THROTTLING JITNEYS IN BIRTHPLACE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 19.

—The jitney is slowly being strangled to death in the city where it was born.

It is now almost extinct. The bus business has simmered down to a survival of the fittest and the "fittest" are growing fewer every day. Less than six months ago there were 2,000 jitneys in the city, while today there are only 500 left.

Drivers declare that the Pacific Electric Co., the $40,000,000 transportation corporation that for years maintained a traffic monopoly here, is, in conjunction with a pliant city council, slowly but surely throttling the jitney.

Ordinance to Death
The city council has ruled that jitneys must not run over crowded streets; that passengers must be seated in machines; that they must not stand on the running boards. If they are carried on doors of cars, the doors must be securely locked. This "crowding ordinance" councilmen declare was merely for protection of human life.

Another city law requires jitney drivers to carry an $11,000 liability bond, $10,000 for loss of life or injury and $1,000 for damage to property in possible accidents. But in case the bus driver's car is smashed he has no recourse for damages.

Six and a Half Miles
Drivers of small cars say they cannot make expenses if a fair degree of crowding is not allowed. The cost of upkeep is too great and the hauls in many cases are too long, if any money is to be made.

Many of these jitney men were wage earners out of work and with families to support. They took a chance on the jitney as a means of livelihood, making a payment down on their cars and expecting their business to wipe out their debt. They declare that too strict legislation is sounding the doom of their business.

One bus here, for instance, makes a run of six and a half miles. It takes an hour to make the round trip. The machine carries only six passengers—30 cents fare for one way, or 60 cents an hour. This is less than $5 a day for an eight-hour day. By the time a man pays for upkeep, gasoline and repairs, not to count installments on the bus, he hasn't enough left to buy grub for his family.

Not Giving Up Yet
The answer, say automobile men, is to put large bodies on the cars. But that takes money, which the little fellow doesn't have.

In spite of all the drawbacks of legislation and opposition from the multi-million dollar corporation, many bus men claim the jitney men will survive in the struggle.

John J. Sullivan, secretary of Union 300, representing a majority of jitney drivers, says: "The jitney will not be driven off the streets. It is here to stay. It is a means of quick transportation and cannot be dispensed with in a city as scattered as Los Angeles."

H. Scott Johnson, automobile man, declares the jitney will stick.

"The jitney is still in its infancy," he said. "Drivers must organize more thoroughly. Buses should be run on schedule and passengers seated in comfort. The touring car must go and the bus-body with cushioned seats, plate glass windows and electric lights must take its place."

Originated in 1914

The jitney was originated here in 1914. L. P. Draper was the pioneer jitney driver. He owned a small car, but was out of a job. To make bread and butter he stuck up a sign on his windshield and began hauling passengers for a 5-cent fare. He was soon making big money and

Improves your skin while cleansing it

Almost any soap will clean the skin and hair. Many toilet soaps are pure enough to do so without injuring these delicate textures. But those who want a soap which not only cleanses but actually helps the complexion and hair are wise to choose Resinol Soap.

The soothing, sealing properties of Resinol enable it to protect the skin and scalp from annoying eruptions, keep the complexion clear, and the hair rich and lustrous. This soap, which is merely pure and cleansing cannot be expected to do.

SAYS GERMANY'S AFTER CANADA
OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 19.—Canadian are boiling as a result of a speech made yesterday by James Longheed, government leader in the upper house of parliament. He said that Germany wanted Canada and that its shores would be invaded if the allied line was ever broken.

SIMPLE WAY TO END DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

BIG BERRY BUSINESS

PUYALLUP, Jan. 19.—That the total berry business for 1915 will be at least a third of a million dollars more than in 1914, when the business amounted to $1,250,000, is shown by the books of the Puyallup & Sumner Fruit Growers' association, which is completing its annual inventory. Last year's increase was more than 25 per cent.
