200. If a movie house increases its admission price for only one day, it will have to take out a year's license under the increased rate, according to the ordinance.

Each house will also pay one cent a year additional for each seat, thus making a higher license for large downtown theaters.

The ordinance was not more than one-quarter finished when the council adjourned. Some of the fees adopted for 1916 are:

Schedule of Fees.
Street car advertising sign companies, $100 a year. (No license at present.)
Sign companies advertising signs on roofs or other public places, $50 a year. (None now.)
Theaters, $50 additional a year for privilege of showing movies.
Theaters charging 75 cents or more admission, $100 a year; 75 cents and less, $75 a year; vaudeville shows, $150 a year.
Penny arcades, shooting galleries, auto baseball machines, and similar devices, $10 a quarter.
Merry-go-rounds, portable skating rinks, etc., $2.50 a day.
Public entertainments or carnivals, cut from $50 to $25 a day.
Skating rinks, $100 a year.
Circuses—big shows, such as Barnum & Bailey and Ringling Bros., $300 a day; smaller shows, $200 a day.
